AAST Plans Summer Mini Grant Colloquium

The African American Studies Program invites you to attend the first annual AAST Summer Mini Grant Colloquium, Tuesday, Feb. 15, from 7:30 to 9 p.m. in the Leake Room. Join us as we celebrate the work and share the research findings of Suzi Mills, Music/Performing Arts, and Kate Keely, Visual Art. Suzi and Kate were the first two recipients of the AAST Summer Mini-Research Grant Program initiated this past year. The focus of Suzi's project, "Salsa Caliente," was "to better understand the collaborations that took place in the early decades of the 20th century between Cubans in the U.S., African Americans and other Latin American musicians that resulted in the contemporary Latin musical genre of Salsa." Kate's research focus on African American and Afro-Hispanic artists yielded great insight into the happenings and movements in the contemporary world of art. After a brief presentation by each of the grant recipients, we will share part of the sights and sounds of their research efforts.

Refreshments will be served.
