CAST Brings 'Twelfth Night' to FSU

CAST, the Cambridge American Stage Tour, will bring William Shakespeare's "Twelfth Night" to FSU on Wednesday, Sept. 13, for a 7:30 p.m. performance in the F. Perry Smith Studio Theatre of the Performing Arts Center.

Since 1999, Cambridge University's American Stage Tour, has sent the brightest theatrical talent from Cambridge University, England, across the Atlantic.

Directed and produced entirely by members of the student body, this year's offering is one of Shakespeare's greatest works, containing aspects typical of Elizabethan and Jacobean comedy: twins, mistaken identity, thwarted love, pranks and a punning clown.

Tickets are $5 for students and $10 for the general public. For information or reservations, call x4145

Simple Gifts to Perform at City Place in Frostburg

Simple Gifts, an award-winning band featuring two women who play 10 different instruments, will perform at 7 p.m. Thursday, Sept. 14, at City Place, 11 Water Street. The concert, part of FSU's LIVE! at the Loft series, is free and open to the public. Van shuttles will offer transportation between the FSU campus and City Place.

Simple Gifts features two women playing a variety of ethnic folk music, including everything from lively Irish jigs and down-home American reels to hard-driving Klezmer freilachs, haunting Gypsy melodies and exotic Balkan dance tunes. The group blends styles from diverse cultures with their American roots using an impressive array of instruments: two violins, mandolin, hammered dulcimer, recorders and guitar. The group also plays the bowed psaltery, baritone fiddle, banjolin, guitjo and doumbek. The performance, held in conjunction with FSU's first Appalachian Festival, shows how today's musicians combine tradition and innovation to explore the sounds of folk music.

For more information on LIVE! at the Loft and the Simple Gifts performance, call x4411.

Appalachian Festival Highlights Culture

FSU will celebrate the Appalachian culture found in Western Maryland and the surrounding mountain region with a daylong outdoor festival on Saturday, Sept. 23, starting at 10 a.m.

FSU's Appalachian Festival, what is hoped to be one of many, will transform the University's upper quad into a celebration of the wide-ranging influences of Appalachian culture, showcasing the region's finest artistic and musical traditions, along with a wide variety of living history presentations, talks on local flora and fauna and plenty of food. All daytime activities, from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m., are free and open to the public.

The day's events will be capped off with "From Ireland to Appalachia," a concert featuring Liz Carroll, John Doyle, Dirk Powell and Bruce Molsky performing the best in traditional acoustic music in the Pealer Recital Hall of the Performing Arts Center. Separately, all are geniuses of their instruments — exciting performers and composers who take the traditions of Irish, Appalachian and rural American music into daring, inventive new directions. Carroll and Doyle represent the best of traditional Irish music, while Molsky and Powell demonstrate some of the finest American folk music.

Tickets for the concert are $15 for the general public, with discounts available for children and FSU students, faculty and staff. Tickets are available by calling 1-866-TIXX-CES (1-866-849-9237) toll free or 301-687-3137, visiting online at ces.frostburg.edu or in person at the Lane University Center Box Office.

The day will be filled with music at the FSU outdoor stage, with the music of Appalachia ranging from traditional folk and bluegrass to bagpipes to an African American gospel choir, all performed by regional artists. Goat milking demonstrations, archaeological exhibitions and living history activities can also be found on festival grounds. And an Appalachian Wagon Train will visit the festival from noon to 1 p.m.

The festival's activities will be divided into a series of thematic tents. The Appalachian Explorations tent will offer presentations in the history of the region and the scientific underpinnings of what makes this area special, including wildlife, farming and the study of native plants and their uses. The Folkways tent will offer introductions to such Appalachian arts as shape note singing, basket making and beekeeping. In the Children's Hands-On tent, kids can try out crafts like weaving, corn-husk dolls, quilt puzzles and much more. And the Arts and Crafts tent will provide a broad range of demonstrations and sales of Appalachian handiwork and locally Amish-made crafts, from furniture to needlework to braided rugs.

In conjunction with the Appalachian Festival, the Frostburg Rotary Club will host a buckwheat pancake breakfast from 7 a.m. to noon in the cafeteria of St. Michaels Church, on Main Street in Frostburg.

To kick off the festival, on Friday, Sept. 22, the historic Frostburg Palace Theatre on Main Street will present two feature-length documentaries focusing on Appalachian life, "Stranger With A Camera" and "Sludge." The director of "Sludge," Robert Salyer, will speak as part of a discussion following the films.

For those who didn't hear enough music on Saturday, the 13th Annual Mid Atlantic Fiddle and Banjo contest sponsored by the Cumberland Lions Club will be Sunday, Sept. 24, at the Culinary Café on downtown Cumberland's Towne Centre.

For more information about the festival, including a schedule of presentations, visit the Web site at <http://involvement.frostburg.edu/cultevents/Appalachian.html>.

Art

Exhibition Reveals Potency of Memories

An exhibition at FSU's Stephanie Ann Roper Gallery will take a closer look at how the passage of time and images from dreams shape memory and imagination. Featuring a colorful mix of paintings, collages and other works by four distinct artists, "Instigators of Memory" will be on view at the gallery through Sept. 27.

Gail Watkins, an artist based in Annapolis, Md., creates richly collaged abstract paintings that play with perceptions of time by fusing the Pop art aesthetic of American comic strips with ancient motifs and antiqued surfaces.

Connecticut-based Ann Weiner also relies on familiar imagery in her mixed-media artwork. Weiner uses antique dolls, emblems of childhood and innocence, to depict the progress of a spiritual journey.

Elizabeth Austin, an artist who lives in Paris and New Hampshire, paints otherworldly landscapes on the reverse side of thick, plastic panels.

Marian Bingham, or Bing as she is professionally known, also infuses her paintings and photographs with familiar imagery that is timeless and unforgettable.

The Stephanie Ann Roper Gallery has free admission and is open to the public Sunday through Wednesday from 1 to 4 p.m. For information, call the Department of Visual Arts at x4797.

Speakers

'Science, Religion and Intelligent Design'

Dr. Richard Raesly, professor of biology at FSU, and Rev. Bill Pinches, pastor of the Frostburg Presbyterian Church, will explore the controversial subject "Science, Religion & Intelligent Design" at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday, Sept. 12, in the FSU Compton Science Center, room 226.

The all-campus program is free and open to the public. It is sponsored by United Campus Ministry.

Raesly has taught biology at FSU since 1989. His research interests and areas of expertise include ecology and evolution of introduced species, evolution and systematics of freshwater fish, biology of endangered species and stream ecology.

Pinches has been pastor of the Frostburg Presbyterian Church for three years and is chair of the Committee on Preparation for the Ministry of Baltimore Presbytery. He also serves as a member of the FSU United Campus Ministry Board of Directors.

For more information, call x7490.

Philosophical Forum Views Vegetative States

The Philosophical Forum will sponsor a lecture, followed by discussion, on Tuesday, Sept. 19, from 7:30 to 9 p.m. in the Atkinson Room, Lane University Center 201.

The lecture, titled "Persistent Vegetative State, Prospective Thinking, and Advance Directives," will be presented by Thomas A. Mappes, professor of philosophy. Dr. Mappes has taught at FSU since 1973 and is the coeditor of Biomedical Ethics, sixth edition (McGraw-Hill, 2006).

How would you want to be treated if you were existing in a state permanently devoid of consciousness? Persistent vegetative state (PVS)—much discussed in conjunction with the high-profile case of Terry Schiavo—can be understood as "a clinical condition of complete unawareness of the self and the environment, accompanied by sleep-wake cycles...." These words are drawn from a landmark document, the 1994 Multi-Society Task Force Report on the medical aspects of PVS. Dr. Mappes's presentation will begin with a discussion of PVS, focusing on concerns related to both diagnosis and prognosis, and paying special attention to the Task Force Report. His analysis will bring into clear view both diagnostic and prognostic uncertainties related to PVS. He will then explore the impact of these uncertainties on prospective thinking regarding the possibility of PVS and also consider the closely related question of how prospective thinkers might craft advance directives in order to deal most effectively with this possibility.

For information, call Mappes at x4262.

Former High Ranking CIA Analyst to Speak

Ray McGovern, a former high-ranking CIA analyst who served under seven U.S. presidents and who presented the morning intelligence briefings at the White House for many years, will speak on Wednesday Sept. 20, at 7:30 in the Alice R. Manicur Hall of Lane University Center.

In January 2003, McGovern along with some other alumni in the intelligence community founded Veteran Intelligence Professionals for Sanity.

In addition to co-authoring some of VIPS' issuances, McGovern has published some 20 editorials over the past year on intelligence-related issues.

These have appeared in newspapers and journals around the country like The Birmingham News, The Boston Globe, The Christian Science Monitor, The Miami Herald, and The International Herald Tribune.

McGovern's duties at CIA included chairing National Intelligence Estimates and preparing the president's daily briefings. These, the most authoritative genres of intelligence reporting, have been the focus of press reporting on "weapons of mass destruction" in Iraq and on what the president was told before 9/11.

For more information, contact Larry Neumark at x7490. This event is sponsored by United Campus Ministry, Catholic Campus Ministry and ACM Peace Club and is free and open to the public.

Film

Film Series Launches with 'Fahrenheit 9/11'

FSU's 2006-2007 International Film Series begins with "Fahrenheit 9/11" on Thursday, Sept 28, at 7 p.m. in the Lane University Center Atkinson Room 201. The series is sponsored by FSU Center Stage.

One of the most controversial and provocative films of the 21st century, "Fahrenheit 9/11" is Academy Award-winning filmmaker Michael Moore's searing examination of the Bush administration's actions in the wake of the tragic events of 9/11. The film shows us a nation kept in constant fear by FBI alerts and lulled into accepting a piece of controversial legislation, the USA Patriot Act. Fahrenheit 9/11 takes us inside the war in Iraq to tell the stories we haven't heard, illustrating the awful human cost to U.S. soldiers and their families.

A second international film scheduled for this semester is "East-West" on Thursday, Oct. 12, at 7 p.m. This movie is in French with English subtitles. "East-West" follows the struggle of a Russian emigrant living in France with his young family as he returns to Russia, only to be devastated by Stalin's newest campaign.

All film showings are free and open to the public. For more information, contact the Lane University Center Information Desk at x4411.

Points of Pride

Praeger Publishers and author Dr. Evan Offstein, a business management professor at FSU, announce the release of Stand Your Ground: Building Honorable Leaders the West Point Way. The launch of Stand Your Ground signals one of the most relevant and applicable responses to recent leadership breakdowns at such places as Enron, WorldCom, Adelphia, and Abu Ghraib.

Offstein, a West Point graduate, approached leaders at our nation's oldest and most celebrated military academy, the U.S. Military Academy at West Point and the Department of the Army with two primary questions: (1) How does West Point develop its leaders?; (2) Can other individuals and organizations apply these methods effectively? Two years later, after conducting extensive on-site research at West Point and with business leaders in a variety of industries, he offers unprecedented access to the process of leadership development at West Point, and practical insights that can, indeed, be applied in any type of organization that strives to operate on the principle of integrity.

For more information, please visit www.honorableleaders.com or www.Stand-Your-Ground.net.

FSU student Michael J. Burt is one of the writers featured in the anthology Not in My Family: AIDS in the African American Community, a revealing anthology released in conjunction with World AIDS Day 2006 (Dec. 1) that explores the effects of HIV/AIDS in the African American community.

The book's contributors include famous figures such as award-winning singer Patti Labelle, U.S. House Rep. Barbara Lee, former U.S. Surgeon General Joycelyn Elders and actress Sheryl Lee Ralph. Not in My Family: AIDS in the African American Community, provides a forum for individuals and families to come out of the shadows and share their fears, isolation, pain and triumph in dealing with the reality of HIV/AIDS.

International

Boren Scholarship Competition Opens

The Institute of International Education is accepting applications for the 2007-2008 National Security Education Program David L. Boren Undergraduate Scholarships for study abroad. NSEP Boren Scholarships provide funding for summer, semester or yearlong study in areas of the world that are critical to U.S. national security but are under-represented in study abroad. IIE encourages interested students to visit www.iie.org/nsep to learn more about the program and begin the application process. All applications must be completed online. The national deadline is Feb. 13, 2007. More information is available from the Center for International Education.

Ireland Spring Info Meeting Sept. 6

Students who are interested in applying for the spring semester program at Mary Immaculate College in Limerick, Ireland, should plan to attend an information meeting on Wednesday, Sept. 6, at 5 p.m. at the Fuller House. Interested students are advised to contact either the CIE or Kate Keely (224 Fine Arts, x3209, kkeely@frostburg.edu) immediately. Keely will accompany the group next spring and teach three art classes. The program cost is comparable to the cost of attending FSU in-state. Deadline to apply is Sept. 29.

Study Abroad Programs

The Center for International Education offers a variety of ways for FSU students to see the world. In many cases, students register at FSU during a semester abroad and can take all financial aid with them and transfer credit back to FSU. For information on programs or scholarships, contact Dr. Amy Simes at the CIE in the Fuller House on Braddock Road, x3091, asimes@frostburg.edu or visit the CIE Web page at www.frostburg.edu/admin/cie.

The Year of Study Abroad Continues

2006 has been designated by the U.S. Senate as the "Year of Study Abroad." In support, many study abroad affiliates, such as AustraLearn, Cultural Experiences Abroad and the American Institute for Foreign Study will grant financial assistance to students who are accepted for programs overseas. A number of organizations will also award additional scholarship funding to qualifying students as part of this celebration. For information, visit the CIE Web site.

Numerous Cultural Experiences Abroad

Cultural Experiences Abroad has programs in Buenos Aires, Argentina, as well as in Budapest, Hungary, and Prague, Czech Republic. They are also opening their second CEA Study Center in Barcelona.
