FSU will celebrate and recognize the achievements of its May 2011 graduating class during the University’s 138th commencement ceremonies Saturday, May 21, in the Harold J. Cordts Physical Education Center’s Main Arena.

President Jonathan Gibralter will confer degrees on graduates during two exercises throughout the day. The College of Liberal Arts and Sciences will start at 9 a.m. and the College of Business and the College of Education will present degrees beginning at 2 p.m.

Rose Jackson, College of Business; Robert Kesler, College of Education; and Kenisha Boone, College of Liberal Arts and Sciences, are the featured speakers.

Jackson, of Oakland, Md., will graduate as a business administration major with a minor in management. She was the recipient of the MacVeigh and University scholarships. She has attained a 3.92 grade point average and has active leadership roles in the President’s Leadership Circle, the College of Business Student Advisory Board and attendance to the Sloop Conference on Excellence in Leadership. In March she joined faculty and other President’s Leadership Circle members as part of a leadership tour in China. She has served FSU students as a developmental math instructor and has also worked as a historical information specialist at the Ruth Enlow Library in Oakland, Md., and as an activities coordinator for a vacation real estate agent.

Kesler, of Westminster, Md., will graduate as an early childhood/elementary education major. Returning to FSU after taking five years off, Kesler has attained a 4.0 grade point average over the past three years. He is a member of the President’s Leadership Circle and is the first recipient of the Dennis and Dawn Thomas Presidential Leadership Scholarship. He served as a volunteer and intern for the Head Start program. Kesler was also the Read to Succeed site facilitator and participated in Men Can Stop Rape at FSU. Kesler started as a camp counselor in 1999 for Sunshine Kids Club in Sykesville, Md., moved to director of the before- and after-care program and then to director of the kindergarten through ninth-grade summer camp. He was a part-time kindergarten teacher while living in Hawaii. For his internship in a third-grade classroom, he created an interactive and integrated website for the students.

Boone, of Clinton, Md., will graduate with majors in English and Spanish. She has maintained a 3.93 grade point average while excelling in community service and extracurricular activities. Boone was theer of the Latin American Student Organization, is the chair of the Black Student Alliance, a member of The President’s Advisory Council on Diversity and the Sigma Tau Delta English and Phi Eta Sigma Freshmen honor societies, and a McNair Scholar. Boone studied abroad in summer 2010 in Madrid and Salamanca, Spain, and volunteered with Habitat for Humanity in New Orleans. She has also worked on numerous activities organized by the Women’s Studies Program and as a tutor in FSU’s Writing Center. Boone represented FSU while working as an intern at the Washington Literacy Council. Her professional ambition is to establish and effectively operate a nonprofit organization specializing in aiding inner-city women and she intends to pursue a doctoral degree.

Provost Dr. Stephen Simpson; Dr. Ken Witmer, dean of the College of Education; Dr. Ahmad Toootoonchi, dean of the College of Business; and Dr. Cindy Hesseg, associate dean of the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences, will present candidates for degrees during commencement.

Tickets are required for admission to the spring commencement. For info, visit the commencement Web site at www.frostburg.edu/commencement.

Distinguished Alumni to Be Recognized

Robin Wynder and Tony Zook

FSU will present the Distinguished Alumni Achievement Award to campus and community leader and mentor Robin Wynder and top pharmaceutical industry executive Tony Zook at the 138th commencement ceremonies slated for May 21 in the Cordts Physical Education Center.

At the 9 a.m. ceremony, FSU will honor 1982 graduate Zook, executive vice president of AstraZeneca’s Commercial Operation responsible for worldwide marketing and sales activities, including the development of strategic marketing of prescription medicines designed to improve the health and quality of life of patients around the world. Prior to this role, Zook directed AstraZeneca’s largest market – North America – and headed AstraZeneca’s Global Marketing function. He was also president of AstraZeneca’s biologics business, MedImmune. Zook joined Astra USA in 1997 as vice president-Marketing and Sales, two years before the merger of Astra AB and Zeneca Group Plc in 1999. Zook earned a bachelor’s degree in biology from FSU and an associate degree in chemical engineering from Penn State University. Zook is a member of the Board for First State Innovation, the Pennsylvania Division of the American Cancer Society and the Board of Trustees for the Healthcare Leadership Council. He is married to Trish Ward Zook, a 1983 Frostburg graduate; they have three children.

Wynher, who earned her bachelor’s degree from Frostburg in 1980 and her master’s in 1987, will be honored at the 2 p.m. ceremony. For more than 20 years, Wynher has offered support to FSU students and served numerous community organizations in Western Maryland. She started her FSU career in 1986 as advisor/counselor for Student Support Services. After taking time to care for her family, Wynher returned in 1999 as assistant director for the Diversity Center; she is now the director. As a consultant in diversity and cultural competency, she has conducted workshops for schools, colleges, businesses and civic groups. Wynher is a trained facilitator of the National Coalition Building Institute and serves as the leadership team for the National Black African Heritage Constituency of NCBI. She founded “Sister to Sister,” a program mentoring females of color from elementary to college age, and co-founded the M.A.P. (Motivation and Academic Preparation) Summer Camp Program after learning that few local African-American children had prepared for or taken the PSAT or SAT exams. Wynher and her husband, Bernard, have two children and three grandchildren.

Tickets are required to attend commencement. For info about the commencement, visit the commencement website at www.frostburg.edu/events/commencement.

LaFemina Honored
With USM Faculty Public Service Award

Gerard LaFemina, an assistant professor in the FSU Department of English, was honored at the spring meeting of the University System of Maryland Board of Regents with the Regents’ Faculty Award for Public Service. The USM Regents’ Faculty Award is the highest honor that the Board bestows to recognize exemplary faculty achievement. LaFemina’s honor marks the fourth time in the past five years that an FSU faculty member has been honored by the Regents.

LaFemina’s nomination highlighted his work piloting the Frostburg Center for Creative Writing, a literary arts outreach program developed within the Department of English and sponsored by the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences. As director of the Center, LaFemina created partnerships with the arts, educational and business communities; developed quality educational and cultural programming; and promoted the economic impact of arts programming to the community at large. He facilitated the move of the Center to Main Street in Frostburg where they now serve as a partner in Arts Walks and other downtown activities. Under his direction, the Center has served over a thousand writers during the past three years through such innovative programs as their veteran workshops, the Visiting Writers series, the first annual One Act contest held in 2010 with entrants from throughout the country and the annual Nighttime Writers Conference in 2010 that drew writers from five states.

LaFemina has also offered programming for the past three years as part of the Savage Mountain Summer Arts Academy for high school students. These week-long, residential camps in Creative Writing and Garage Band have been very popular and well attended by students from the local region and throughout the state. Co-activities and events he has sponsored include several book group and writing groups; free monthly craft talks with established writers; The Process of Making talks, which bring a writer and artist together with an audience to investigate the process by which “art” gets made; a regular writers workshop held at the Group Home for Young Women at the Cumberland YMCA; and the annual Western Maryland Small Press Fair, which brings publishers and editors from around the region to Frostburg to meet with writers, readers and students from four states and the District of Columbia.

An active member of the Allegany Arts Council, LaFemina has served on their Board of Directors since 2005. He often partners with the Allegany County Library System to offer workshops and discussion groups and offers readings of his work within the local community.

Faculty Achievement Award Winners to Be Honored

The recipients of the 2011 Faculty Achievement Awards, with top graduating students from every degree program, will be honored at the University Honors Convocation on Friday, May 20, at 7:30 p.m. in PAC Pealer Recital Hall. All members of the University community are invited to attend the Convocation and the reception that follows.

This year’s Faculty Achievement Award recipients are Dr. William L. Anderson, Department of Economics, for Academic Accomplishment; Dr. Scott P. Johnson, Department of Political Science, for Academic Accomplishment; and Dr. Yan Bao, Department of Education, for University and Community Service. The awards are made possible through generous gifts to the FSU Foundation, Inc.

In addition to the faculty awards, one graduating student per degree program will be honored for academic excellence and leadership. Faculty members in each program have selected 12 graduate students and 36 undergraduate students to be recognized. Also commended will be 30 undergraduate students receiving honors in general education, based on completion of all requirements of the University Honors Program.

Workshops
Is Long-Term Care Insurance Right for You?

FSU employees will have a chance to get the facts by attending an educational Long-Term Care Workshop on Tuesday, May 17, from 11 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. in Lane 111. Attendees will have the opportunity to speak to a specialist or licensed agent from The Prudential Insurance Company of America. They will also learn about coverage discounts available to eligible employees and their extended families. If interested in attending, contact Kelly Durst at x7487 by 4:30 p.m. on Monday, May 16.

Presentations
‘PlanMaryland’ Open House June 2

The Maryland Department of Planning announces an open house will be held Thursday, June 2, beginning at 5 p.m. at Lane Center to present the draft state growth plan “PlanMaryland” to Maryland residents and continue dialogue about the plan. To date, the outreach effort for “PlanMaryland” has reached several thousand stakeholders throughout the state to ensure multiple viewpoints are heard and presented. The “PlanMaryland” process has included 10 listening sessions in 2008 and 13 public forums in the spring of 2010. MDP has also solicited input through online surveys; meetings with civic, cultural and business organizations; and interviews with numerous stakeholders. The resulting feedback has been incorporated into the current draft of “PlanMaryland.”
ACEs has scheduled this open house as part of the next phase of public outreach for “PlanMaryland” to share ideas about how to make the plan work. ACEs is soliciting feedback on what needs to be done for growth and development to be directed more to the state’s urban and rural communities, towns and cities.

Attendees will be given the opportunity to learn about the plan, talk to state staff and provide comments and input.

The open house is structured so that attendees can arrive any time between 5 and 8 p.m. and to stay for the duration of the program. While pre-registration is not required, you can RSVP at http://events.r20.constantcontact.com/register/event?oeidk=a07 e3jisii1693053e8flfz-av454wcab.

For more info, go to PlanMaryland.org. For special needs, contact John Coleman in advance at 410-767-4500 or 877-767-6272.

Md. Communication Assn. Conference Call for Proposals
For the second consecutive year, FSU’s Department of Communication Studies (CMST) will host the annual Maryland Communication Association conference Oct. 14 and Oct. 15. The department will partner with FSU’s Beall Institute for Public Affairs and Dr. Stephen Simpson, FSU’s provost and vice president for Academic Affairs, in hosting and welcoming faculty and students from across the state. The keynote speaker will be Dr. Theodore F. Schecker, professor of English and Communication Studies at Randolph-Macon College in Ashland, Va., who will speak about the conference theme, “Communicating Politically, Engaging Civilians.”

This year’s theme is designed to promote discussion of the ways individuals, groups, organizations, communities and nations engage in consciousness raising, communicate values and identities and use persuasive appeals to mobilize actors and actions. Topics of discussion might explore how one communicates individual and collective political messages, how civil and uncivil discourse is upheld in society, how one fosters or severs relationships and builds or dismantles coalitions involving formal/informal, mediated/unmediated or interpersonal/organizational methods. Proposals from faculty, staff and students for individual scholarly presentations, panels of scholarly presentations or interactive workshops from any disciplinary perspective within communication studies are welcome.

Proposals are due by June 17. For info, visit the Maryland Communication Association website at www.marylandcomm.org.

Want a Little Excitement in Your Life?

Call for Submissions

Museums on Main Street, a division of the Smithsonian, with the Maryland Humanities Council, will continue the acclaimed exhibit, “Between Fences,” at Spruce Forest Artisan Village through June 26. A partner in this endeavor, the Appalachian Independent (www.appindie.org) seeks essay submissions, creative writing, poetry or short audio/digital explorations (3,000 words or less) complementing the exhibit’s themes: boundaries, place and space. “Between Fences” strives to engage audiences, create conversations and inspire community members to come together across borders and backyard fences to share their unique “fence stories.” Submissions will be featured in the Appalachian Independent during the exhibit’s stay in Maryland and may be incorporated into an on-site satellite display.

For info on the exhibition, go to www.museumonmainstreet.org/exhibs_fences/fences.htm. Submissions should be sent to krogerthomas@appindie.org.

Bikes for the World

Local Collection

Bikes for the World collects used bicycles (and portable sewing machines) and ships them overseas where they can be put to good use. On Saturday, May 28, from 10 a.m. to noon, the Western Maryland Wheelmen bicycling club will team up with the Cumberland Rotary for a local collection at Canal Place, near the Western Maryland Station. Donors can drive up and get help uploading their bikes. Donors are asked for a $10 cash donation as well to defray shipping costs. All donations are tax deductible.

Questions? Call 301-687-4411. All information is subject to change.

Safety Never Takes a Vacation!

Maryland and may be incorporated into an on-site satellite display.

For info on the exhibition, go to www.museumonmainstreet.org/exhibs_fences/fences.htm. Submissions should be sent to krogerthomas@appindie.org.

Bikes for the World partners with agencies in developing countries where people who really need bikes are taught repair skills and then are given affordable bikes. A bike can mean transportation to otherwise inaccessible healthcare or educational facilities.

Additional information is available at www.bikesfortheworld.org. If someone has a bike to donate and is not available on collection day, he or she can bring it early to the Cumberland Trail Connection or call for pickup before May 28. For info, call Valerie Van Hollen at 301-777-8783.
