A Letter from the USM Board of Regents Chair and the USM Chancellor:

February 4, 2004

Dear USM Faculty and Staff,

When we presented the University System of Maryland's fiscal year 2005 budget request to the Maryland General Assembly recently, we were honored to represent you. Your dedication and commitment to quality have helped the system earn its reputation for excellence. We, along with the USM institutional presidents and others, are fighting hard to maintain that excellence as we make the case for higher education in Annapolis.

With the budget cutbacks of the last two years, all of you have been working even harder as colleagues have been laid off and positions eliminated. We understand that this is a difficult period, and we deeply appreciate your continued commitment to helping your institutions and the system keep the promise of quality to the many people we serve.

During the current session of the Maryland General Assembly, we are highlighting the university system's tremendous value to the state. We are emphasizing its vital role in preparing a highly educated citizenry and producing the research and knowledge transfer the state needs to sustain a strong economy and a high quality of life for all Marylanders.

In addition, we are calling for a stronger partnership between the university system and the state's elected officials to provide sufficient and predictable state support so that we can ensure affordable access to high quality institutions.

We also would like to express our appreciation to the USM councils of faculty, staff, and students. They are offering valuable support for our current efforts in Annapolis.

Already, we have achieved an important milestone on our road to financial recovery. As he promised, Governor Robert L. Ehrlich did not cut state funding for the USM in the operating budget he submitted for fiscal year 2005. Moreover, the governor's budget proposal includes a merit pool of 2.5 percent and a COLA of 1.6 percent. Protecting these funds in the budget process is our highest priority because we know that our talented faculty and staff have not had a compensation increase in more than three years. We also are encouraged by the fact that Governor Ehrlich's capital budget for the system is the largest in our history.

As Maryland's economic outlook improves, it is our expectation that the state will renew its strong investment in the University System of Maryland. This is the goal we are striving to achieve.

Again, thank you for all you do to advance the University System of Maryland.

Sincerely,

Clifford M. Kendall, Chair
Board of Regents
University System of Maryland

William E. Kirwan, Chancellor
University System of Maryland

Speakers

Mills to Present 'Reconstruction of South Africa' Lecture

Music professor Dr. Susan W. Mills will present a lecture titled "The Reconstruction of South Africa," a program in the FSU African American Studies Series, on Thursday, Feb. 12, at 7:30 p.m. in the Lane University Center's Alice R. Manicur Assembly Hall. The event will also feature music from Unified Voices Under God's Dominion, FSU's gospel choir. The event is free and open to the public.

The lecture will focus on the reconstruction of South Africa, since the crumbling of Apartheid. Now, 10 years after the Apartheid Government ended, South Africans are in their "new struggle" to take responsibility for their republic and to include all citizens in the new infrastructure of their nation. The music and the discussion will focus on this new struggle and its relationship to individual lives in South Africa.

Feb. 12 was chosen because it is Abraham Lincoln's birthday, and many Americans associate Abraham Lincoln with the emancipation of slaves in the U.S. With the emancipation came years of further struggle for African Americans because the years of slavery did not necessarily prepare them for citizenship in a democracy.

Unified Voices Under God's Dominion will perform sacred and traditional choral music from South Africa during the program. The choir is a student-run organization, a highly sought-out group of singers who perform for the enjoyment of the campus community, churches and other organizations upon request. The music selected is from Mills' repertoire, learned from South African musicians during her teaching fellowship there in 2001.

For more information, contact Mills at x4119.

Take Note

Scheduling and Religious Observances

FSU President Catherine R. Gira requests sensitive and responsible compliance by all students, faculty and staff to the following FSU and Board of Regents policy:

"It is the policy of FSU that the academic programs and services of the University shall be available to all qualified students who have been admitted to its programs, regardless of their religious beliefs. Students shall not be penalized because of observances of their religious holidays and shall be given an opportunity to make up, within a reasonable time period, any academic assignment that is missed due to the individual participation in religious observances. It is the responsibility of the student to notify his/her instructor of conflicts between religious observances and scheduled course activities."

Courtesy suggests that students should notify their instructors of conflicts and make arrangements for making up missed work PRIOR to an absence due to religious observance.

All faculty and staff have been sent a calendar of Religious and Ethnic Holidays for reference. If you have questions, contact Mary Gartner, assistant provost, x4212.

Brady Health Center Change in Policy

Effective immediately, Brady Health Center will no longer treat employees for on-the-job injuries. Anyone needing medical attention should go to the Frostburg Medical Clinic or to the doctor or facility of their choice. The University Police will continue to transport employees to the Frostburg Medical Clinic if in their "conservative good judgment" it can be done safely.

Legislative Update

StateLines will bring you updates on the USM-related happenings in Annapolis during the legislative session.

Last week's update contained an error: The planning, construction and equipment funds for Tawes Hall were not currently included in the governor's capital budget. The funds had been in the USM Board of Regents' plan, but did not make it into Gov. Ehrlich's plan.

Join American Red Cross Grateful Life Tour

Do you remember when Simon and Garfunkel had a top 10 hit single? Did you watch the Partridge Family? The American Red Cross is bringing back the '70s, so jump on the bandwagon and join the Grateful Life Tour.

The Grateful Life Tour is a grassroots effort to raise awareness of the need for blood and to get community members excited about giving the gift of life. The Tour will be cruisin' in to selected blood drives and blood centers in Kentucky, Maryland, Ohio, Pennsylvania, Virginia and West Virginia. Each presenting donor will receive a psychedelic Grateful Life Tour tie-dyed t-shirt, and the Red Cross has planned an array of activities at blood drives featured as part of the Tour.

The Tour will visit FSU on Monday, Feb. 9, from noon to 6 p.m. in the Lane University Center. All presenting donors can enter a drawing to win a mountain bike. This blood drive is being sponsored by the National Broadcasting Society and Omega Psi Phi Fraternity Inc.

"Numerous volunteers, businesses and organizations will be 'rolling up their sleeves' to help us reach our goal to collect more than 125,000 units of blood," said Taunia Oechslin, Senior Director, Donor Recruitment and Communications, for the Greater Alleghenies Region of American Red Cross Blood Services.

A full list of blood drive and blood centers that the Grateful Life Tour will be visiting is available on www.redcrosslife.org.

To be eligible to donate, a person must be at least 17 years of age; weigh at least 105 pounds; and be in generally good health.

Service Challenge: Are You up for It?

How many of you think you could easily volunteer 25 hours a semester? The VOICE Clearinghouse is challenging each member of the FSU Community to serve at least 25 hours in the upcoming semester. Not only does the Community Service Database of Allegany County make finding volunteer opportunities easier, but the VOICE Clearinghouse coordinator is here to help you find a volunteer experience that will work best for you.

If you are a member of the FSU community and already volunteer, whether it be in the PTA or at your church, please call x4210 and let us know. We would like to be able to let everyone know just how much our community is giving back!

So the question is, are you up for the challenge? If so, please e-mail voice@frostburg.edu, call x4210, or visit <http://involvement.frostburg.edu>. Click first on "Center for Volunteerism and National Service" and then on "VOICE Clearinghouse" to register.

Free help preparing 2003 tax returns is available through the IRS-sponsored VITA (Volunteer Income Tax Assistance) Program at FSU.

Help with basic federal and Maryland income tax returns will be offered from early February through early April by FSU's College of Business students who have been trained and approved by the IRS. Faculty members will oversee these student preparers.

Appointments must be made in advance by calling Joyce Middleton, VITA site co-coordinator, at x4154. Students will work Saturdays from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. in Framptom Hall (except for March 20 and 27). A drop-off service will also be available throughout the week.

Taxpayers arriving for an appointment should bring any tax packages mailed by the IRS and the state, Form W-2 from all employers, interest and dividend statements (Form 1099), a copy of last year's returns, if available, and any other relevant information about income and expenses. Taxpayer and dependent social security numbers and birth dates are also needed.

On the Radio

Historian Broadcasts Local History on WFWM

Western Maryland Historian Al Feldstein recently recorded 124 "Local Moments in History" segments to air on WFWM, public radio from FSU.

The two-minute spots air nightly, Monday through Thursday at 6 p.m., and at various times throughout the day. The segments cover such topics as local political, school board issues and entertainment issues from the past.

"School prayer, floods, horse racing, gun control, consolidation, and slots. One would think we're reading from today's local newspaper. But actually, these were our same local issues 30, 50, even 100 years ago," says Feldstein. "It's easy to see that the more things change, the more things stay the same."

Feldstein is an award-winning regional historian who since 1980 has published over 27 books and videotapes on the history of western Maryland and nearby West Virginia. His latest work, a social protest and movement poster which is being sold nationally, is titled, "Buttons of the Cause, 1960-2003" and can be viewed at www.buttonsofthecause.com.

Scholarships

Cooke Foundation Offers Graduate Scholarship

The Jack Kent Cooke Foundation, which runs one of the country's most competitive private scholarship programs, has opened its Graduate Scholarship Program to graduating seniors and recent alumni from any accredited college or university in the U.S. Previously, the competition was open only to students from or attending school in Virginia, Maryland and D.C. With the change, college seniors at more than 2,000 accredited institutions in the U.S., and alumni who have graduated from those institutions since May 1999, may compete for the scholarships, which can total as much as $50,000 per year for up to six years.

The Foundation plans to award as many as 35 scholarships in July of 2004 for use during the 2004-2005 academic year and will renew award in subsequent years based on performance. Recipients may use the award at any accredited university. A panel of national experts will assist the Foundation in selecting scholars. Candidates for the scholarship must be nominated by the faculty representative at their undergraduate institution. Application materials are available on the Foundation's website, www.jackkentcookefoundation.org, or by calling 1-800-498-6478. The faculty representative for FSU is Dr. Ann Bristow, at x4446 or abristow@frostburg.edu.

FSU graduate Roger Skipper was one of the Foundation's first scholars.

The Foundation is a private, independent foundation established in 2000 by the estate of Jack Kent Cooke to help young people of exceptional promise reach their full potential through education. It focuses in particular on individuals with financial need.
