'Brown Silk and Magenta Sunsets'

University Theatre's Season Too! presents "Brown Silk and Magenta Sunsets," a student-directed production to be performed Friday and Saturday, Dec. 13 and 14, at 8 p.m. in the Performing Art Center's F. Perry Smith Studio Theatre.

Written by P.J. Gibson, "Brown Silk" is a tantalizing tale about passion, lust and obsession as told by the lavishly rich main character Lena Larsen Salvinoni. Directed by FSU senior Tina Woodard, the cast includes Ja' Nell Taylor, Reynolds Mason, Cheronda Lee, Candice Thomas and Stevyn Carmona.

Due to strong language and adult situations, this show is not recommended for children. All tickets are $3. Call x7462 for reservations and information.

will demonstrate the products they designed, built and tested. These include a wind-powered water pump and softball pitching machines. A project by senior mechanical engineering students and a go-cart constructed by the Physics and Engineering Club will also be on display.

This event is free and open to the public. For more information, contact Linda Steele at x4137.

Int'l Film Festival Presents 'Lumumba'

FSU's Fall 2002 International Film Series will present "Lumumba" on Tuesday, Dec. 10, at 7 p.m. in the Lane University Center's Atkinson Room 201. This series is sponsored by Center Stage and the Department of Student & Community Involvement.

A gripping political thriller, the film tells the true story of the 36-year-old Patrice Lumumba, the first head of the newly independent state of the Congo in 1960, which had been under Belgian rule. He lasted only two months before his brutal assassination. Possessed with a flair for oratory and an uncompromising belief in the capacity of his homeland to build a prosperous nation independent of its former Belgium overlords, Lumumba emerges as the heroic sacrificial lamb dubiously portrayed by the international media and led to slaughter by commercial and political interests in Belgium, the United States, the international community and his own administration.

This film, which runs for about two hours, is free and open to the public. Refreshments will be served. For information, contact the Lane University Center Information Desk at x4411.

Center Stage/CAB Set Last Night Frostburg

Center Stage and Campus Activities Board will sponsor Last Night Frostburg with a Holiday Theme on Friday, Dec. 13, from 8 to 11 p.m. in the Lane University Center Lobby and Loft/Derezinski Lounge. There will also be refreshments served.

Center in Hagerstown. The total of 426 students is second only to the 427 who enrolled in fall 1995.

This is the fourth consecutive semester of increases, dating from a recent low of 387 in fall 2000. The Center opened in fall 1988 with 114 students.

When the 161 students are added from the Frederick Center — where undergraduate enrollments have grown from 13 at inception in 1997 to 35 now — overall, the 587 students at the two Centers comprise almost 11 percent of the total FSU enrollment.

Center Director Dr. James Shaw attributes growth primarily to expanded offerings in education, where enrollments have grown by over 100 students since spring 1999. In addition, all undergraduate majors have recently shown an increase, which Shaw attributes to two factors: a downturn in the economy — which usually sends more people back to get a degree — and the recent turnaround in enrollments at Hagerstown Community College, the principal feeder school for the FSU Hagerstown Center.

Other shifts in enrollment show declining trends in accounting, where the profession's requiring five years of college has produced a decline nationwide; and the master of business administration, where Frostburg has satisfied much of the backlog that existed over the years.

Overall, Frostburg's increased enrollments compensate for reductions in programs offered at the Center by other University System of Maryland colleges. Low enrollments have caused the University of Baltimore to withdraw its Criminal Justice program from Hagerstown, and the University of Maryland Baltimore to defer offering its Master of Social Work.

Registration is now open for the third of the System's local programs, UMB's nursing degree, as well as for all of Frostburg's programs, which include undergraduate majors in accounting, business administration, justice studies, liberal studies and sociology as well as graduate degrees in master of business administration, MBA/master of nursing, master of education, and master of arts in teaching, a program for adults who have a degree but lack certification to teach.

Prospective students can stop by the Center at 20 Public Square, phone (301) 791-4020, or check the Web at www.frostburg.edu/centers.

Ort Library Announces New Online Catalog

On Monday, Jan. 6, 2003, library users of the University System of Maryland will find they have a new and improved online catalog to assist them in accessing the libraries' collections: catalogUSMAI.

The new Web-based online catalog will provide University System of Maryland and Affiliated Institutions (USMAI) students, faculty, and other researchers with more advanced features than the previous automated library system used by the libraries since the early 1990s. Some of the new capabilities include:

- An enhanced Basic Search, with on-screen tips to guide users in searching and the ability to do keyword searches in specific areas of the catalog records, such as words in the title area;
- Ability to refine a list of search results to show only the available items, screening out items that are checked out, lost or otherwise unavailable;

- A powerful Advanced Search capability, with options to combine keyword searches in different parts of the record, (e.g. word in author Beethoven and word anywhere piano); limit searches by format (e.g., theses, or videos or online resources), by language, by range of dates or by library collection; browse lists of authors, titles, subject headings, or call numbers; use command language searching to create complex searches with maximum control over your search;

- Ability to create lists of catalog records and save them to consult when searching the catalog at a later date;
- Ability to save favorite search strategies and repeat the searches at a later date.

Library users will also be able to use the new catalog to place requests for materials in other USMAI libraries if the item is not available at their home institution, and to view their own accounts to see lists of library materials they have borrowed and review requests they have made.

On its initial release in early January, catalogUSMAI will provide access to the library catalogs of Bowie State University, Coppin State College, FSU, Morgan State University, Salisbury University, Towson University, the University of Baltimore and the University of Baltimore School of Law, the University of Maryland Center for Environmental Science, the University of Maryland Baltimore County, the University of Maryland, College Park, the University of Maryland Eastern Shore, the University of Maryland University College, and the University of Maryland Law School. Access to the library catalogs of the University of Maryland Health Sciences and Human Services Library and St. Mary's College of Maryland will be added to catalogUSMAI later in 2003.

New Group Life Insurance Provider

The Standard Insurance Co. will be the State of Maryland's new provider of group term life insurance starting Jan. 1, 2003. Employees who currently have term life insurance through Metropolitan Life will automatically roll over to the new provider unless coverage is changed or terminated during Open Enrollment. Your beneficiary designations will not, however, transfer from MetLife to Standard Insurance.

FSU employees who will have term life insurance through Standard Insurance must complete a new form to designate one or more beneficiaries. The next to last page of the 2003 Summary of Health Benefits booklet is a "Beneficiary Designation and Change Form" from Standard Insurance. Remove that form from the booklet, complete and sign it. If you have more than two primary and/or contingent beneficiaries, make a copy of the form to have enough room for all beneficiary information. Return completed forms to the Office of Human Resources and we will submit all forms to the Employee Benefits Division.

Note that this beneficiary form applies only to those employees with insurance provided by Standard Insurance (MetLife in 2002). It does not apply to employees with group life insurance from Unum.

Commencement Info

Any student planning to complete his or her studies during this semester must first officially file for graduation.

Undergraduate students should contact the Registrar's Office (x4349, 144 Pullen Hall). Special mailings and notices regarding Commencement are sent only to those students who have completed all filings.

Caps and gowns are provided at no charge to all students cleared to participate in Commencement; however, each student is responsible for placing an order in advance. Orders should be submitted to the University Bookstore as soon as possible.

Information about Commencement is always available on the University's Web site. Go to www.frostburg.edu, click on "current students," then on "academics." A drop-down screen will list Commencement. FSU to Offer Japanese Language Courses

Two courses in Japanese will be offered during the spring 2003 semester at FSU through the Department of Foreign Languages and Literature.

Both courses are open for enrollment to members of the community.

Japanese 101 is designed for entry-level students, while Japanese 102 is open to those with previous study in Japanese. Both will be offered on a Monday-Wednesday-Friday schedule.

The instructor is Maki Tanaka, an FSU English major from Dokkyo University who has received training from the Aoyama School for Japanese in teaching the language to non-native speakers. Her classes will also include aspects of Japanese culture, including the tea ceremony, Japanese cuisine and calligraphy.

For information, contact Dr. MacGregor O'Brien of the Department of Foreign Languages and Literature at x4287 or mobrien@frostburg.edu.

Points of Pride

FSU's President Catherine R. Gira has been featured in the newly published Women of Achievement in Maryland History (Anaconda Press, 2002), joining a diverse list of women that includes Rachel Carson, Emily Post and Clara Barton.

Former Frostburg State President Lillian Compton, credited with saving the college from closing in the 1940s, and the late Frostburg professor Alta Schrock, who established Penn Alps Inc., are also featured.

The biographies were divided into the categories of civil rights, education, community service, health and science, arts and culture, business and sports and law and public service. Gira and Compton were noted in the education category, and Schrock was in the community service category.

Some other honorees include Harriet Tubman, Eunice Kennedy Shriver, Lt. Gov. Kathleen Kennedy Townsend, victim's rights advocate Roberta Roper, Saint Elizabeth Ann Seton, author Anne Tyler, singer Toni Braxton, entertainer Kathie Lee Gifford, Olympic gymnast Dominique Dawes and Sen. Barbara Mikulski.

Gira was noted in the book for her ability to build consensus. Her biography states: "Gira's success and rapid rise to top leadership positions signify a commitment to higher education and a deep belief in recognizing individual merit. Said a colleague, 'Her presence and quality of leadership say every day that women belong in leadership positions.'"

Patricia Coward, English; Roger Dow, Educational Professions; Linda Lyon, Biology; Marci McClive, Business Management; John O'Rorke, Political Science; Pat Santoro, Psychology; and Dana Wortman, Computer Science, attended the 22nd National Lilly Conference on College Teaching at Miami University of Ohio in Oxford, Ohio. The three-day conference offered presentations from nationally recognized scholars in the Scholarship of Teaching. Included among the presenters was Dr. McClive, who presented two sessions, "When Students Write Their Own Cases: Satisfaction with a Constructivist Approach" and "Imagineering: Technology in Cooperative Learning," co-authored by Ron Ross, MBA.

Through a partnership with FSU's A STAR! in Western Maryland AmeriCorps program and the Western Potomac Chapter of the American Red Cross, two AmeriCorps members recently assisted the Red Cross with disaster relief efforts in Louisiana and Texas.

After several days of disaster training with the Red Cross, Kathy Cunningham and Zach Fowler traveled to Lafayette, La., in mid-October to assist workers assisting families on the Gulf Coast who were affected by tropical storms Isadore and Lili. After two weeks in Louisiana, they continued their relief work for two weeks in Corpus Christi and another week near Houston.

Cunningham, of Cumberland, and Fowler, who lives in Oakland, helped families in need of food, clothing, shelter and other items damaged or destroyed by high winds and flooding.

Cunningham's and Fowler's work sites donated their time for the cause. Cunningham performs her service with the Western Maryland Area Health Education Center and with the Share Program. Fowler serves with the Garrett County Cooperative Extension Office and works with Brown Bag Teams Program.

Christopher Harmon, (University Advancement) made a presentation, Annual Giving, "Attracting and Keeping New Donors," at Blackbaud's International Conference on Philanthropy in Charleston, S.C., Oct. 13-16. The conference is a global educational forum designed for all professionals in the field of philanthropy.

Ben Russo, a theatre major, is the first FSU student to receive the Maryland International Education Association Scholarship for study overseas. Ben will be taking part in the College Park winterterm program in Salvador da Bahia, Brazil, which focuses on "African-Brazilian History and Culture." The course introduces students to the historical and cultural landscape of Afro-Brasil, tracing the history of African-Brazilian culture and language from the early 16th century to the present. Site visits in Salvador include a Candomblé traditional center (Candomblé is an African-Brazilian religion with roots in African Yoruba ancestral traditions), a Capoeira school (for African-Brazilian dance), and other visits which expose students to African-Brazilian music and theatrical performances.

In May, Terry Tannacito, English, gave a presentation at the international Computers and Writing 2002 conference (with Frank Tuzi). Now, the hypertextual article based on that presentation is about to be published in Kairos, a refereed online journal exploring the intersections of rhetoric, technology, and pedagogy. The article, "A Comparison of E-Response: Two Experiences; One Conclusion," will appear in issue 7.3, fall 2002, at this address: <http://english.ttu.edu/kairos/index.html>

Also, In October, Tannacito gave a PowerPoint presentation at the EAPSU 2002 conference, and, in a few weeks, an article based on that presentation will be published in the conference proceedings. The title of both is "Changing Places in Professional Writing: From my Website to Blackboard's."

Scholarships are available.

Study Abroad Programs

The Center for International Education offers a variety of ways for FSU students to see the world. In many cases, students register at FSU during a semester abroad and can take all financial aid with them and transfer credit back to FSU. For information on any of the programs or scholarships that may be available, check with Dr. Amy Simes at the CIE in the Fuller House on Braddock Road, call her at x3091 or e-mail her at asimes@frostburg.edu, or visit the CIE's new and improved Web page at www.frostburg.edu/admin/cie/cie.htm.

Study in Non-traditional Locations

FSU is affiliated with the School for International Training. This enables FSU students to study through SIT in over 50 locations while remaining registered at FSU. All financial aid will transfer. SIT offers programs in Africa, Asia, South America, Europe and Austral-asia. This is a fantastic opportunity for students who would like to spend a semester, year or summer off the beaten track.

Semester Overseas for Same Price as FSU

The International Student Exchange Program (ISEP) allows FSU students to register at FSU, pay FSU tuition and housing, and then study overseas for a semester, year or summer at one of more than 140 locations. Students may take financial aid with them and may apply for scholarships from the CIE and from ISEP. Students may choose programs taught either in English or other languages. For the price of an airline ticket, this is a great way to earn credit toward your FSU degree while enjoying life in a foreign culture. Apply now for summer or fall 2003.

Gain Work/Volunteer Experience Overseas

Students interested in working abroad should come by the CIE for information about internships, volunteer organizations and paid work overseas. Many organizations help students obtain jobs and work permits, and some help to arrange housing as well. Students can choose from short experiences (one to two months) to longer experiences (four to 12 months), or even look into a more serious commitment (one to three years). Destinations are available throughout the world.

Do Your Student Teaching in Copenhagen

Education majors who would like to earn a semester of FSU credits while studying in Denmark should apply for the spring semester exchange program with the KDAS School of Teacher Training in Copenhagen. Newcastle is one of the liveliest cities in the UK, just across the Channel from Amsterdam, and three hours north of London (one hour south of Edinburgh) by train. Courses are available in a wide variety of subjects. The cost of the program is about the same as one semester at FSU (in-state) and all financial aid will transfer.

Financial Aid for Studying Overseas

FSU students are able to transfer all federal financial aid overseas to help pay for study abroad programs, along with state and institutional aid for most FSU sponsored programs. The CIE also awards study abroad scholarships of $500 and $1,000 to qualifying students. Scholarship deadline for summer, fall and academic year programs is March 15. Many other state and national scholarships are also available to help cover overseas costs.

FSU is affiliated with AustraLearn, an organization that provides unique opportunities for students to study at universities in Australia and New Zealand. AustraLearn arranges cheap flights, an orientation program on the Great Barrier Reef, pre-registration and transcript evaluation. Students may choose from a broad range of courses at campuses in beautiful and exotic surroundings. Scholarships are available from both FSU and AustraLearn.

Learn More about Study Abroad

Students who would like to learn more about study abroad opportunities and how they fit into a degree program may come to the CIE. The staff will provide an overview of programs and requirements and have applications available. Scholarship and financial aid information will also be available. Students may use the CIE library and computer to search for programs. Many videos are also available.
