Guiding Principles- Thinking Styles

1. We must ensure that students remain the main focus behind this plan
2. How does the plan impact the students while still allowing some room for creativity?
3. What are the needs of the people- what really matters and how do we address these needs?
4. We must ensure the voice of the community and other stakeholders is heard.
5. How can we break down the barriers of implementation?
6. There must be trust in order for there to be “buy-in”
7. Patience within the process and with people who may have different thinking styles
8. Everyone must be involved and included in decision making
