Spring Dance Concert Brings Famous Performers to FSU

'So You Think You Can Dance' Star a Guest Artist

The Division of Performing Arts at FSU will present the spring dance concert, "Peace, Love, and Faith in Oneself," featuring diverse dance styles such as lyrical, hip-hop, jazz, modern and contemporary ballet. Performances will take place at 7:30 p.m. on May 4 and 5 in the Performing Arts Center's Drama Theatre.

Just in time for spring, the dance concert will highlight electrifying performances by special guest artist Musa Cooper from the hit television show, "So You Think You Can Dance," and the work of guest choreographer Lauren Quattro from Alchemy Dance Company. A new piece by interim director Desiree Witt titled "The Contemporary Anarchist" will also be featured, along with choreography by dance company members Kelly Jones, Antonia deBarros, Katie Weedon, Ashley Askins and Jessica Seminerio.

Musa Cooper danced into hearts as a finalist during the second season of "So You Think You Can Dance" in 2006. Cooper, a dancer and model, specializes in hip-hop and street funk styles. He has performed for both Jay-Z and Beyoncé Knowles and danced on tour with Macy Gray and Neil Young. He also made cameo appearances on television programs such as "Sex in the City" and has acted in several television commercials. A self-taught mover from the East Coast, Cooper is known for energizing audiences with highly rhythmic and acrobatic performances.

Guest choreographer Lauren Quattro has appeared in countless performances including "The Nutcracker" and "Carmina Burana," and she also toured with the Cody Clark Ensemble. Currently co-director of Alchemy Dance Company in Morgantown, W.Va., Quattro has trained in classical ballet, pointe, modern, jazz, tap, Hawaiian/Tahitian and Russian character dance for nearly 20 years.

Music

Los Folkloristas Brings Latin Rhythms to FSU

Audiences are invited to take an around-the-world musical tour with Los Folkloristas when the group performs at 7:30 p.m. on Monday, April 30, in the Performing Arts Center's Pealer Recital Hall at FSU.

Founded in 1966 to preserve and record the traditional music of Mexico and Latin America, Los Folkloristas' seven members perform music from over a dozen countries—even pre-Columbian America—and together play more than 100 different instruments. They have recorded more than 30 albums worldwide and contributed to the soundtracks for the award-winning films "El Norte" and "My Family."

To purchase tickets or for more information, call the FSU Cultural Events Box Office at x3137 or toll free at 1-866-TIXX-CES, or visit online at ces.frostburg.edu.

Free Performances

The Division of Performing Arts - Music will present several performances this week.

The FSU Brass Ensembles will perform Tuesday, May 1, at 8 p.m. in the PAC Pealer Recital Hall. Brian Plitnik will direct the concert.

Kristin Bacchiocchi Stewart, flute professor at FSU, and Michael Sheppard, piano, will perform a recital at FSU on Wednesday, May 2, at 8 p.m. in The concert will include selections by Schulhoff, Taktakishvili, Hummell, Sancan, Karg-Elert and Giesecking.

All performances are free and open to the public. For information call x4109.

Choral Groups Perform Major Works

The FSU Chorale, the Cumberland Choral Society and the Orchestra of the Alleghenies present Franz Joseph Haydn's "Nelson Mass" and Frances Poulenc's "Gloria," under the direction of Karen Soderberg-Sarnaker, at 3 p.m. Sunday, May 6, in the Performing Arts Center, Pealer Recital Hall.

The "Missa in Angustiis," nicknamed the "Nelson Mass," was composed in 1798. The Koussevitsky Foundation of the Library of Congress in America commissioned the "Gloria." Poulenc composed the "Gloria" between 1959-60. Both are deemed as two highly significant works in music literature.

Haydn's "Nelson Mass" uses four soloists, a choir and a smaller classical orchestra consisting of one flute, two oboes, two bassoons, three trumpets, timpani, strings and organ. Soloists include soprano Preshanti Navaratnam, from London, England, Patricia Kelby, mezzo-soprano, Jonathan Hodel, tenor, and baritone G. Ryan Bowie, a senior at FSU. Poulenc's "Gloria" is scored for soprano solo and an orchestra consisting of piccolo, two flutes, two oboes, an English horn, two clarinets, bass clarinet, two bassoons, contrabassoon, four horns, three trumpets, three trombones, tuba, timpani, harp and strings. The 100-voice choir includes the Cumberland Choral Society and the FSU University Chorale, under the direction of Dr. Karen Soderberg-Sarnaker. The Orchestra of the Alleghenies is comprised of musicians from the tri-state area, FSU music faculty and students.

Admission to the concert is $15 for adults and $5 for students. Call x4145 to reserve and purchase tickets.

Local Music Benefit For Mass Comm

To bring attention to Western Maryland's vibrant and growing music scene, the FSU's Department of Mass Communication will host the fourth annual Mind Culture Original Music concert on Friday, May 11, beginning at 7 p.m. at the Eagles Club on Main Street in Frostburg, Md. Tickets are $5 at the door.

"This is a great opportunity for area folks to sample some of the incredible musical talent available in this area," said John Lombardi, FSU Department of Mass Communication chair and instructor of the class that produces the Mind Culture Original Music project.

Each spring, mass communication students create a compilation music CD featuring groups and solo artists from around the region. The culmination of the Mind Culture project is a live concert featuring artists from the CD. Several bands and solo artists encompassing a variety of musical genres will perform. All proceeds will benefit the Department of Mass Communication through the FSU Foundation, Inc.

For more information, call x3049 or e-mail mcom@frostburg.edu.

Visual Art

Student Talent Shines in BFA Art Shows

Interested in finding out who the next up-and-coming stars in the art world might be? If so, you might want to check out one of the five rotating art exhibitions highlighting thesis projects by art students at FSU. Featuring a diverse range of art works in a variety of media, these shows will be on display at the Stephanie Ann Roper Gallery through May 16.

The third show in the series of B.F.A. exhibitions is called "Hang It On The Fridge" and includes work by Josh Dawson, Ivis Alfaro, Laura Cook and Marie Drexler. This exhibition will have an opening reception at 2 p.m., Saturday, April 28, and closes May 2. "Hang It On The Fridge" will be a multimedia show including ceramic works, paintings, illustrations, prints and jewelry.

The Stephanie Ann Roper Gallery has free admission and is open to the public Sunday through Wednesday from 1 to 4 p.m. For more information about the exhibition, please contact FSU Department of Visual Arts at x4797.

Film

Cinco De Mayo Triple Feature

The University Programming Council Films Committee will celebrate Cinco De Mayo with a triple feature showing of three excellent films by Robert Rodriguez: "El Mariachi," "Desperado" and "Once Upon A Time In Mexico." This special screening, free and open to the public, is scheduled for 7 p.m. Saturday, May 5, in the Lane University Center's Atkinson Room.

Touted as the cheapest film ever released by a studio, "El Mariachi" (1993) was a galvanizing send-up of Mexican action films, American Westerns and tough anti-hero movies. It depicts the fast-moving story of a mariachi musician who arrives in a Mexican border town at the same time as a hitman. Violent complications ensue after they accidentally switch guitar cases. With the help of the strength (and economy) of this first feature, acclaimed director Robert Rodriguez launched his career.

"Desperado" proved to be a superior action entry with style to spare. Intensely charismatic leads, delightful cameos and a killer score by Los Lobos aided immensely, but the bulk of the credit had to go to the gifted producer-writer-director-editor.

Rodriguez next returned to his roots with the "El Mariachi" sequel "Once Upon a Time in Mexico" (2003). The film was another rousing and popular venture, with Rodriguez demonstrating a remarkably fresh, fluid and riveting directorial style while also paying homage to his influences like director Sergio Leone. Celebrate Cinco De Mayo with this cult classic trilogy. For more info about these films, call x4411.

Check Out Controversial Wal-Mart Documentary

The FSU Programming Council Film Committee will show "Wal-Mart: The High Cost of Low Price" Thursday, May 10, at 7 p.m. in The Lane University Center's Atkinson Room 201.

The controversial film is the newest film from director and producer Robert Greenwald, and the first from his new venture, Brave New Films. The film takes the viewer on a deeply personal journey into the everyday lives of families struggling to fight against a goliath.

From a small business owner in the Missouri to a preacher in California, to workers in Florida and a poet in Mexico, dozens of film crews on three continents bring the story of an assault on families and American values. Current and former employees, managers and executives will tell all about the corporation's inner workings. This film is based on individual human beings, all over the world, at all levels of society, telling their story in very personal terms.

This event is free and open to the public and sponsored by the University Programming Councils' Film Committee. For more information, call x4411.

Main attractions will include the annual SGA Olympics, the Dunk Tank with President Gibraltar, fun carnival food, carnival games, caricaturist, key chain photos, airbrush tattoos and the annual Pi Lambda Phi Chili Cook Off and Beer Garden. Free dinner provided by FSU Dining Services. This event is sponsored by the University Programming Council, Student Government Association, Black Student Alliance, Residence Hall Association, Edgewood Commons, Alumni Association, Pi Lambda Phi Fraternity, and the BURG Peer Education Network. If it rains, festivities will be held in the Cordts Physical Education Center. For more info, call x4411.

Comedy Night Features Jay Black

FSU will host a night of comedy featuring teacher-turned-stand-up-comedian Jay Black in the Lane University Center's Appalachian Station at 9 p.m. on Friday, May 11. This event is free and open to the public and sponsored by the University Programming Council.

Black started out as an English teacher and eventually decided to take his high-energy daytime act and adapt it to a club setting. Through two years in the club and college circuit, he has wowed audiences with his creative take on our absurd existence. Black has been featured on Comedy Zone.

As an added bonus, UPC will be giving away over $100 in door prizes throughout the night. Prizes include DVDs, gift certificates and more.

For more information, call x4411.

FSU Commits to Being 'Climate Neutral'

President Jonathan C. Gibraltar made history April 18 when during the occasion of his inauguration, he pledged FSU's commitment to fighting global warming by signing the American College & University Presidents Climate Commitment (ACUPCC), a national pact that to date has united more than 160 higher education leaders in efforts to reduce and eventually eliminate their campus' greenhouse gas emissions.

"Global warming is a defining challenge of our time," Dr. Gibraltar said. "As a large and complex institution whose goal is to educate tomorrow's leaders, we have an obligation to prevent damage to the environment."

Following Mount Saint Mary's University, FSU is the second academic institution in the state of Maryland to sign the pledge and commit to going "climate neutral," meaning it will reduce global warming emissions as much as possible and foster educational and research efforts to help society re-stabilize the earth's climate.

"We are interested in not only developing our campus as a center for the use of wind and solar energy, but also other renewable sources as well," Gibraltar said. "We currently have a Task Force of faculty and staff who are carefully investigating and recommending ways we can neutralize our greenhouse gas emissions and negate our impact on the atmosphere."

In addition to forming a campus task force, by signing the Presidents Climate Commitment, FSU also pledges to uphold

Dr. Gibraltar has signed a pledge to make FSU a "climate neutral" campus a series of initiatives, including the following:

- Adopting green standards for buildings
- Requiring ENERGY STAR certification for products purchased by the University
- Encouraging public transportation
- Purchasing energy from renewable sources
- Offsetting emissions due to air travel
- Supporting climate and sustainability shareholder proposals through their endowment

To learn more about the initiative, visit

Points of Pride

Outstanding Faculty, Students Honored

FSU's Institute for Service-Learning is pleased to announce the 2007 winners of the Outstanding Service-Learning Faculty Award, Outstanding Service-Learning Student Award, and the Unsung Hero Award. Awards were presented at the Service-Learning Recognition Awards Reception on Friday, April 20.

Dr. Joyce Middleton (College of Business, Department of Accounting) is the recipient of the 2007 Outstanding Service-Learning Faculty Award for her dedication to the Volunteer Tax Assistance Program (VITA). Dr. Middleton has supervised the VITA initiative since the early 1990s, training and placing students from her ACCT 425 and ACCT 420 classes in the program. In 2005 alone, 278 federal and 264 state returns were completed for low-income, elderly and student taxpayers.

Victoria Kendall, Hansford Harrison and Dwayne Mason are the first ever joint recipients of the Outstanding Service-Learning Student Award. These students were nominated and selected as this year's student winners for their commitment and service to the READ TO SUCCEED! program, where each serves as part of the HallSTARS program. The students have shown tremendous dedication and leadership to the READ TO SUCCEED! program by agreeing to take on additional responsibilities as site leaders and mentors for the program's other volunteer tutors.

Finally, Dr. Jason Edwards (Psychology) is the 2007 winner of the Unsung Hero Award. This award recognizes members of the FSU community who give selflessly to promote change in their communities. Dr. Edwards was selected as this year's Unsung Hero for his PSYC 489 service-learning program, which requires students to complete 12 or more service hours with an area youth initiative. Since the beginning of his placement program, over 300 of his students have served with area children at various social and educational organizations.

Omicron Chi Chapter of Delta Sigma Pi Installed at FSU

Thirty-two students and five faculty were initiated as charter members of the Omicron Chi chapter of Delta Sigma Pi on April 21. Delta Sigma Pi is a professional fraternity organized to foster the study of business in universities. Delta Sigma Pi is a co-ed international organization for business students with 262 chapters installed (188 active) and was founded 100 years ago at New York University. To be eligible for a national charter, the founding students were required to sponsor eight professional events, six community service events and raise funds to pay for installation and petition expenses. After the initiation, which was attended by many national officers and guests, the chapter celebrated at a banquet with family, friends and national officers at Rocky Gap Resort. National officers noted at the banquet that the Omicron Chi chapter had accomplished in one year all colonization requirements that take most colonies two years. The charter members are: Nathan Hawthorne (President), Jeremy Sloane (Sr. VP), Kristina Bandi (VP - Finance), Mikaela Walker (VP - Operations), Joseph Ellis (Chancellor), Meghan Cornell (VP- Professional Activities), Luke Little (VP- Community Service), Antonio Watson (VP- Awards and Scholarships), Kristin Collins (VP- Alumni Relations), Maya Akhtar, Richard Beaty, Brandon Bigelow, Jeanne Dodd, Crystal Ellis, Staci Grabill, Marelle Hawkes, Tia Henley, Becki Manuel, Benjamin Marr, Kendra Matthews, Lorayne McCullough, Christopher McDonald, Michelle Mock, Michelle Mummert, James Powell, Carter Simmons, Jonathan Skroski, Judy Sloane, Shavonna Thomas, Pearl Williams, Jason Wilson, and Shelly Wright. Faculty initiates include: Connie Groer (adviser), Dr. Carol Gaumer, Dr. Paul Lyons, Dr. Evan Offstein and Dr. Shakil Rahman. Dr. Danny Arnold, Dean, is a Delta Sig alum.

Photography Contest Winners Chosen

Thank you to everyone who entered the fourth annual environmental photography contest sponsored by the FSU Environmental Planning and Land Management Institute (MDE Bureau of Mines and FSU Department of Geography).

The contest was a huge success with some outstanding photographs from area residents and the campus community. The winners were:

First place - Suzie Fike; Second place - Tom Mathews, Third place - Arna Armstrong; Honorable mention - Rachel Burkett; the 'People's Choice Award' - Melanie Mathews; First place macro photography - Peggy Mahler; and Honorable mention macro photography - Wendy Petenbrink.

Over $1,600 in cash, prizes, and certificates were awarded. The winning photographs will be posted on the FSU Institute Web site at: www.frostburg.edu/dept/geog/einsitute/.

Thanks to the following sponsors for their support of the contest and their interest in promoting environmental awareness: AES Warrior Run, Beitzel Corp., Biederlack Co., Chris Studios, Closetmaid Corp., Dr. Diane D. Romaine & Associates, FSU Dept. of Geography, Kick Masters Karate LLC, Mario's Italian Eatery, Maryland Coal Association, Maryland Bureau of Mines, McFarland's Candies, Mettiki Coal LLC, M & T Bank,

It is sponsored by the FSU Division of Student and Educational Services, the FSU Office of Student and Community Involvement, the Inclusive Communities Citizens Group, and the FSU Student Government Association.

This May 2 "Community Conversation" builds on the information provided to community members at the Citizen's Forum on the Inclusive Community Partnership, which was held Feb. 28 at Frostburg's City Place. Local residents, students, City Council, business owners, clergy, educators, and members of the University Community are invited to continue this conversation in a relaxed and informal atmosphere which will include refreshments and music.

The format used for this event is based on the highly successful "World Café" that was held at FSU on March 1 when over 125 students, faculty and staff, and community members gathered at the Lane University Center to share their vision of an ideal Frostburg through conversation and guided discussion. The "Café" model enables people with diverse perspectives to come together to create relationships of trust which can then be used as the foundation for action on issues of importance to the community.

The May 2 Café will focus on two questions: 1) how do we further develop mutually supportive relationships that help us to join together as one community and, 2) what can you, along with other community members, do to strengthen the Frostburg community as a whole?

Young Math Minds Needed for Program

Applications for children entering grades 5-9 are being accepted for the "Maryland Summer Center for Mathematics: Mystery + Mastery * Beauty + Power = Infinity!" a program for talented students funded by the Maryland State Department of Education that will be held at FSU July 23-27, 8:30 a.m.-3:30 p.m. This year will feature world-renowned Dr. Daniel Biss, 29, of the University of Chicago and the Clay Mathematics Institute, who, when he was 16, was taking advanced college math courses. Dr. Biss will share his love of math and personal experiences as a teenager excited about learning. Students will use and receive the award-winning software Geometer's Sketchpad.

This year's theme is "What is Infinity?" and activities will cover content not normally included in the typical school curriculum. This program gives 27 young girls and boys from around the state a time to form friendships and be challenged with others who have similar interests and talents. The program is co-directed by Dr. Gerry Wojnar (FSU Math Department) and Pamela Deering (doctoral student in Instructional Design at WVU), with a teaching team of six instructors plus two FSU student assistants. For more info see <http://beautyofmath.deering.biz> or send e-mail to beautyofmath@deering.biz. Financial assistance is available.

International

Study Abroad Programs

The Center for International Education offers a variety of ways for FSU students to see the world. In many cases, students register at FSU during a semester abroad and can take all financial aid with them and transfer credit back to FSU. For information, contact Dr. Henry Bullamore at the CIE in the Fuller House on Braddock Road, x4714, hbullamore@frostburg.edu or visit www.frostburg.edu/admin/cie.

Study in Shanghai

The Government of Shanghai is interested in increasing the number of foreign student studying in the area. There are over 20 institutions of higher education in the metropolitan area, and the goal is to have 60,000 international students in the city by 2010. To make this happen, the Government of Shanghai is awarding scholarships to international students in amounts from $500 to $5,000.

Work in Africa During the Summer

Tired of taking classes, but want a study abroad experience? Consider working with a non-governmental development organization in Africa for the summer. Visions in Action offers work experiences in several projects related to rural and community development. Additionally, they offer a program that provides a small stipend for work in more difficult settings.

Earthwatch

Earthwatch offers more than 100 opportunities for hands-on environmental work all over the world. Most will not generate academic credit, but will make you feel that you did your part.
