National Campaign to End Campus Violence Continues at FSU

FSU will participate in "Enough Is Enough," the national campaign to end campus violence, through Friday, April 5. Each day will have a different theme. Events, workshops and information will be offered throughout. All events are free and open to the public.

On Thursday, April 4, anti-racism author and activist Tim Wise will lead the annual Martin Luther King Jr. Celebration and Harmony Walk, the highlight of the "Enough Is Enough" campaign. The walk starts at 6:30 p.m. at the Wall Fountain in the lower lobby of the Lane Center. Then, at 7:30 p.m., Wise will speak in PAC Pealer Recital Hall. Wise has spoken before at FSU and on over 500 college campuses about combating racism. His published works include "Dear White America: Letter to a New Minority," "White Like Me: Reflections on Race From a Privileged Son" and "Between Barack and a Hard Place: Racism and White Denial in the Age of Obama.

Each day, an information table will be hosted in the Lane Center from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. On Monday, April 1, the information table will host a Random Acts of Kindness postcard display from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. This initiative builds a sense of campus community and unity by allowing students and community members to share positivity through postcards. On Tuesday, the table will host "These Hands Don't Hurt," in which students, faculty and staff can leave their handprints as a visible pledge to their commitment to being peaceful members of the campus community and the world.

A series of brown bag lunches will be held from noon to 1 p.m. in Lane 111. The next one is on Tuesday, April 2. The BTGlass video "It Gets Better" will be shown.

The NCBI Workshop: No More Violence in My Life will be on Friday, April 5, from noon to 4 p.m. Faculty, students and staff are encouraged to participate in this four-hour workshop that will offer the opportunity to explore the ways violence has shown up in an individual's life and the impact it has had. Participants will then continue to develop the skills for leadership needed to generate and maintain momentum on this campus and the local community for the prevention of violence. Individuals who participate in this workshop will be in position to train to become an NCBI diversity facilitator.

Film

'The Invisible War'

FSU's Women's Studies Program will present a film screening and discussion of "The Invisible War" on Thursday, April 11, at 7 p.m. in Lane Manicur Hall. This event is free and open to the public.

From Oscar and Emmy-nominated filmmaker Kirby Dick comes a groundbreaking investigation about one of America's most shameful and best-kept secrets: the epidemic of rape within the U.S. military. The film paints a startling picture of the extent of the problem today. A female soldier in combat zones is more likely to be raped by a fellow soldier than killed by enemy fire. The Department of Defense estimates a staggering 19,300 service members were sexually assaulted in 2010 alone.

The film is presented in partnership with the departments of Sociology, Philosophy, English, Theatre and Dance and Foreign Languages and Literature; Amnesty International; V-Day at FSU; and the President's Advisory Council Against Gender-Based Violence.

Community Dialogue Series Features Faith Community Leaders

Participants of the FSU Sustaining Campus and Community Dialogue Series will celebrate achievements to date at a picnic on Saturday, May 4, from noon to 3 p.m. at City Place, an event that will link to the annual service day in Frostburg, "Beautify the Burg," formerly the Day of Caring and Sharing. Grilled lunch and live music will be featured.

The dialogue sessions, initiated last spring, convene students, year-round residents, local officials and University leaders to discuss a variety of issues and create new opportunities for collaborative problem-solving and coalition-building in Frostburg.

In the February session, the progress of five action groups that have emerged in the dialogue series was reported, focusing on managing conflict and preventing violence, improving race relations, managing off-campus housing tensions, and discovering Western Maryland and Frostburg and FSU pride. For example, the Frostburg City Council is using a slogan for internal memos developed in the Discovering Western Maryland/ Developing FSU and Frostburg Pride group – "Frostburg: It's Just Cooler Here!" Paw prints should appear on city streets in April to promote Bobcat pride, short-term residents (students) and long-term residents (local families) are gathering via a church to get to know each other, Black Student Alliance is working to do more projects connected to the broader community to interact more with long-term residents and the Community Coalition continues its efforts to promote awareness and prevention of high-risk behavior. Also, students and community members are meeting with President Jonathan Gibralter to move toward a proposal for an off-campus housing office at FSU.

The project, funded in large part by Maryland Judiciary's Mediation and Conflict Resolution Office (MACRO), focuses on community-based action plans to support improved campuscommunity communication and a nonviolent culture in Frostburg. Nationally known conflict resolution scholarpractitioners Dr. Frank Dukes, lecturer and director of the Institute for Environmental Negotiation at the University of Virginia, and Dr. Marvin Johnson, founder and executive director of the Center for Alternative Dispute Resolution, continue to help facilitate the sessions.

Details and documentary segments capturing the Sustaining Campus and Community efforts can be seen at www.frostburg.edu/dept/cmst/dialogue-series.

Those interested in being part of this community-building effort should contact project manager Dr. Elesha L. Ruminski at elruminski@frostburg.edu or x4480. Ruminski is the chair of the Department of Communication Studies and coordinator of Leadership Studies at FSU, as well as the president of the Mountainside Community Mediation Center, a local partner of the dialogue series that offers free mediation services.
