This contemporary and controversial work explores the aftermath of the vicious murder of 21-year-old Matthew Shepard, a gay student attending the University of Wyoming.

Developed by award-winning director Moisés Kaufman and members of the Tectonic Theatre Project, The Laramie Project is a moving and inspiring theatrical experience told through the eyes of the townspeople of Laramie, Wyo., who served as both witnesses to and participants in the aftermath of Shepard's murder on Oct. 12, 1998. This collective-collaborative creation, compiled from more than 200 interviews and presented through more than 60 real life "characters," is presented as a docudrama, a format both theatrical and real. Time Magazine called it "one of the top ten plays of 2000," and said, "The Laramie Project is nothing short of stunning. It is not to be missed!

Make Sure to Buckle up Your Kids and Yourself

Drivers and passengers who don't buckle up themselves or buckle up their children should beware. The holiday week of Nov. 25, and Dec. 2, all Maryland Law Enforcement agencies are launching another major enforcement campaign as part of a nationwide crackdown to stop and ticket drivers and passengers who are not buckled up, and drivers will be ticketed for unbuckled children in the car.

University Police has a policy of zero tolerance for drivers and passengers who fail to buckle up or buckle up their child passengers. Any person found in violation of the seatbelt law will be stopped and ticketed.

The purpose of the "Click It or Ticket Program" and "America Buckles Up Children Campaign" is to promote driver and passenger safety. Nationwide enforcement drives have significantly contributed to an increase in adult restraint usage, as well as an increase in child restraint usage, showing a decline in child fatalities.

FSU, National Highway Traffic and Safety Administration and the Western Maryland Regional Safe Communities Office want to remind you to BUCKLE UP for the holiday season.
