CES Kicks Off Season With Musical Group Red Baraat

The FSU Cultural Events Series will launch its 2012-2013 season with a fun, free festival that features a spirited performance from the lively nine-piece musical group, Red Baraat. The festival begins at 6 p.m. on Monday, Aug. 27, on the University's Clock Tower Quad beside the Lane University Center. The performance from Red Baraat begins at 7:30 p.m.

Red Baraat projects a powerful, sometimes boisterous and always celebratory sound that the Village Voice describes as "a fiery blend of raucous Indian bhangra and funky New Orleans brass." Led by celebrated percussionist Sunny Jain, the band's music involves Jain's dhol (a double-sided, barrel-shaped North Indian drum slung over one shoulder), drum set, percussion, sousaphone and five horns. National Public Radio suggested that audiences might "imagine a New Orleans street band playing Indian Bollywood tunes with a go-go beat. ... It's a crazy blast of fun."

The 6 p.m. festival is offered through CES' Inspiring Audiences program and features elements inspired by Indian culture, including traditional food, a vibrant Holi-style color run and creative art projects. Audience members will also have the opportunity to meet the musicians of Red Baraat and learn more about their unique approach to music.

For info, contact the Cultural Events Series box office at x3137 or visit CES' webpage at ces.frostburg.edu.

Theatre

CAST to Present Shakespeare's "Antony & Cleopatra"

FSU's Department of English will host the Cambridge American Stage Tour presentation of one of Shakespeare's most moving yet underperformed masterpieces, "Antony and Cleopatra," on Tuesday, Sept. 18, at 7:30 p.m. in the Performing Arts Center's Pealer Recital Hall.

In this tragedy set in ancient Rome, Mark Antony, triumvir and legendary soldier, has abandoned his domestic duties in favor of his beguiling Egyptian queen. Into a spinning backdrop of furious wars, forced smiles and too-firm handshakes, Antony must come home. Yet even the titans of Rome cannot sever him from the pull of Cleopatra, the volatile point around which Antony whirls and anchors his world. Devastatingly poignant and startlingly comic, "Antony and Cleopatra" sets a rising star against a hero in decline, while pushing to a breaking point the passion that could topple empires.

CAST is an annual theatre tour from Great Britain to the United States that has been running for the last 12 years. Each year, a company of the Cambridge University's most talented directors, producers, actors and technicians bring one of Shakespeare's plays to universities, high schools and professional theatres across the east coast of America.

Nikki Moss, director, has an extensive background in physical theatre, and in her own words is "aiming to create a fresh piece of classical work from an incredible story, in our own way, with our own energy and passion, and to create a performance that is as tremendous as its heroes."

She'll be helped along the way by the largest company the tour has taken to the U.S., in its most ambitious production yet. The tour also boasts a number of performers with professional film credits, including Genevieve Gaunt (Cleopatra), an alumna of the Harry Potter franchise.

Ticket prices are $6 for students and $12 for the general public. Tickets can be purchased at the door on the night of the performance.

For more information, call x4221. For CAST information, visit <http://castcambridge.com>.

This event is sponsored by the FSU Department of English, with support from the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences, the Office of the Provost and the FSU Foundation, Inc.

Frostburg One-Act Play Festival Winners Announced, Date Set

FSU's Center for Creative Writing announces that Roger Strauss' play, "Delicious," is the winner of the 2012 One-Act Playwriting Competition for the Frostburg One-Act Play Festival. The plays were judged on plot, character development, dialogue and overall quality. His play, and those of the runners-up, will be produced for the festival, to be held Friday and Saturday, Sept. 28 and 29, in Frostburg.

Strauss, of Moretown, Vt., came late to playwriting. He began his writing career upon semi-retirement from 30 years as executive director of a community mental health center. His play, "Caring," won the new play contest of the Tennessee Theatre Company in Knoxville in 2005. In 2006, "The Lessons of History," a one act, was awarded Honorable Mention at the FirstStageLA One-Act Play Contest. Strauss is also a founding member of the Vermont Playwrights Circle. In "Delicious," Adam, Eve, Snake and God come back to deconstruct and reconstruct the classic myth that got us all to where we are today. Strauss will receive the top prize of $750 and a full-stage production of his play.

Lawrence Joseph's "The Color in the Bathroom," a play in which partners Martin and Louis discuss colors, relationships, Vegas, Aunt Polly and more, won second place. Joseph is a long-time actor who moved from the Denver area to Fort Worth, Texas. The third-place winner, "The Next Move," about an elderly couple who uncover some disturbing things while bickering their way through a Sunday afternoon, is by New Yorker William Fowkes. Fowkes is an award-winning playwright and published fiction writer. Joseph and Fowkes will receive $250 and $100, respectively.

For info, call x4340 or go to www.frostburg.edu/cwcenter.

Visual Arts

"Invisible City" First Show of Season

The first exhibition of the fall 2012 semester in FSU's Stephanie Ann Roper Gallery will be by photographer and video artist Jenee Mateer, a show titled "Invisible City: An Installation." The show will begin with an opening reception on Friday, Sept. 7, at 7 p.m. and run through Wednesday, Sept. 26.

Through her art, Mateer explores the issues of desire, identity, gender and the complexity of language. Her work includes straight representational photographs, as well as pieces created through a process of layering of original photographs and appropriated images. Recently, Mateer has incorporated video installation and mixed media materials such as plaster, resin and wax. Her artwork has been displayed in national and internationally juried exhibitions and in such venues as the Biggs Museum, the Delaware Center for Contemporary Art, the Rhode Island Foundation, the Long Beach Island Foundation for the Arts and Sciences and the Convergence International Arts Festival. Mateer holds a Master of Fine Arts degree from the Maryland Institute College of Art and teaches photography and digital media at Towson University in Baltimore.

For info, go to www.mateer-cromwell-art.com.

The Stephanie Ann Roper Gallery has free admission and is open to the public Sunday through Wednesday from 1 to 4 p.m. For info, contact the FSU Department of Visual Arts at x4797.

Presentations

Undergraduate Research Symposium

The College of Liberal Arts and Sciences will host the Second Annual Undergraduate Research Symposium on Friday, May 3, 2013. This symposium will celebrate the research accomplishments of FSU's undergraduate students. It also will provide the participants the unique opportunity to present their work to their peers and share experiences across disciplines.

The CLAS Undergraduate Research Working Group will be inviting applications from students and their faculty mentors who have conducted research or participated in an experiential learning project with a significant investigative component. Projects conducted in summer 2012, fall 2012 or spring 2013 will be considered. A call for applications will be sent out with further details.

This year the symposium will be expanded to include oral presentations in addition to posters and other physical displays. The working group plans to hold a workshop to assist students in the preparation of their presentations. Some funding is available to defray the costs of preparing a presentation.

For info, contact Karen Keller at kkeller@frostburg.edu or x4174, or Linda Steele at lsteel@frostburg.edu or x4137.

Points of Pride

Golden Named Dean of College of Education

Following a national search, Dr. Clarence Golden has been named dean of FSU's College of Education effective July 1 by Provost Stephen Simpson. Golden served as interim dean for the past year.

Golden, a 44-year veteran in the field of education, is also a professor of Educational Leadership at FSU. He previously served as associate dean for the College of Education and chair of the Department of Educational Professions. In addition to his experience at the university level and in public schools, Golden authored a nationally recognized leadership program in 2000 and 2007 through the Educational Leadership Constituent Council (ELCC) of the National Policy Board for Educational Administration.

"The College of Education will be looking at national models for colleges of education to ensure that we are best serving all of its programs, including those programs offered at the University System of Maryland at Hagerstown," Golden said.

The College of Education encompasses three departments: Educational Professions, Health and Physical Education and Recreation and Parks Management. FSU's teacher preparation programs are accredited by NCATE, the bachelor's program in Athletic Training is accredited by the Commission on Accreditation of Athletic Training Education and the bachelor's program in Recreation and Parks Management is accredited by Recreation and Parks Management: National Recreation and Park Association/American Association for Leisure and Recreation.

Golden earned an Associate in Arts degree from Allegany College of Maryland, Bachelor of Science in Education, Master of Science in Administration and Supervision and a Master of Science in Management from FSU and a Doctorate of Education in Curriculum and Instruction from the University of Maryland, College Park. He started his career as a middle school math and science teacher. Golden also serves as national college program reviewer for ELCC and as an evaluator of principal/superintendent licensure assessments nationwide with Educational Testing Service.

He replaced Dr. Kenneth Witmer, who accepted a position at West Chester University in Pennsylvania last year.

For info about the FSU College of Education, visit www.frostburg.edu/colleges/coe.

Ornstein Gets First-Ever Distinguished Faculty Award

President Jonathan Gibraltar and Dr. Barbara Ornstein

Dr. Barbara Ornstein, a professor in FSU's Department of Educational Professions and associate director of the FSU Children's Literature Centre, has received the first-ever President's Distinguished Faculty Award from President Jonathan Gibraltar.

Gibraltar established the award to recognize and encourage those faculty members whose activities move FSU forward by advancing the University's mission and goals and its strategic planning initiatives. Ornstein received a monetary award and was given a medallion and recognition during the University's spring commencement ceremony.

A member of FSU's faculty since 1990, Ornstein's leadership and effort have contributed to the continued success of the Spring Festival of Children's Literature and the Summer Author Institute for educators and the Storybook Holiday and Pirate's Ahoy events for children and their parents, all of which connect FSU's education students with the community and raise FSU's profile as a leader in education and children's literacy.

She also coordinates the collaborative Adopt-a-School project and the environmental training program, Project Learning Tree, which recently celebrated its 50th workshop for elementary education teacher candidates at FSU. The Learning Tree workshops, held twice each semester on campus, annually train approximately 120 pre-service teachers in strategies and activities to encourage environmental awareness in elementary students.

Students and alumni alike credit her care and support for their learning and well-being, and for instilling a mindset of service characteristic of a career in education. Many students stay in contact with her and return after graduation to help out with the various events she organizes. Ornstein also serves as the advisor for the Frostburg Student Education Association.

The President's Distinguished Faculty Award is supported by gifts to the FSU Foundation. For info, visit foundation.frostburg.edu or call x4161.

Baer Honored on Daily Record's "20 in Their 20s" List

April Baer, coordinator for University Wellness at FSU, has been named to The Daily Record's "20 in Their 20s" list, which features Maryland's up-and-comers who are successful by or before the age of 30. Selected by The Daily Record staff, honorees are chosen on the basis of professional accomplishment, civic involvement and impact of achievement. The program celebrates the best and brightest under 30 whose creativity and spirit are already contributing to a new energy in Maryland.

In her association with University Wellness, Baer has engaged students in the CHILL (Creating Healthy, Informed, Lasting, Lifestyles) program in improving their health at all levels. CHILL includes preventative student health screenings, wellness promotion and the development of a variety of campuswide activities and educational outreach efforts that encourage exercise and nutrition. Through her grassroots efforts with CHILL, FSU was recently recognized by the American Heart Association as a Gold Standard Workplace winner. She also led the effort to make FSU a smoke-free campus and is a part of FSU's efforts with the National College Health Improvement Project, a national collaborative working to curtail national trends in high-risk drinking. Baer holds bachelor's and master's degrees with honors from East Carolina University.

The Daily Record provides legal and business information to Maryland readers. For info, visit www.TheDailyRecord.com.

For info about the CHILL program, visit www.frostburg.edu/chill or email wellness@frostburg.edu.

Officer Kirby Sworn In

Newly minted University Police officer, Jessica Kirby, graduated from basic training Aug. 10 and was officially sworn in Aug. 21 by the clerk of the Circuit Court, Dawn Lindsey.

Sgt. McCumber Wins Second Place in Shooting Competition

Deputy Smith of the Mineral County Sheriff's Office presents Sgt. Jason McCumber with a 5.11 tactical police bag for his second-place win.

Sgt. Jason T. McCumber represented the University Police Department in the First Annual Law Enforcement Shoot Out held in early August in Mineral County, W.Va. The event was sponsored by the Fraternal Order of Police – Raymond E. Dawson Lodge No.111 in Keyser, W.Va. McCumber won second place for his expert shooting, using his duty weapon. Police officers from several participating agencies in West Virginia took part in the competition, which was scored on a multi-target, combat-style course.

McCumber is an eight-year veteran of University Police, assigned to the patrol division, and is the department's firearms instructor.

Take Note

FSU to Offer Bachelor's in Secure Computing and Information Assurance

FSU has received approval to offer a Bachelor of Science degree in secure computing and information assurance, a program unique to the Western Maryland region, which will help meet the regional, state and national shortage of cybersecurity professionals.

The program was approved by the University System of Maryland Board of Regents and the Maryland Higher Education Commission.

The program focuses on how to secure digital communications, information and access while being connected to the global community. Experiential education opportunities are found throughout the program. Examples can be found in courses such as "Cloud Computing and Security," "Hacking Exposed and Incident Response" and "Emerging Issues and Cyber Warfare."

The program will prepare students for careers as information assurance specialists, cyber forensics analysts, incident response experts, information technology managers, corporate network managers, quality assurance specialists and other careers requiring a background in cybersecurity and information assurance.

President Obama has declared that the "cyber threat is one of the most serious economic and national security challenges we face as a nation" and that "America's economic prosperity in the 21st century will depend on cybersecurity." In the state of Maryland, USM Chancellor William E. Kirwan chaired the Cyber Security Task Force, which identified the need for expanded educational offerings in the areas of secure computing and information assurance.

The Secure Computing and Information Assurance program is the latest in FSU's continuing effort to develop programs that address those areas of the workforce that are facing a critical shortage of employees with the appropriate education, including Bachelor of Science degrees in nursing, information technology and engineering, the Master of Arts in Teaching and Master of Science in Applied Computer Science degrees, and the Doctor of Education in Educational Leadership.

The secure computing and information assurance program will be housed in FSU's Department of Computer Science and Information Technologies. For info, contact Dr. Brad Rinard, chair of the Department of Computer Science and Information Technologies at brinard@frostburg.edu.

FSU to Continue Community Dialogue Series

FSU has announced plans to continue its "Sustaining Campus and Community" dialogues for at least the next two years. These community meetings, initiated last spring, convene students, year-round residents, local officials and University leaders to discuss a variety of issues and create new opportunities for collaborative problem-solving and coalition-building.

Ultimately the project, in partnership with the Maryland Judiciary's Mediation and Conflict Resolution Office (MACRO), should facilitate the development of a community-based action plan to support improved communication and conflict resolution. The previous sessions produced some focused areas of discussions that will be the basis for the dialogues to come this fall.

The project will begin with a planning retreat on Sunday, Sept. 30, at a location to be announced, to develop a strategic approach to the dialogues. Anyone interested in being included in the retreat and being part of the leadership of this community-building effort should contact project manager Dr. Elesha L. Ruminski at elruminski@frostburg.edu or x4480.

Ruminski is the chair of the Department of Communication Studies and coordinator of Leadership Studies at FSU, as well as the president of the Mountainside Community Mediation Center, a local partner in this dialogue series that will provide additional support.

The retreat will be followed by training sessions at FSU this fall to teach community participants how to lead a public dialogue, a conversational approach that helps people find common ground and build productive working relationships.

In addition, two open dialogue sessions are planned for the fall, both three-hour evening sessions with dates and downtown Frostburg locations to be announced. Both will be free and open to the public.

Everyone with an interest in the Frostburg community is invited to participate in any part of this process.

Nationally known conflict resolution scholar-practitioners who helped lead the spring sessions will return to offer their expertise, Dr. Frank Dukes, lecturer and director of the Institute for Environmental Negotiation at the University of Virginia, and Dr. Marvin Johnson, founder and executive director of the Center for Alternative Dispute Resolution.

MACRO will also assist FSU in identifying and developing new community-university projects and capturing the "Sustaining Campus and Community" efforts in documentary form to educate other communities facing similar challenges and opportunities.

The series is part of a continuing set of initiatives designed to teach all members of the Frostburg community about conflict management and violence prevention. Others include the campus conversation event for students held last November, the new Conflict Communication Studies track in the Department of Communication Studies and participation in the second national Enough Is Enough week-long anti-violence campaign in April. Another part of the initiative is the recent agreement between FSU and the city of Frostburg that allows their respective police departments to share jurisdiction in the neighborhood surrounding the campus and provides funds from FSU to increase the staffing and pay for Frostburg City Police officers.

Entrepreneur of the Year Award

The USM Board of Regents has launched an Entrepreneur of the Year Award open to USM full-time faculty and staff as part of the system's increasing efforts to promote a systemwide entrepreneurial culture. To submit an application, go to www.usmd.edu/entrepreneur.

For info, contact Anne Moultrie, vice chancellor for Communications at USM, at 301-445-2722 or amoulttrie@usmd.edu.

FSU’s 1-Year Anniversary as a Smoke-Free Campus

FSU celebrated its one-year anniversary for being a smoke-free campus in early August. This effort was reviewed for more than a decade and seeks to make the campus a healthier place in which to learn, grow and work. According to the Centers for Disease Control, nicotine dependence is the “most common form of chemical dependence in the United States,” and an average of 69 percent of smokers attempt to eliminate their smoking habits.

For smoking cessation assistance or to learn more about the smoke-free policy, visit www.frostburg.edu/smokefree.

Clay Studio at FSU

A basic (non-credit) ceramics class will be held on Wednesdays from Sept. 12 to Oct. 31 from 6 to 9 p.m. in Fine Arts 107. The cost for the class is $160 (plus the cost of clay and tools).

Sign-up forms can be obtained through the University and Student Billing Office in Pullen 148 or from Patti Graham in Fine Arts 115.

For info, contact Jackie Brown at jbrown@frostburg.edu.

College Students Should Hit the Books on Insurance

Consider Needs for Health, Auto and Renters Policies

As students head off to college in the fall, the Maryland Insurance Administration encourages young adults – and their parents – to get smart about insurance. Children living away from home might not be covered by their parents’ property, auto and health insurance. Parents should carefully review their homeowners, auto and health insurance policies to determine exactly what is – and what is not – covered for their college-bound children.

Students who don’t have health insurance through a parent’s health insurance policy, or who have limited coverage due to network service areas, should consider whether they need to buy an individual health plan directly from an insurer or see if student health plans are available through the University. Student health plans are underwritten by an insurer that has contracted with a college to offer coverage to its students.

For more info, contact the Maryland Insurance Administration at 410-468-2000, 1-800-492-6116 or www.mdinsurance.state.md.us; or visit www.Facebook.com/MdInsuranceAdmin.

It’s Not Too Early to Think About Graduation ...

... especially if you intend to graduate on Wednesday, Dec. 19, at 2 p.m.!

The Colleges of Business, Education and Liberal Arts and Sciences will present their graduates at a single ceremony in the Cordts PE Center. Tickets will be required for admission. The number of tickets allotted to each graduate will be determined later.

Check with the Registrar’s Office to ensure that everything is in order for you to graduate and all your information in PAWS is correct.

If you’d like to order your cap and gown, graduation announcements, class rings or diploma frames, you can do so now through www.balfour.com.

Frostburg Museum Happenings

Braddock Stone Dedication

The Braddock Stone, a 1-ton, 5-foot-high engraved rock used as a highway sign during the 18th century, is moving to the Frostburg Museum.

The Braddock Stone Dedication, the premiere event of Frostburg’s Bicentennial Celebration Weekend, will take place on Thursday, Sept. 13, from 4 to 6 p.m. at the museum, located at the corner of Hill and Oak streets. Bob Bantz, a local historian, will be the keynote speaker for the event.

A new exhibition facility on the east side of the museum building will house the 200-year-old stone marker.

Donations for the Braddock Stone exhibit are welcome and can be sent to the Frostburg Museum, Box 92, Frostburg, MD 21532.

Captain Jack

Frank Blackwell Mayer’s 1858 painting, “Independence,” will be on exhibit during Frostburg’s Bicentennial. The painting features Squire Jack Porter, an early coal mine operator in the Eckhart-Frostburg area and represents the ideal of an American in the 1850s – the independent spirit that encouraged success.

Museum Fundraiser

The museum’s annual fundraiser, “This Is Not a Yard Sale, Yard Sale,” will be held on two consecutive Saturdays, Sept. 1 and 8, from noon to 5 p.m.

Donations for the sale are needed. Bring items to the museum during its normal hours, Tuesday through Saturday from noon to 5 p.m., or call 301-689-1195 for pickup.

Are You a Museum Member?

Membership levels are as follows: senior/student – $10, individual – $20 and family $35. To become a member, choose a level, write out a check to “The Frostburg Museum” and mail it to the museum at P.O. Box 92, Frostburg, MD 21532.

Volunteers Are Always Welcome!
The Frostburg Museum is a community effort governed and operated by volunteers. If you would like to volunteer, call 301-689-1195 or email frostburgmuseum@verizon.net to discuss interests and availability.

Want Your Event Filmed?

FSU-TV3 is gathering information for filming events for the fall semester. Events can be covered with a single camera for a visiting lecturer, artist or performance or with a multi-camera camera crew. Events for this package include panel discussions, fashion shows or concerts in larger venues.

For those who would like to have an event filmed, or who advise a student organization that would like to have an event filmed, FSU-TV3 needs at least four weeks’ notice to try and schedule a student crew for an event.

To have an event filmed, go to www.frostburg.edu/fsu-tv3/taping-request and fill out the form with all pertinent information about the event.

FSU-TV3 does not film for archival purposes. Events that are filmed are to be used for future programming on FSU-TV3.

For info, call the office at x3011.
