Aquila Theatre Co. Brings 'Romeo & Juliet' to FSU

The public is invited to revisit one of the greatest love stories of all time when Aquila Theatre Company returns to Frostburg with a stylish new production of Shakespeare's classic "Romeo & Juliet" at 7:30 p.m., Sunday, Nov. 5, at the Performing Arts Center Drama Theatre.

"Romeo & Juliet" depicts the compelling events that unfold out of the ancient rift between two great Italian families. Set in the vibrant city of Verona, two famous "star-crossed" teenage lovers follow their passion for each other against all odds in an ultimately tragic but beautiful story of eternal love.

Long considered to be a highly talented British and American ensemble, Aquila Theatre Company brings to life the exquisite poetry, flamboyant characters and taut narrative of this tragic and timeless tale of unrequited passion. Aquila is known for its bold, intelligent and sparkling productions of Shakespeare and has received invitations to Shakespeare festivals around the world.

Aquila Theatre Company will perform William Shakespeare's "Romeo and Juliet" on Sunday, Nov. 5, at 7:30 p.m.

To purchase tickets or for more information, call the FSU Cultural Events Box Office at x3137 or toll free at 1-866-TIXX-CES, or visit online at ces.frostburg.edu.

spectacular perspective of the changing planet.

During his talk, Beck will demonstrate how the moving window display works and discuss its applications, including its role in putting together the aesthetically pleasing imagery in "Earth As Art." Beck will discuss how the U.S. Geological Survey has been collecting satellite images to study changes to the surface of the planet. A group of images from the large archive form the basis for the "Earth as Art" exhibition. He will explain how the images were selected and how such data are used by the global science community. It will be the first public demonstration of the moving window display technology before it goes on permanent display at the National Air and Space Museum.

The moving window display enables viewers to see an animation of the view from satellites that pass within the range of the USGS Center for Earth Resources Observation and Science in South Dakota. The display includes a map showing the path of the satellite as it approaches a central receiving station and reveals the converted measurements in a way that viewers can "see" the area below the satellite as it passes over. The technology has typically been used by USGS to monitor environmental changes and disasters, like Hurricane Katrina or a volcanic eruption at Mount Saint Helens in Washington.

The lecture and exhibition are sponsored by USGS and the FSU College of Liberal Arts and Sciences. For more information, contact Greg Andorfer at x4090 or Jim Jeffries at (301) 687-0919 x12 or via e-mail at jeffries@usgs.gov.

Democratic Candidates to Speak at FSU

Baltimore mayor and gubernatorial candidate Martin O'Malley, along with his running mate, Prince George's County delegate and Iraq War veteran Anthony Brown, will speak at 5 p.m. on Wednesday, Nov. 1, in the Alice R. Manicur Assembly Hall, located inside the Lane University Center. Maryland 3rd District Congressmen and U.S. Senate

USGS Speaker Highlights 'Earth As Art' Show

Imagine being able to see moving satellite images of Earth from space within seconds of the satellite passing over a specific region—without leaving the comforts of a computer! Ron Beck, a program information specialist in the U.S. Geological Survey's Land Remote Sensing Program, will discuss a new display designed by USGS that may eventually allow people to do just that during a special guest lecture at FSU. His talk will be held at 7 p.m. on Thursday, Nov. 2, at FSU's Compton Science Center, room 226.

The lecture is free and open to the public and will be followed by a reception with refreshments at 8 p.m. in FSU's Exploratorium, where a display of colorful, visually appealing satellite imagery is on view in an exhibition titled "Earth As Art." The exhibition includes a variety of images illustrating the interesting color variations and patterns created by geologic structures, drainage, glaciers and vegetation from throughout the world. From an altitude of 440 miles, the satellites offer a rare, candidate Benjamin Cardin will also be in attendance and speaking at this event. Additionally, 6th District Congressional candidate Andrew Duck, Montgomery County Delegate and Comptroller candidate Peter Franchot and Attorney General candidate Doug Gansler will be present to speak.

All students, faculty, members of the community, and the press are encouraged to attend these events, which were organized by the FSU College Democrats and Iota Phi Theta. For more information, contact Daniel Hull, president of the FSU College Democrats, at (301) 268-3698 or at dhull0@frostburg.edu.

Appalachian Lab

The University of Maryland Center for Environmental Science Appalachian Laboratory will offer a series of seminars during the fall semester. The next seminar is Nov. 2: Dr. Elizabeth North - UMCES Horn Point Lab, "Transport of Oyster Larvae in Chesapeake Bay: The Role of Larval Behavior and Insights from Terrestrial Approaches"

All seminars are held in AL Room 109 at 3:30 p.m. Refreshments follow in the lobby. For more information, visit www.al.umces.edu/facseminars.htm.

Art

'60 to 06' Show Gives Art Students Experience

Traveling to Pittsburgh to visit the Carnegie Museum of Art. Studying images of groundbreaking works that shape the history of art. Taking classes with other people who enjoy drawing, painting, sculpture. These are just a few of the benefits that are a part of participating in the Creative Artist Learning Community at FSU, one of the many programs offered by FSU Connections that group like-minded students together to brave introductory courses in their shared areas of academic interest. But perhaps the biggest thrill of all is giving the students the opportunity to organize their own art show.

FSU's Creative Artist Learning Community will unveil "60 to 06," an exhibition that explores the Pop Art movement, during a special opening reception from 4 to 6 p.m. Friday, Nov. 3, at the Lane University Center Loft on campus. The exhibition will remain on view through the weekend, closing Nov. 5. Organized by students and featuring works they created this semester, "60 to 06" will highlight the talents of FSU's aspiring artists and reflect what the students have learned from their class together.

The title of the show, "60 to 06" connects the ideas and expressions of Pop Art, a movement in art history that fully blossomed during the 1960s, with the students' present-day 2006 interpretations of Pop Art. The Pop Art movement typically drew on the influences of mass culture and consumerism, including television, advertising, comic books and magazines. Similarly, the Creative Artist Learning Community's show will also explore modern-day versions of these influences and initiate discussion and reflection of what today's culture values.

In addition to creating art, the students are also required to write accompanying artist statements and are responsible for setting up the exhibition. It is the first time many will have ever displayed their work in an art show.

For information, contact Trish Limbaugh at x4173 or plimbaugh@frostburg.edu, or Randall Rhodes at x4047 or rrhodes@frostburg.edu.

Conference Goes Out to the Ball Game

FSU will host "Baseball Forever: Mirror of American Life," a three-and-a-half-day conference on the history of baseball, kicking off Wednesday, Nov. 8, with a keynote address by Frank Deford, senior editor for "Sports Illustrated" and weekly sports commentator for National Public Radio.

Over the following three days, 20 sessions will describe and evaluate the evolution of baseball from its creation in the 1840s to the present day. The speakers will include an unusual mix of distinguished historians, sports journalists, radio announcers, commentators, baseball professionals and informed baseball enthusiasts.

The conference will conclude on Saturday afternoon, Nov. 11, with a description of significant changes in major league baseball over the past half-century. The primary speaker for the conference wrap-up will be Clyde King, who began his 62 years in the majors as a pitcher for the Brooklyn Dodgers in 1944, then subsequently became a pitching coach for the Cincinnati Reds, manager for the San Francisco Giants, and general manager for the New York Yankees.

Frank Deford's talk will begin at 7:30 p.m., Wednesday, Nov. 8, in the Lane University Center. His keynote address will focus on John McGraw and Christy Mathewson, who figure prominently in Deford's recent book, The Old Ball Game.

The first full day of sessions will begin with a talk by former FSU baseball coach Bob Wells about the earliest days of baseball titled "The Creation" at 8:30 a.m. on Thursday, Nov. 9, also in the Lane University Center. Presentations on each of the three days begin at 8:30 a.m. and end at 5:30 p.m.

The conference sessions are free and open to the public, and there will be an opportunity following each session for audience questions.

Other features include a display of baseball art from Allegany County public school art students; memorabilia of the game, including some items from the Babe Ruth Museum in Baltimore; and a wide variety of books on baseball offered for sale in the Lane University Center.

This conference was made possible by the President's and Provost's Offices at FSU, Spalding Company and numerous personal contributions. It was also made possible by a grant from the Maryland Humanities Council, through support from the National Endowment for the Humanities. Other sponsors include WalMart, ARAMARK, Hillerich & Bradsby Co. (makers of the Louisville Slugger), The Orioles, The Capital Grille, Allegany Arts Council and Guiseppe's Restaurant in Frostburg.

For more details, including a list of session presenters and topics, consult the Web site at www.frostburg.edu/baseballforever or contact John Wiseman at jwiseman@frostburg.edu. Advance registration is requested by e-mailing baseballregister@frostburg.edu with your name, address and phone number; the number of people in your party; and what days you will be attending.

Baseball Art Contest, Readings Featured

The FSU conference, "Baseball Forever," will include two special events highlighting the enduring cultural importance of baseball: an art exhibition featuring work created by local students and a public reading of baseball literature.

The art display will include artworks in a variety of media produced by elementary, middle, and high school students, on view in room 201 of the FSU Lane University Center beginning Nov. 9. The University will host a public reception for the artists, their parents and teachers in the display room starting at 7:30 p.m. Nov. 9. Local artists Wini Redick and Jean Downs will serve as judges, and present cash awards to the three artists who have best evoked the game of baseball in their creative efforts.

The FSU Center for Creative Writing has coordinated a special Literature Comes Alive reading of baseball literature that will begin at 1:30 p.m. Nov. 11 at the Mountain City Coffee and Creamery on Main Street in downtown Frostburg. The public is invited to read favorite baseball poems and stories. Collections of baseball literature will be available to choose from at the readings, which will run until 3:30 p.m.

Theatre

'Lone Star League' to Premiere During Forum

One of the highlights of "Baseball Forever" will be the premiere of a play written specifically for the event.

"The Lone Star League," penned by veteran Cumberland playwright James Ralston, who also wrote the dark and witty "Thirty Folds to the Moon," is set in a border town in Texas and focuses on a dying minor league baseball team.

It will be performed on Nov. 10 and 11 at 8 p.m. in the Performing Arts Center, with a matinee on Nov. 11 at 2:30 p.m.

Exploring the contemporary issues in modern-day baseball, the storyline centers on the dilemma a rising young star from Mexico faces. He is torn between his love for his native country and the lure of the major leagues in the North. Tempted by the glitter, fame and fortune that scouts and his agent are offering him, the protagonist gets unexpected advice from a female sportswriter, who has been demoted to the dusty town as a result of her exposé of steroid use in the major leagues.

The female writer will be portrayed by Gabriella Klein, an accomplished actress from Vancouver, Canada, who has been in other theater productions in the area, including her one-woman show, "Murdering Cinderella." The rest of the cast includes Ralston, who will play the role of the weathered team manager, Jay Atkinson as Jack Dogg, a washed-up major leaguer at 36, with Miguel Dilicuarda portraying the young rising Mexican star and Larry Myers as the wily agent.

"The Lone Star League" is directed by David Press, former FSU drama director and equity actor, and produced by John Wiseman, who also is the director of the conference.

Tickets can be purchased at the conference area at the Lane University Center and before each performance at the Performing Arts Center.

The production is made possible with the financial support of Steve Simpson, FSU provost, the Allegany Arts Council, the FSU Student Association and several individual contributions from local patrons of the arts.

For further information, contact jwiseman@frostburg.edu.

UT Explores Dada in 'Out to Lunch'

University Theatre will present Joseph Langham's "Out to Lunch" at 7:30 p.m. Nov. 10, 11, 16, 17 and 18 and at 2 p.m. on Nov. 11 in the F. Perry Smith Studio Theatre of the Performing Arts Center.

In "Out to Lunch," two clueless geeks, Numba Won and Numba Too, begin a meaningless, daylong "campout" at a diner where an eclectic, absurd and often irreverent array of characters labor to make their diner experience fulfilling. A Waitress, a Jesterdishwasherfrenchef and the world's largest Busboy, among others, are then joined by a lone Gunman who sporadically dashes onto the stage itching for some random act of violence.

Rowdy and risky, yet entirely pertinent and entertaining, "Out to Lunch" has been described as a "dada allegorical farce" about—among other things—the dangers of apathy. Deliberately off-the-wall and provoking, this play will jolt you from the norm and keep you laughing all the way!

"Out to Lunch" is recommended for mature audiences.

Tickets are $5 for students and $10 for non-students. For reservations and information, call the theatre box office at x7462.

Music

Opera Theatre Presents 'Little Red Riding Hood'

FSU's Opera Theatre will present "Little Red Riding Hood" by Seymour Barab and scenes from "Hansel and Gretel," "Lakme," "The Mikado," "Don Giovanni," "Il matrimonio" and "Candide," at 8 p.m. on Friday, Nov. 10, in the Pealer Recital Hall at the Performing Arts Center. The admission charge is $5 and children under 16 are free.

"Little Red Riding Hood" is a children's opera adapted from the classic fairy tale by the Brothers Grimm. Join Little Red Riding Hood (Olivia Hartman, mezzo-soprano) on her journey through the wood as she encounters the wolf (Ryan Bowie, baritone) and learns valuable lessons from her mother and grandmother (Krystle Hutton, soprano).

Betty Jane Phillips is the opera theatre director for the production and also the accompanist. The stage director is Ryan Bowie.

For reservations, call x7465, weekdays, 9 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. The box office opens one hour prior to curtain.

Faculty Series Continues with Clarinet Recital

The FSU Faculty Artist Series will continue on Tuesday, Nov. 14, with a recital by Mark Gallagher on clarinet and Betty Jane Phillips on piano. The performance will be at 8 p.m. in the Performing Arts Center Pealer Recital Hall.

Gallagher and Phillips will be assisted by FSU senior clarinetists, Kara Klucsarits and Brett McIntyre. They will perform works by Poulenc, Beethoven, Cahuzac, Wilson, Camilleri and Mozart.

For more information about Mark Gallagher, visit his Web site at www.markgallagher.net. For more information about the recital, contact the Department of Music at x4109.

'Alternate Routes' Rescheduled for Nov. 10

The University Programming Council at FSU has rescheduled the "Alternate Routes" concert originally planned for Oct. 14. The show has been rescheduled for 9 p.m. Nov. 10. For more information, call x4411.

Three Irish Tenors Concert Time Changed

The Cultural Events Series at FSU has had to implement a schedule change regarding the eagerly anticipated performance of "Christmas from Dublin" featuring the Three Irish Tenors.

Due to flight scheduling and tour routing, the group has decided to reschedule its Monday evening performance originally slated for 7:30 p.m. Nov. 20. This concert has been rescheduled for 3 p.m. Sunday, Nov. 19. There are now two performances offered on Sunday: one at 3 p.m. and the originally scheduled performance at 7:30 p.m., in the Performing Arts Center Drama Theatre.

Tickets are still available for the 3 p.m. performance on Sunday, and a waiting list is being taken for the Sunday evening performance. If concertgoers previously purchased tickets for the Monday evening performance, they should contact the Lane University Center Box Office at x3137 or toll free at 1-866-TIXX-CES.

To learn more about the Three Irish Tenors and other upcoming CES events, visit online at ces.frostburg.edu.

Deadline Approaches for 'Frostburg Roadtrip'

Confused about your path in life? Why not take a roadtrip to discover your journey?

FSU is putting together a team of students to take part in an exciting week-long trip during Intersession (January) 2007. The destination has yet to be determined.

Based on a national organization called Roadtrip Nation, which encourages college-age students to hit the road to find their own paths in life, this FSU team will meet with and interview FSU alumni to find about their journeys in life. While this is a self-exploration trip for those involved, students will also take part in filming a documentary of their experiences and chronicling their trip, meetings and adventures. Airfare and accommodations will be provided.

This is the second year this type of trip is being offered. The documentary of the first experience, "Frostburg Roadtrip: Los Angeles," is available in the Special Collections room of the FSU Ort Library.

The trip is open to all FSU students. Applications were sent via campus e-mail last week and are due to Dr. Thomas Bowling, Interim Vice President for Student and Educational Services, First Floor, Hitchins Administration Building, by 5 p.m. Wednesday, Nov. 1. Applications are also available for pick-up in that office. Finalists will be called for in-person interviews before Thanksgiving break.

Hit the road and be part of a "Frostburg Roadtrip" adventure.

411 on Weather-Related School Closings

Here are a few guidelines for finding out if FSU will experience a closing or delay on bad weather days:

In a change from previous years, information will be available at the MAIN UNIVERSITY NUMBER (x4000, option 2). You can access the system after 6 a.m. for the most reliable, up-to-date information regarding delayed openings and cancellations. Instructions are attached. Personnel compensation will be based on the appropriate cancellation/delay message as presented on the FSU voice-mail system.

Information about "essential personnel" is no longer announced on the radio, since "essential personnel" are required to report to work at regular time in the event of any cancellation or delay. These individuals have been notified of their "essential" status by their respective department heads. A list of these employees is available in the Office of Human Resources.

Unless FSU closure is announced on voicemail or the radio WE ARE OPEN. On most cancellation days, the University will be closed until 5 p.m. A decision on evening classes and events will be made by 3 p.m. that day. Likewise, the message under option 2 at the main University number will either announce the closure, or announce, "The University is open."

In the event of liberal leave, it is expected that everyone will make an effort to report to work and class. The final decision with regard to your own personal safety resides with you. If, in your judgment, it is not safe for you to come to work or to class while the University is still open, you must contact your supervisor or professor and provide this information. Employees will be charged for the appropriate leave time. The announcement of liberal leave neither relieves essential employees of their need to report to work during inclement weather nor does it cancel classes.

Faculty, staff and students can also check the FSU Web site (www.frostburg.edu) or register for online notification at www.schoolsout.com. By registering your e-mail address, you will receive a notice when FSU has a schedule change due to inclement weather. Visit the site to learn more.

Ph.D.'s for Students

Students who aspire to receive a Ph.D. and faculty and staff who can recommend students with Ph.D. potential are invited to attend an information session on the 2007 McNair Scholars Program on Monday, Oct. 30, in the Leake Room, Cordts PE Center. The director of the University of Maryland, College Park McNair Program (with seven places reserved for FSU students) will be visiting to speak with faculty and staff only at 10 a.m. and with faculty and students at 11 a.m. Current participants will display their research and be available to answer questions.

To be eligible, a student must be a low-income, first-generation college student or be from a group that is traditionally underrepresented in graduate education programs (such as Hispanic, African American, or Native American students, or women in science and technology). The ideal candidates will have completed their sophomore year by May 2007 and have a GPA of 2.8 or higher. Juniors also are considered. Participants receive unparalleled support, including two paid summer research experiences, coursework and assistance in preparing for graduate school. The application deadline for summer 2007 is before Thanksgiving.

For more information, contact Dr. Mary Mumper, Faculty Coordinator, x4359; Dr. Mary Gartner, Assistant Provost, x4212; or Harriet Douglas, Director of Student Support Services, x4263.

FSU Logos to Go

The resolution of the FSU logo copied from our Web site is not suitable for printed documents. High resolution versions of the FSU logo are available on the Campus U drive in a folder named "FSU Logos." The selections include several formats (tif, eps and jpeg) and both black and two-color versions.

Also, please do not use any creative renditions of the FSU logo, i.e., no home-made or student-created logos, no more "I don't have the font that's used in the logo but I like this one better anyway" substitutions. In addition, it is no longer appropriate to use the FSU centennial logo.

If you are unable to access the U drive or have any questions, e-mail cstump@frostburg.edu.

Students: Ebills Available

Please remember when registering for intersession, payment is required within 24 hours of registration.

If you have not already done so, don't forget to sign up for your ebill! Spring semester undergraduate bills are available the week of Nov. 19, with a due date of Dec. 15, 2006. Graduate bills are available the week of Dec. 4, with a Jan. 2, 2007, due date. If you require assistance, please contact the University & Student Billing Office in Pullen Hall, room 148, x4321.

Points of Pride

FSU students were awarded first place and second place at this year's annual meeting of the Southeastern Chapter of the Institute for Operations Research and Management Services (SE INFORMS) held in Myrtle Beach, S.C., from Oct. 5-6.

The two papers were submitted by FSU College of Business MBA students. The first one was titled "Wal-Mart: Low Prices or Low Values?" The paper was written by Adrienne Everline, Christie Files, Donald Hetrick, Robert Medley and Danielle Willetts. The paper was presented at the conference by Files, Hetrick and Medley. The second paper was titled "The Internet Safety Debate", by Crystal Ellis, Ian Faulkner and Alicia Helbig. The paper was presented by Ellis. Each of these winners received a travel scholarship and monetary rewards.

Scholarships

Hagen History Scholarship Established

The FSU history department has established a scholarship in memory of James R. Hagen, a professor of history at FSU from 1989 to 2006. Dr. Hagen taught world civilization, Asian history, the Middle East, world environmental history and world religions. He was also adviser to the History Honorary Society and Phi Alpha Theta and established an environmental humanities minor. The scholarship, which is distributed through FSU Foundation, Inc., will benefit students majoring in history, social science and international studies with an interest in non-Western history, environmental history and world religions, areas of study particularly dear to Dr. Hagen's heart. For more information, contact x4752.

Fund Fosters Soccer Players' Class Success

Russell Younkens, (Class of '68), has established the Russell and Penny Younkens Academic Support Fund through the FSU Foundation, Inc. The purpose of the program will be to support graduate and undergraduate students with assigned duties to monitor the academic progress of students in the men's soccer program. Recipients will assist in the academic monitoring of FSU soccer players and work on projects, programs and reports designed to strengthen the overall academic success of players in soccer. The Younkens have a history of fostering the University's academic programs. They previously funded a scholarship for majors in health and physical education and were instrumental in leading the effort to fund a scholarship in memory of FSU soccer coach Ken Babcock. For more information, contact x4752.

Trident Funds Business/Leadership Scholarship

Trident Health Resources, Inc., has established an annual scholarship award to benefit business majors at FSU. The $1,000 award distributed through the FSU Foundation, Inc., will be given to a student who is a business major and leadership studies minor. Trident Health Resources, a company based in Dunedin, Fla., provides cardiovascular technology and advanced services to hospital operating rooms in the United States, Canada and the Caribbean. Trident is owned and operated by Ralph Jordan (Class of '68) and his wife, Charlotte (Class of '62). Ralph is a member of the FSU Foundation Board of Directors, the FSU College of Business Advisory Board and the FSU Sloop Leadership Committee. For more information, contact the Foundation at x4752.

Do you enjoy the beauty of waterfalls, the grace of swans, hiking trails, open fields and starry nights? Maybe you would like to get away for a retreat at beautiful Camp Living Waters in Schellsburg, Pa. The event is Nov. 3-5. Only an hour away from campus, people will enjoy these amenities including a modern lodge with a roaring fireplace and comfortable rooms. The theme will be "Honoring the Earth."

In addition to relaxation and fun, there will also be opportunities to share our feelings and views about conserving and honoring the fragile beauty of the planet and learning to live in healthy ways. The cost is only $15. Please call the UCM office x7490 or e-mail Larry Neumark at l.neumark@frostburg.edu.

Catholic Campus Ministry

CCM will explore "The Feast of All Saints—a Holyday," with masses in Cook Chapel at noon and 8 p.m. Wednesday, Nov. 1. Call (301) 689-5041 for more information.

AAUW to Hear About Semester at Sea

Dr. Amy C. Simes, Director of the Center for International Education at FSU, will speak at the American Association of University Women meeting on Nov. 7 about her round-the-world voyage that took place in the autumn of 2004. The meeting will begin at 7:30 p.m. at the Frostburg United Methodist Church Hall on Main Street.

Dr. Simes took a semester of leave from FSU to serve as assistant dean for the Institute of Shipboard Education's Semester at Sea program. Her voyage visited 10 ports of call in Asia, Africa, and Latin America. Dr. Simes will recount some of the highlights of the voyage and include video footage.

Refreshments will be served by hostesses Lorian Deuel, Phyllis Casey, Teddy Latta and Charren Nelson. The public is invited. For information, contact Teddy Latta at (301) 689-3522.

International

afternoons at 4 p.m. For more information, contact the CIE at x4714.

Safety Message

Don't Howl in Pain This Halloween!

As Halloween approaches, it's fun to decorate and dress up—provided you keep some safety tips in mind that will help prevent accidents and injury:

- If you're wearing a face mask, make sure it has large-enough eye and breathing holes.
- Dried flowers, cornstalks and crepe paper are highly flammable. Keep these and other decorations well away from all open flames and heat sources, including light bulbs, heat lamps and heaters. Keep these dangerous decoration items away from exit doors, as the exit to the outside must be kept clear and clean of any potential fire hazard. These flammable items cannot be used in residence halls or academic/classroom facilities.

Avoid safety scares

Everyone loves the flicker and mystery of Halloween. By substituting flashlights for candles, trick o' treaters stay safe and have fun at the same time.

- Use flashlights as alternatives to candles or torch lights when decorating your hall, room and house inside or out.
- Provide children with lightweight flashlights to carry for lighting the way or as part of their costume.
- Supervise children at all times when they are out visiting the campus or out in the community. Instruct children who may visit the campus during Halloween where the closest exit is so they will know how to get out in an emergency.
- An adult should accompany younger children when they are out trick-or-treating. Know how many young children are in your group and check that count every now and again.
- Drivers, watch for children at every corner or street crossing. Remember to be alert when backing into or out of your driveway. Be sure to keep your outside yard lights on for all those visiting your house.
