Cambridge American Stage Tour Brings 'Twelfth Night' to FSU

CAST, the Cambridge American Stage Tour, will bring William Shakespeare's "Twelfth Night" to FSU on Wednesday, Sept. 13, for a 7:30 p.m. performance in the F. Perry Smith Studio Theatre of the Performing Arts Center.

Since 1999, Cambridge University's

American Stage Tour has sent the brightest theatrical talent from England's Cambridge University across the Atlantic.

Directed and produced entirely by members of the student body, this year's offering is one of Shakespeare's greatest works, containing aspects typical of Elizabethan and Jacobean comedy: twins, mistaken identity, thwarted love, pranks and a punning clown.

Tickets are $5 for students and $10 for the general public. For information or reservations, call x4145.

Theatre

University Theatre Plans Ambitious Schedule

University Theatre will kick off its 2006-2007 season with the hit musical "Urinetown" at 7:30 p.m. Oct. 6, 7, 12, 13, 14 and at 2 p.m. Oct. 7 and 14 in the Performing Arts Center Drama Theatre.

Inspired by the works of Bertolt Brecht and Kurt Weill, "Urinetown" is a boy-meets-girl romance that takes place during the revolutionary time in the near future, when private toilets are banned and water is worth its weight in gold. With music and lyrics by Mark Holloman and book and lyrics by Greg Kotis, "Urinetown" is a witty, irreverent, unique play that both satirizes and honors the rich traditions of musical theatre, touching on everything from "West Side Story" to "Les Misérables."

Joseph Langham's "Out to Lunch" will be performed at 7:30 p.m. Nov. 10, 11, 16, 17 and 18, with a matinee performance on Nov. 11 at 2 p.m., in the F. Perry Smith Studio Theatre. In this rowdy and risky, entertaining play, Numba Won and Numba Two (two clueless geeks) begin a meaningless, daylong "campout" at a diner where an eclectic, absurd and often irrelevant array of characters labor to make their diner experience fulfilling.

"Eurydice" by Sarah Ruhl will run at 7:30 p.m. March 2, 3, 8, 9, and 10, with a 2 p.m. matinee performance on March 3, in the Drama Theatre. The tragic story of Eurydice and Orpheus is a cornerstone of mythology and has been retold in nearly every art form. Avoiding the usual romanticism and melodrama, "Eurydice" is an impressionistic interpretation of a timeless, haunting story. Focusing more on

"Urinetown," about a time when water is precious and private toilets are banned, leads off University Theatre's season.

Eurydice's relationship with her father than Orpheus, it unfolds in an Underworld setting that bears more resemblance to "Alice in Wonderland" than to the mythical Hades. "Eurydice" is a play about words and language, forgetfulness and memory and re-discovering one's voice.

The Main Stage series will close with an all African-American production of John Steinbeck's classic, "Of Mice and Men," with 7:30 p.m. performances in the F. Perry Smith Studio Theatre on April 13, 14, 19, 20, and 21 and an afternoon performance at 2 p.m. on April 14. "Of Mice and Men" is the moving story of George and his simple-minded friend Lennie, two lonely and alienated Depression-era drifters who dream of buying a ranch together. Shortly after they begin working on a Salinas Valley Ranch, their hopes take a turn for the worse. The two men discover the harsh flip side of the American Dream, and their friendship is tragically tested beyond normal limits.

The Student Directed production series "Season Too!" will run performances of "Earth and Sky" by Douglas Post on Oct. 27 and 28. Academy award winner Alan Ball's "Five Women Wearing the Same Dress" will be presented on Feb. 23 and 24. Both productions will begin at 7:30 in the F. Perry Smith Studio Theatre. All tickets are $5.00.

In a change from previous years, all evening performances will begin at 7:30 p.m. Matinee performances will continue to run at 2 p.m.

Tickets are $10 for the general public and $5 for students. Season Discount Flex Cards are also available. For $30 you receive four main stage tickets—a $10 savings. You can spread tickets throughout the Main Stage season, or use all four tickets at one show.

For reservations, call x7465 weekdays from 9 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. The box office opens one hour prior to curtain. Group discounts are available when booked in advance.

Interactive Play Takes on Complex Issues

PlayRights, an original interactive theatre program, will present "One Night," a powerful story about rape, in two performances at 3:30 p.m. and 7:30 p.m. on Sept. 14 in the Performing Arts Center Recital Hall.

"One Night" takes a closer look at what happens between friends when alcohol, flirtation and conflicting stories collide. The PlayRights performance is free and open to the public and sponsored by Student Development, BURG and Psi Chi. For more information, call the S.A.F.E. Office at x4761.

Simple Gifts to Perform at City Place in Frostburg

Simple Gifts, an award-winning band featuring two women who play 10 different instruments, will perform at 7 p.m. Thursday, Sept. 14, at City Place, 11 Water Street. The concert, part of FSU's LIVE! at the Loft series, is free and open to the public. Van shuttles will offer transportation between the FSU campus and City Place.

The group blends styles from diverse cultures with their American roots using an impressive array of instruments: two violins, mandolin, hammered dulcimer, recorders and guitar. The group also plays the bowed psaltery, baritone fiddle, banjolin, guitjo and doumbek. The performance, held in conjunction with FSU's first Appalachian Festival, shows how today's musicians combine tradition and innovation to explore the sounds of folk music.

CES Brings Best of Broadway to Frostburg

Broadway fans will get their money's worth and more when Neil Berg's "100 Years of Broadway," a medley of Broadway's most memorable musical moments, comes to the FSU Performing Arts Center Pealer Recital Hall at 7:30 p.m. Thursday, Sept. 21.

Created by award-winning composer Neil Berg, "100 Years of Broadway" recreates some of the biggest moments from the best known Broadway musical shows of the century, including "The Phantom of the Opera," "Les Miserables" and "Jekyll and Hyde." The show features revivals of Broadway classics as well as numbers from Broadway's newest hit shows performed by the stars straight from Broadway and supported by an all-star New York band.

A spectacular cast of performers bring their talents to "100 Years of Broadway": Rob Evan starred on Broadway playing both roles in "Jekyll and Hyde" for three years. He also starred on Broadway as Jean Valjean in "Les Miserables," and in "Little Shop of Horrors" and "Dance of the Vampires."

Mandy Gonzalez was last seen on Broadway starring in "Lennon." Her credits include Amneris in Sir Elton John's musical "Aida," and Sarah in "Dance of the Vampires," playing opposite Michael Crawford. She has performed as a backup singer for Bette Midler.

Tamra Hayden has appeared as Cosette in "Les Miserables" (a role she has performed over 1,800 times) and Texas in "Cabaret" at Studio 54. She has toured nationally as Christine in "The Phantom of the Opera," Cosette in "Les Miserables," and Hodel in "Fiddler on the Roof."

William Michals performed on Broadway as the Beast in "Beauty and the Beast," and also starred in "Les Miserables," "Phantom," "The Music Man," "Man of La Mancha," "Chicago," "The Sound of Music" and "Camelot."

Erick Buckley was the first person in the world to perform both the roles of Marius and Jean Valjean in "Les Miserables," Piangi in Andrew Lloyd Webber's "Phantom of the Opera," Dave in "The Full Monty," Roger in the Broadway revival of "Grease!" and Gangster #1 in the Tony winning Broadway revival of "Kiss Me, Kate."

Speakers

'Science, Religion & Intelligent Design'

Dr. Richard Raesly, professor of biology at FSU, and the Rev. Bill Pinches, pastor of the Frostburg Presbyterian Church, will explore the controversial subject "Science, Religion & Intelligent Design" at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday, Sept. 12, in the FSU Compton Science Center, room 226.

The all-campus program is free and open to the public. It is sponsored by United Campus Ministry.

Raesly has taught biology at FSU since 1989. His research interests and areas of expertise include ecology and evolution of introduced species, evolution and systematics of freshwater fish, biology of endangered species and stream ecology.

Pinches has been pastor of the Frostburg Presbyterian Church for three years and is chair of the Committee on

Preparation for the Ministry of Baltimore Presbytery. He also serves as a member of the FSU United Campus Ministry Board of Directors.

For more information, call x7490.

Philosophical Forum to Discuss Vegetative States

The Philosophical Forum will sponsor a lecture followed by discussion from 7:30 p.m. to 9 p.m. Tuesday, Sept. 19, in the Atkinson Room, Lane University Center 201.

The lecture, titled "Persistent Vegetative State, Prospective Thinking, and Advance Directives," will be presented by Thomas A. Mappes, professor of philosophy. Dr. Mappes has taught at FSU since 1973 and is the co-editor of Biomedical Ethics, sixth edition (McGraw-Hill, 2006).

How would you want to be treated if you existed in a state permanently devoid of consciousness? Persistent vegetative state (PVS)—much discussed in conjunction with the high-profile case of Terry Schiavo—can be understood as "a clinical condition of complete unawareness of the self and the environment, accompanied by sleep-wake cycles..." These words are drawn from a landmark document, the 1994 Multi-Society Task Force Report on the medical aspects of PVS. Dr. Mappes's presentation will begin with a discussion of PVS, focusing on concerns related to both diagnosis and prognosis, and paying special attention to the Task Force Report. His analysis will bring into clear view both diagnostic and prognostic uncertainties related to PVS. He will then explore the impact of these uncertainties on prospective thinking regarding the possibility of PVS and also consider the closely related question of how prospective thinkers might craft advance directives in order to deal most effectively with this possibility.

For information, call Mappes at x4262.

Former High-Ranking CIA Analyst to Speak

Ray McGovern, a former high-ranking CIA analyst who served under seven U.S. presidents and presented morning intelligence briefings at the White House for many years, will speak at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday, Sept. 20, in the Alice R. Manicur Hall of Lane University Center.

McGovern's duties at CIA included chairing National Intelligence Estimates and preparing the President's Daily Brief (PDB). Considered the most authoritative genres of intelligence reporting, these briefs have been the focus of press reporting on "weapons of mass destruction" in Iraq and on what the president was told before 9/11. In January 2003, McGovern along with some other alumni in the intelligence community founded Veteran Intelligence Professionals for Sanity (VIPS). In addition to co-authoring some of VIPS' issuances, McGovern has published some 20 op-eds over the past year on intelligence-related issues.

For more information, contact Larry

Neumark at x7490. This event is sponsored by United Campus Ministry, Catholic Campus Ministry, ACM Human Services Club, FSU Young Democrats, FSU Law and Society Club, FSU Department of History and ACM Peace Club. It is free and open to the public.

Appalachian Festival Highlights Region

FSU will celebrate the Appalachian culture found in Western Maryland and the surrounding mountain region with a daylong outdoor festival on Saturday, Sept. 23, starting at 10 a.m.

FSU's Appalachian Festival, what is hoped to be one of many, will transform the University's upper quad into a celebration of the wide-ranging influences of Appalachian culture, showcasing the region's finest artistic and musical traditions, along with a wide variety of living history presentations, talks on local flora and fauna and plenty of food. All daytime activities, from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m., are free and open to the public.

To kick off the festival, on Friday, Sept. 22, the historic Frostburg Palace Theatre on Main Street will present two feature-length documentaries focusing on Appalachian life, "Stranger With A Camera" and "Sludge." The director of "Sludge," Robert Salyer, will speak as part of a discussion following the films.

Saturday will be filled with music of Appalachia ranging from traditional folk and bluegrass to bagpipes to an African American gospel choir, all performed by regional artists on the FSU outdoor stage. Goat milking demonstrations, archaeological exhibitions and living history activities can also be found on festival grounds. An Appalachian Wagon Train will visit the festival from noon to 1 p.m.

The festival's activities will be divided into a series of thematic tents. The Appalachian Explorations tent will offer presentations in the history of the region and the scientific underpinnings of what makes the area special, including wildlife, farming and the study of native plants and their uses. The Folkways tent will offer introductions to such Appalachian arts as shape note singing, basket making and beekeeping. In the Children's Hands-On tent, kids can try out crafts like weaving, corn-husk dolls, quilt puzzles and much more. The Arts and Crafts tent will provide a broad range of demonstrations and sales of Appalachian handiwork and locally Amish-made crafts, from furniture to needlework to braided rugs.

The day's events will be capped off with "From Ireland to Appalachia," a concert featuring Liz Carroll, John Doyle, Dirk Powell and Bruce Molsky performing the best in traditional acoustic music in the Pealer Recital Hall of the Performing Arts Center. Separately, all are geniuses of their instruments—exciting performers and composers who take the traditions of Irish, Appalachian and rural American music into daring, inventive directions. Carroll and Doyle represent the best of traditional Irish music, while Molsky and Powell demonstrate some of the finest American folk music.

Tickets for the concert are $15 for the general public, with discounts available for children and FSU students, faculty and staff. Tickets are available by calling 1-866-TIXX-CES (1-866-849-9237) toll free or x3137, visiting online at ces.frostburg.edu or in person at the Lane University Center Box Office.

For those who didn't hear enough music on Saturday, the 13th Annual Mid Atlantic Fiddle and Banjo contest sponsored by the Cumberland Lions Club will be Sunday, Sept. 24, at the Culinary Café on downtown Cumberland's Towne Centre.

For more information about the festival, including a schedule of presentations, visit the Web site at <http://involvement.frostburg.edu/cultevents/Appalachian.html>.

Art

Exhibition Features Four Very Different Artists

An exhibition at FSU's Stephanie Ann Roper Gallery is taking a closer look at how the passage of time and images from dreams shape memory and imagination. Featuring a colorful mix of paintings, collages and other works by four distinct artists, "Instigators of Memory" will be on view at the gallery through Sept. 27.

Gail Watkins, an artist based in Annapolis, Md., creates richly collaged abstract paintings that play with perceptions of time by fusing the Pop art aesthetic of American comic strips with ancient motifs and antiqued surfaces.

Connecticut-based Ann Weiner also relies on familiar imagery in her mixed-media artwork. Weiner uses antique dolls, emblems of childhood and innocence, to depict the progress of a spiritual journey.

Elizabeth Austin, an artist who lives in Paris and New Hampshire, paints otherworldly landscapes on the reverse side of thick, plastic panels.

Marian Bingham, or Bing as she is professionally known, also infuses her paintings and photographs with familiar imagery that is timeless and unforgettable.

The Stephanie Ann Roper Gallery has free admission and is open to the public Sunday through Wednesday from 1 to 4 p.m. For information, call the Department of Visual Arts at x4797.

Film

Film Series Launches with 'Fahrenheit 911'

FSU's 2006-2007 International Film Series begins with "Fahrenheit 911" at 7 p.m. Thursday, Sept. 28, in the Lane University Center Atkinson room 201. The series is sponsored by FSU Center Stage.

One of the most controversial and provocative films of the 21st century, "Fahrenheit 9/11" is Academy Award-winning filmmaker Michael Moore's searing examination of the Bush administration's actions in the wake of the tragic events of 9/11. The film shows us a nation kept in constant fear by FBI alerts and lulled into accepting a piece of controversial legislation, the USA Patriot Act. "Fahrenheit 9/11" takes us inside the war in Iraq to tell the stories we haven't heard, illustrating the awful human cost to U.S. soldiers and their families.

All film showings are free and open to the public. For more information, contact the Lane University Center Information Desk at x4411.

WFWM 'Dialogues' Features FSU Folklorist

Dr. Kara Rogers Thomas, FSU folklorist, is the featured guest for the latest edition of the locally produced program "Dialogues" on WFWM 91.9 FM, public radio from FSU. This edition will air at 1 p.m. Sunday, Sept. 10, with a repeat airing on Monday, Sept. 11, at 7:10 p.m.

Thomas, who received her doctorate in Folklore and American Studies from Indiana University Bloomington, was selected by the University as its first folklorist in over 20 years as part of an effort to place folklorists throughout the state by Maryland Traditions, a partnership of the Maryland State Arts Council and the Maryland Historical Trust. Concerned with the study of human creativity and tradition as a reflection of culture, community, and/or place, Rogers Thomas and her students are documenting a variety of regional traditions, including family recipes, narratives, beliefs and customs, music, folk art and more. She is an integral force behind the University's first Appalachian Festival, which will be held on campus Saturday, Sept. 23. In addition, she has produced a series of two-minute informational segments titled "Featuring Folklore," which began airing on WFWM Public Radio this month.

"Dialogues," hosted by Dr. Keith Schlegel, presents conversations with University faculty on significant topics of local, national or international interest. It is produced by WFWM Public Radio in cooperation with the FSU Department of English.

Schlegel has taught at FSU since 1971 and recently completed his third term as English department chair. The author and performer of a dramatic monologue in the character of Walt Whitman as "The Good, Gray Poet," he is also heard every Thursday at 5:25 p.m. on WFWM as the voice of "Oasis," where "poetry and history meet."

For questions, comments or suggestions, regarding "Dialogues" or any other WFWM programming, please call x4143. To receive up-to-date information on programming at WFWM Public Radio, including notification of special programs, e-mail wfwm2@frostburg.edu.

University Neighbors Sets Fall Meeting

University Neighbors, an association of residents and property owners in the neighborhood adjacent to FSU, will hold its fall organizational meeting on Sunday, Sept. 17, at 7 p.m. at the Frostburg Community Center on Water St. in Frostburg. Students who live in the neighborhood are encouraged to attend. Refreshments will be served.

University Neighbors was founded in the spring of 2004 and since that time, has been working to build relationships between year-round residents, student tenants, and landlords who live near the campus. By joining University Neighbors, off-campus students will have a way to help improve their "home away from home" and get to know their neighbors.

For more information, contact any member of the organization's leadership team: Maxine Bond (301-689-5464), Lois Deasy (301-689-8082), or Eleanor Miller (301-689-3572).

Boren Scholarship Competition Opens

The Institute of International Education is accepting applications for the 2007-2008 National Security Education Program David L. Boren Undergraduate Scholarships for study abroad.
