Chamber Orchestra Kremlin, One of Russia's Best, to Perform at FSU

FSU's Cultural Events Series proudly presents the Chamber Orchestra Kremlin Sunday, Nov. 12, at 3 p.m. and Tuesday, Nov. 14, at 7:30 p.m., both in the PAC Pealer Recital Hall.

The Sunday performance will feature Mozart's "Divertimento in F, K. 138," Prokofiev's "Visions of Fugitives, Op. 22" and Tchaikovsky's "Souvenir de Florence, Op. 70."

Tuesday's show will consist of Mozart's "Divertimento in D, K. 136," Shostakovich's "Chamber Symphony, Op. 110 bis," and Tchaikovsky's "Serenade for Strings, Op. 48."

A community outreach program will also be part of the Nov. 14 performance. The Orchestra will hold an open rehearsal and interaction with the audience from 6 to 7 p.m. prior to the 7:30 p.m. performance. For information, contact Susan Manger at x3163.

Chamber Orchestra Kremlin has emerged as one of Russia's leading orchestras. Music Director Misha Rachlevsky brings considerable experience to his position. Trained as a violinist in the Russian tradition, he left Moscow in 1973 for a career taking him to three continents. Returning to Moscow, he was approached by Clave to record Russian works. He auditioned Moscow's finest young orchestral musicians, and Chamber Orchestra Kremlin was born.

For tickets and information, call x4411 between 10 a.m. and 2 p.m. weekdays. Dinner theatre combinations with Guiseppe's are available. Call for information and menu selections.

"Darkness" Author to Speak for Kristallnacht

Leo Bretholz, author of "Leap into Darkness: Seven Years on the Run in Wartime Europe" will speak at FSU's annual observance of Kristallnacht, the event that is considered by many to be the beginning of the Holocaust. The observance will be Wednesday, Nov. 8, at 7:30 p.m. in the Performing Art Center's Pealer Recital Hall.

Collegium Musicum will perform, and Hillel will conduct a candle-lighting ceremony. Bretholz's talk will be fol-

M.Ed./Administration Earns Recognition

One of 42 accredited nationwide

FSU's master of education program in administration and supervision has joined an exclusive club: It is one of only 42 supervisory programs nationwide to receive national recognition by the National Council for Accreditation of Teacher Education.

"National recognition boosts faculty morale and positions FSU as a leader in the state," said Dr. Susan Arisman, dean of the FSU College of Education.

NCATE accreditation has been mandated by the state of Maryland. FSU's programs are either currently under review or have already been approved. Accredited programs include the master in education in reading, the undergraduate program in mathematics education and the early childhood education program. In addition, the FSU elementary education program is part of a pilot study of new national NCATE standards.

NCATE estimates there are about 500 universities and colleges that offer programs in educational administration. Only 16 states are represented among the 42 accredited educational administration programs. FSU's program is offered at its Frostburg campus and the FSU Hagerstown Center.

Recreation Program Gains Accreditation

FSU's Recreation and Parks Management program has received accreditation from the National Recreation and Parks Association/American Association for Leisure and Recreation, a distinction reached by just over a quarter of the U.S. institutions that offer undergraduate recreation curricula.

FSU received the honor at the NRPA national conference in Phoenix, Ariz., in early October.

FSU Student Chosen for "Daily Show" Gig

While you're checking out election results this Tuesday, watch for senior psychology major Emily Dorezas, who recently was chosen to serve as a special election night correspondent for Comedy Central's "Daily Show with Jon Stewart," the nightly news parody on the cable network.

Emily Dorezas

As part of her prize package, Dorezas will fly to New York City for a six-night stay and act as the live online correspondent from Comedy Central's "Indecision 2000" election-night party. She will also show up in clips during the TV show's election-night coverage.

Election night coverage begins at 10 p.m. on Comedy Central. For her online work, log on to www.comedycentral.com/indecision2000/

Dorezas auditioned for the gig at a local wine-tasting festival. She was selected as one of four finalists who were later voted for online. Emily, who often does stand-up comedy, walked away with 43 percent of the online vote by performing a little campaigning of her own. "I put up posters in the FSU computer labs. And, also, I have a lot of friends who are bored at work and could get online and vote for me."

Her audition included reading cue cards with a "late-breaking bulletin" about New York GOP Chairman William Powers verbally attacking Hillary Clinton. Dorezas ad-libbed a line about her grandfather carrying a photo of Powers in his purse and challenged Powers to answer "why." The improv was not new to Dorezas, who has been doing stand-up for about a year. She spent the summer in Chicago bartending and performing at open mic nights at the Windy City's comedy clubs. She frequently takes a break from her FSU studies to travel to Chicago and perform.

Growing up in Elkton, Md., Dorezas, who was voted "Most Likely to Host a Late Night Talk Show" in high school, was inspired by comedians Bob Newhart, Eddie Murphy and Ellen DeGeneres.

While in the Big Apple, she is looking forward to meeting Senator Bob Dole who serves as an election analyst for Comedy Central. "He should be there (at the party.) I don't think he's doing anything else on election night."

Fame, fortune or otherwise, Dorezas plans to move to Chicago after her December graduation. Will she include her alma mater in her comedy act?

"I already have," she quips. "There's loads of material."

BRETHOLZ

lowed by a question-and-answer session.

"Leap into Darkness," which Bretholz wrote with Baltimore Sun columnist Michael Olesker, is the gripping account of Bretholz as a young boy and his series of audacious escapes from the Nazis' Final Solution. He survived the Holocaust by escaping from the Nazis (and others) not once, but seven times during his almost seven-year ordeal crisscrossing war-torn Europe.

He leaped from trains, outran police and hid in attics, cellars, anywhere that offered a few more seconds of safety. First he swam the River Sauer at the German-Belgian border. Later he climbed the Alps on feet so battered they froze to his socks—only to be turned back at the Swiss border. He crawled out from under the barbed wire of a French holding camp and hid in a village in the Pyrenees while gendarmes searched it. And in the dark hours of one November morning, he escaped from a train bound for Auschwitz.

Bretholz arrived in the United States in 1947 and settled in Baltimore, where he worked in the textile business and then as a bookseller for many years. He continues to lecture extensively about his Holocaust memories.

Collegium Musicum will sing two pieces. One is "Zot Jerushalayim" (This is Jerusalem), arranged by Karen Sarnaker. The other is "Zol Shoyn Kumen Di Ge'uleh" (Let the Redemption Come) a poem by Shmerke Kaczerginski, set to music by Joshua Jacobson. Kaczerginski was one of those Holocaust survivors who traveled around Europe visiting the displaced persons and sending a message of courage and hope. His poem expressed the feelings of the survivor trying to make a new beginning, determined never to give up on life, faith in humanity or the vision of a better world.

When 16 Americans were marooned on an island in the South China Sea, no one could have predicted that their adventure would be documented to become the highest-rated summer series in television history. In the show's premise, the castaways eliminated each other one by one from the remote tropical island and the lone survivor walked away with $1,000,000.

Cordy joined "Survivor" for the challenge.

She stayed for the adventure and used her strength, skills and determination to become a leader in her tribe.

Refusing to join an alliance, Cordy was voted off the island in episode seven by the "Tagi Four" because she was viewed as a threat.

A homemaker and part-time worker at a pre-school, Cordy lives in Clarksville, Tenn. Originally from New York City. She attended Freedom High School in Bethlehem, Pa., and spent six years as a survival instructor for the U.S. Air Force where she earned the Cadre Award from her survival instructor training class (for being the person who most exemplifies the spirit of survival).

Cordy's presentation at FSU is sponsored by the FSU Campus Activities Board, Residence Hall Association and Student Government Association. For more information, call the Lane Center Info. Desk at x4411.

FSU's program is the only accredited four-year program in Maryland.

The accreditation applies to all of FSU's collaborative programs with The Community College of Baltimore County (CCBC), Garrett Community College and Allegany College of Maryland.

In addition, FSU was commended by the same organization for its collaborative program, in particular for the program with CCBC Catonsville and its effort to bring under-represented groups in to the recreation industry, according to Dr. Susan Arisman, dean of the FSU College of Education.

Started in 1977, the program currently has about 90 majors at all its sites.

The process of accreditation took more than a year and a half, including preparing a self-study for review by the NRPA, as well as a campus visit by two academics and a practitioner in the recreation industry.

"It's the process of quality assurance, and that's what we're into in this college - quality," said Dean Arisman.

Accreditation allows graduates of the FSU program to sit immediately for the Certified Park and Recreation Specialist exam, according to Dr. Robert B. Kauffman, director of the recreation program and an associate professor of Recreation and Parks. Graduates of other programs are required to complete additional coursework.

It also gives the University added visibility and credibility when defending its programs to state decision-makers, he said. Accreditation indicates that the University has put a significant amount of resources into the program and that it is "fulfilling the body of knowledge considered to be the standards for one going into the field," Kauffman said.

Speakers

“An Evening with John Waters” to Be Nov. 15

He has been called “the Baron of Bad Taste,” “the Pope of Trash” and “the Sultan of Sleaze.” Now acclaimed and campy moviemaker John Waters will discuss all forms of shock value in film at FSU.

The FSU Campus Activities Board will present an evening lecture with Waters on Wednesday, Nov. 15, at 7 p.m. in the Manicur Assembly Hall of the campus Lane Center. The event is free and open to the public.

Waters will discuss all forms of shock value in film - the beauty of “good bad taste,” his crackpot obsessions and his vision of worldwide trashiness in all forms of entertainment.

From his notorious “Pink Flamingos” to “Polyester” in Odorama to the more mainstream “Hairspray,” “Serial Mom” and “Cecil B. DeMented,” Waters’ films have spanned over three decades of “good bad taste.” His views on censorship and society are hit upon in a unique way during his presentation that will make audiences laugh at the absurdity of what society has deemed as right vs. wrong.

For more information, contact the Lane Center Information Desk at x4411.

Philosophical Forum: ‘God and The Big Bang’

The Department of Philosophy’s Philosophical Forum, “God and the Big Bang,” will be Monday, Nov. 6, from 7 to 8:30 p.m. in Lane Center 201.

Presenters will be Dr. Greg Latta, Dr. Greg Klebanoff and Dr. Angelo Bucchino. Latta, an associate professor of physics, will briefly explain the experimental evidence for the Big Bang – how we know there was a Big Bang. Klebanoff, lecturer in the Department of Philosophy, will be the featured speaker. He will examine the strength of recent claims that science has shown that our universe is divinely “fine-tuned” so as to permit our existence. Bucchino, a professor of philosophy, will discuss arguments for the existence of God and suggestions for strengthening the “fine-tuning” argument.

Audience participation will be invited following the presentations. The forum is free and open to the public.

Acclaimed Novelist John Dufresne to Appear

Writer John Dufresne will come to FSU for a fiction reading and book signing on Thursday, Nov. 9, at 7:30 p.m. in the Lane Center’s Alice R. Manicur Assembly Hall (Multi-Use Room). Sponsored by FSU’s Department of English and the Western Maryland Writers’ Workshop, this event is free and open to the public.

A native of Worcester, Mass., Dufresne brings an eclectic background as social worker, cab driver, bartender, house painter and actor, among others, to his fiction. He holds an MFA in creative writing from the University of Arkansas.

Dufresne’s novel “Louisiana Power and Light,” named a Barnes & Noble Discover Great Writers selection and a New York Times Notable Book, is being made into a movie by Miramax Films. Oscar-winner Billy Bob Thornton will star in and direct the production, with the screenplay to be written by Dufresne.

His second novel, “Love Warps the Mind a Little,” also named a New York Times Notable Book, inspired the following comment from The New York Times Book Review: “It is the ability of Mr. Dufresne...to render big-picture agony in its tiniest domestic moments that makes his book both astounding and wise.” Dufresne has also published a collection of short stories titled “The Way That Water Enters Stone.” He is working on a new novel, “Deep in the Shade of Paradise,” due out in fall 2001, and a novel about love and death in Louisiana titled “Shiver-de-Freeze.”

For information, contact Brad Barkley of the English Department at x3092. To learn more about Dufresne, visit his Web site at www.johndufresne.com.

Music

Violin-Piano Duo to Present Concert

The FSU Department of Music Guest Artist Series will host the Laura Kobayashi and Susan Keith Gray Duo in concert Thursday, Nov. 9, at 8 p.m. in the Performing Art Center Pealer Recital Hall. It is free and open to the public.

Violinist Kobayashi and pianist Gray are widely praised for their technique, expressive musicianship, impeccable ensemble and stimulating programming. Touring throughout the United States, they perform standard works and highlight works by women composers. They recently completed “Boldly Expressive: Music by Women,” released on the Albany Records Label.

The program, titled “Music by Women Composers,” includes “Romance, op. 22” and “Elegie, Op. 34,” by Dora Pejacevic; “Allegory” by Serra Miyeum Hwang; Grazyna Bacewicz’s “Sonata No. 3 for Violin and Piano,” and Dame Ethel Mary Smyth’s “Sonata in A minor for Violin and Piano, Op. 7.”

Kobayashi is a member of the West Virginia University faculty, where she teaches violin and chamber music and performs with the West Virginia Piano Quartet.

Gray is a member of the piano faculty at the University of South Dakota and a member of that university’s Rawlins Piano Trio.

Opera Class to Present “Hansel and Gretel”

FSU’s Department of Music’s Opera Workshop Class will present the opera “Hansel and Gretel” by Engelbert Humperdinck Friday, Nov. 10, and Saturday Nov. 11, at 8 p.m. in the Performing Arts Center Drama Theatre.

Scenes from Bizet’s “Carmen” and Strauss’ “Die Fledermaus” will also be performed.

Performers include Lauren Aycock, Natalie Clark, Elizabeth Collins, Johanna Eckhart, Derrick Jackson, Brian Kosior, Jen McClellan, Autumn Monahan and Brenda J. Pease.

The production is under the direction of Richard Kagey and the musical direction of Kathryn Sincell-Corwell, with Kimberly Andrews accompanying. It is suitable for all ages. This production is partially sponsored by the FSU Performing Arts Center.

The performance is free and open to the public. For more information, call the Department of Music at x4109.

Emmanuel Episcopal, FSU Present Evensong

Emmanuel Episcopal Church and the FSU Department of Music will present a Choral Evensong Sunday, Nov. 12, at 8 p.m. at Emmanuel Episcopal, 16 Washington St. in Cumberland.

The Evensong program will feature the FSU Collegium Musicum and the Emmanuel Episcopal Chancel Choir under the direction of Dr. Karen Soderberg, accompanied by Kimberly Andrews and Mark Stotler.

The program includes Arvo Pärt’s “Magnificat,” Henry Purcell’s “Let My Prayer Come Up,” Alexandre Grechaninoff’s “Niñe otpuschcháyeshi,” Op. 34, No. 1 (Te Deum), “Ave Maris Stella” by Xavier Busto and “Laudate Dominum” from the “Vesperae solennes de confessore” by Wolfgang Amadeus Mozart, performed by soprano Elizabeth Collins from Greenbelt, Md.

The program is free and open to the public.

Entertainment

Int’l Film Series Presents “Carne Tremula”

FSU’s 2000-2001 International Film Series continues with “Carne Tremula,” on Tuesday, Nov. 7, at 7 p.m. in Lane Center room 201. The series is sponsored by Center Stage and the Lane Center & Campus Activities.

Directed by Pedro Almodóvar, the most internationally acclaimed Spanish filmmaker since Luis Buñuel, this 1997 film explores life, love and desire. It was later released in the United States as "Live Flesh."

When Victor Plaza is sent to jail for a crime he didn't commit, he unknowingly becomes a catalyst in the lives of the two cops, a philandering wife and the diplomat's daughter who put him there. Seven years later he emerges still in his 20's and full of pride, yet haunted by anger at the years he lost. But instead of revenge he finds redemption, while the other players learn through their contact with Victor that hope cannot be smothered and redemption doesn't come cheap.

This and future film series showings are free and open to the public. "Carne Tremula" is in Spanish with English subtitles and has a running time of 101 minutes.

For information, contact the Lane Center Information Desk at x4411.

Take Note

Fine Dining in D.C.: Regents' Cup Returns

See Bobcat football in action in Washington when longtime state rivals, FSU Bobcats and Salisbury State University Seagulls, face off in the second annual Regents' Cup game on Saturday, Nov. 11, at RFK Stadium.

Game time is 1 p.m. Tickets are $8 for adults and $4 for students with current ID and anyone under 18. All tickets are general admission.

The Regents' Cup was created as a way for these two teams to showcase their longtime rivalry at a location halfway from each campus. The game was named in honor of the University System of Maryland Board of Regents.

Tailgating will be permitted in parking lots 7 and 8 from 10 a.m. to 12:30 p.m.

Tickets may be purchased at FSU Bookstore.

Need transportation? Bus cost will be $3 for students and $5 for faculty and staff.

For additional bus information, please contact Juliet Blank at x4151. For other details contact the Athletic Office at x4462.

Want to Have Your Own Radio Show?

Are you interested in having your own radio show? WFWM 91.9 Frostburg state's public radio station is always looking for students, FSU faculty & staff and members of the community to host radio programs in a variety of musical formats from classical to urban, from techno to jazz. For more information, contact Chuck Dicken, program director, at x4143. Or stop by the station on the ground level of Compton hall. Our entrance is across from the Performing Arts Center.

Telemarketing Alert

The University Advancement's Office of Annual Giving will be conducting its annual fall telemarketing campaign beginning Monday, Oct. 30, and continuing to Tuesday, Nov. 21. Students will be calling alumni Sundays through Thursdays from 6 to 9 p.m. in the Cordts Center Leake Room to ask for contributions to this year's Annual Fund.

The Annual Fund provides financial support through unrestricted contributions to the University's greatest needs, including student scholarships, classroom equipment, cultural events, athletic programs, faculty and staff development and alumni programs. For information, contact Chris Harmon, Director of Annual Giving, x4758.

Department of Social Work Sets Info. Session

The Department of Social Work at FSU will hold an information session Tuesday, Nov. 7, from 7 to 9 p.m.; at the Department of Social Work Offices in Guild Center 029, for persons interested in a career in social work. The meeting will include information on the curriculum requirements of the social work program at FSU.

The session is designed for people who want to learn more about the social work profession and FSU's undergraduate social work program.

Those who plan to attend are asked to call the Department of Social Work at x7497 at least one day in advance of the session.

For information, contact Kathleen H. Powell, M.S.W., at x4695.

Grad Fair for Graduating Seniors

The FSU Bookstore is sponsoring its first ever semi-annual Graduation Fair on Tuesday, November 14 in Lane Center Room 142. ALL DECEMBER GRADUATES SHOULD PLAN TO ATTEND. Stop by for some refreshments and sign up to win some prizes! While you are there, take care of ordering your cap and gown and personalized announcements if you haven't already done that. Representatives will be displaying diploma frames and class rings. The Commencement Office, Career Services Office, Graduate Office and Alumni Office will also be available to answer any questions you may have. Stop by between the hours of 10a.m. and 2p.m. See you there!

Planning a December Graduation? You Sure?

Time is running out to be cleared to participate in commencement and/or graduate in December 2000. Only graduating students who are fully cleared as completing your degree program in December 2000 will be eligible to take all final exams prior to commencement and to participate in the commencement ceremony. FINAL CLEARANCE MUST BE OBTAINED BY NOV. 22!!!

If you have not applied for graduation or received a letter from the Associate Registrar (undergraduate) or the Director of Graduate Services (graduate) confirming that you are on-track for graduation, assume that you are not.

Only these individuals can give you OFFICIAL clearance, so see them today (Pullen 144).

Undergraduate students have one last chance to request exceptions to graduation requirements or commencement participation rules. Your written request for an exception, including any documentation and supporting letters, must be received in the Office of the Provost, Hitchins 213, by 4 p.m. on Thursday, Nov. 16.

If you know you are not going to graduate or be eligible to participate in the December 2000 commencement, please have the courtesy to tell your family and friends NOW. The Academic Standards Subcommittee will not allow exceptions due to late requests. Information? Contact the Provost's Office: x4212.

Do You Know How to Use SIS and Intranet?

Space is going fast for the fall 2000 workshop on using the Student Information System and the Intranet. This hands-on session will help you locate student information such as addresses, schedules, and transcripts; as well as course information such as the number of students registered for your courses and class lists. Due to a schedule conflict, this session had to be rescheduled to MONDAY, NOV. 13, 2-4 p.m., Pullen 105A. (There are no sessions on Nov. 6 and 9.)

To reserve a space (or get on a waiting list for the next session), call the Registrar's Office, x4736. If you do not have an SIS or Intranet account, they also will help you set up accounts.

This session is part of the Extended Orientation Program for new faculty and administrators, but any interested faculty/staff are invited to attend.

Still to come:

Nov. 21 and Nov. 30: Research and Sponsored Programs

(NOTE SCHEDULE CHANGE)

Dec. 4 and 5: International Programs (plus holiday treats!)

Celebrate Achievements of Women of Color

Join a growing group of FSU female faculty and administrators to celebrate the accomplishments of women of color in higher education administration. A luncheon in our colleagues' honor is planned for Tuesday, Dec. 5, at noon at Goucher College. The guest speaker is Gwendolyn Jordan Dundy, Executive Director of NASPA, the national organization for student affairs administrators. The luncheon is sponsored by the Maryland Affiliate of the American Council on Education National Network for Women Leaders in Higher Education. The cost is $30 and reservations may be made now.

Contact Mary Gartner, ACE Institutional Representative, for reservation information and to arrange shared transportation, x4212.

"Children, Youth and Family" Presentation

There will be a presentation on "Children, Youth and Family" at the November meeting of Frostburg Branch, American Association of University Women Tuesday, Nov. 7, at 7:30 p.m. in the Community Room of the Frostburg Library, Main Street.

Participants will be Dan Arnold, Allegany County Board of Education; Sheila Dillon, Allegany County Health Department; Jay Atkinson, Department of Juvenile Justice; Dave Morgan, Allegany County Sheriff's Office; and Karen Crosby, Department of Social Services.

Light refreshment will be served following the presentation. The public is welcome.

Volunteers

United Campus Ministry

United Campus Ministry will conduct Bingo at Frostburg Village Nursing Home Monday, Nov. 6, at 7 p.m.

Points of Pride

On Sunday, Oct. 29, from 2 to 5 p.m., University Police & SAFE Communities hosted by Jennifer Drees and Karen Clark, participated in the Residence Life Downhill trick-or-treat activity. Rob Yanez-C, RLO, provided tables in the Annapolis Hall lounge area where candy, Safe reflector wrist bands, coloring books, Halloween bags, pencils, McGruff Halloween safety tips, and — the favorite of the day — reflector shoestring attachments were given out. It was a success, with more than 250 handouts given to the kids.

International

Go International at Nov. 15 Dinner Buffet

Students, faculty and staff are all invited to a buffet of international cuisine Wednesday, Nov. 15, in Room 237 of the Ort Library from 6 to 8 p.m.. Students and faculty will prepare dishes and provide entertainment from their native countries. This is a rare opportunity to learn about the many cultures and countries represented here at FSU. This event is co-sponsored by Campus Ministry and the Center for International Education.

Prestigious Awards to Go to Exotic Locations

The National Security Education Program (NSEP) offers U.S. students an opportunity to strengthen international awareness and communication in countries deemed crucial to national security. Each year the NSEP awards a number of scholarships to students who want to take part in overseas study in countries worldwide except in Western Europe, Canada, Australia and New Zealand. Scholarships cover a semester, summer or year abroad and are substantial awards. Returning students benefit from employment opportunities with the U.S. Government. This year's FSU deadline for applications is Nov. 15.

Semester Overseas for Same Price as FSU

The International Student Exchange Program (ISEP) allows FSU students to register at FSU, pay FSU tuition and housing, and then study overseas for a semester, year or summer at one of over 200 foreign locations. Students may take financial aid with them and may apply for scholarships from the CIE. Students may choose programs taught in either English or in other languages. For the price of an airline ticket, this is a great way to earn credit towards your FSU degree while enjoying life in a foreign culture. Applications for the 2001-2 academic year and for summer 2001 are now being accepted. Deadline is Nov. 14.

Intersession in Quebec, Ecuador - Apply Now!

Students who want to spend a few weeks living, studying and traveling in either Quebec or Ecuador over the intersession should visit the CIE to find out more about these programs. Application deadlines are nearing! The best way to learn a language is to speak it every day.

Study Abroad Programs

The Center for International Education offers a variety of ways for FSU students to see the world. In many cases students register at FSU during a semester abroad, and can take all financial aid with them and transfer course credit back to FSU. For information on any of the programs or scholarships that may be available, check with Dr. Amy Simes at the CIE in the Fuller House on Braddock Road, call her at x3091 or e-mail her at asimes@frostburg.edu.

Beaches, Barbecues and Kangaroos

FSU is now affiliated with AustraLearn, an organization that provides unique opportunities for students to study at a variety of universities in Australia. AustraLearn arranges cheap flights, a weeklong orientation program, advance registration and transcript evaluation. Students may choose from a variety of Australian and New Zealand universities, all offering a broad range of course offerings at campuses set in beautiful and exotic surroundings.

Pubs & Clubs in Newcastle, UK

Students interested in studying at the University of Northumbria in Newcastle, England, during the spring semester 2001 should contact the CIE. Newcastle is one of the liveliest cities in the UK, just across the Channel from Amsterdam and three hours north of London (one hour south of Edinburgh) by train. Courses are available in a wide variety of subjects. The cost is the same as one semester (in-state) at FSU, and all financial aid will transfer. Applications are being accepted for fall 2001.

Many Ways to Experience Culture Shock

FSU affiliates with the American Institute for Foreign Study (AIFS), which offers study abroad programs at universities around the world. Programs are open to all majors. The CIE is taking applications for spring semester 2001 programs. Spaces are still available in many locations. You may register at FSU and use your financial aid for all programs.

Denmark for Future Teachers

FSU has established an exchange program for education majors at a teacher's college in Copenhagen. Students spend spring semester with other international students, taking part in practice teaching and other academic projects.

Octoberfest und Mayfest in Germany

FSU students who would like to take part in UMUC's semester programs in Schwabisch Gmund in southern Germany are advised to apply to the CIE. The campus is part of the University of Maryland system, and all credits transfer back to FSU. Live in a beautiful village and study on a campus with international students from over 80 countries. All teaching is in English.

Work/Volunteer Overseas - Enhance Your Resume!

Students interested in working abroad should come by the CIE for information about internships, volunteer organizations and paid work overseas. Many organizations help students obtain jobs and work permits, and some help to arrange housing as well. Students can

Safety Message

Are You Creating an Office Hazard?

The Health and Safety Committee would like to call attention to a hazard that may be growing in faculty and staff offices: large amounts of combustibles (old newspapers, monthly magazines, cardboard, etc.) Office space is at a premium and the Maryland State Fire Code says that a large amount of combustible material is fuel for any potential fire. Office-dwellers are asked to look at your areas and remove and dispose of unwanted combustibles.

But don't create a new hazard while you're dealing with the old. Overloading trash cans can cause back injuries to anyone who has to move or lift them. If it's too heavy for you to lift, it's also too heavy for the housekeeping crew. Instead, dispose of a little extra each day.

The Safety Office will conduct unannounced inspections of offices during January break, so your help to reduce these two hazards will be greatly appreciated.
