Frostburg State University Alumni Honors

FSU to Present W. Dennis Thomas With Honorary Doctorate

FSU will present W. Dennis Thomas, a member of Frostburg State College's Class of 1965, with an Honorary Doctor of Humane Letters degree at its 144th commencement ceremony on Thursday, May 22. Thomas achieved two distinguished careers, one in public service, culminating in service in the White House, and the second in private industry.

"Dennis Thomas is a brilliant and humble man who has, without hesitation, shared his time, talent and treasure with everyone at Frostburg State University. He cares deeply about FSU, and he has been a mentor to me personally and supported our students and faculty in so many ways," said President Jonathan Gibralter. "It is my honor to be able to confer this degree on him."

Gibralter will confer the award during the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences ceremony in the afternoon.

Thomas served on the Board of Education of Carroll County and as an administrative assistant for two U.S. senators before President Reagan appointed him assistant secretary for Legislative Affairs, Department of the Treasury. He then joined Reagan's White House staff, ultimately serving as chief assistant to Chief of Staff Donald Regan, advising and assisting on a full range of policy and administrative matters and coordinating the drafting of State of the Union messages. Later, Thomas joined the firm International Paper, rising to senior vice president of Public Affairs and Communications.

Thomas graduated from Frostburg State College with a degree in education and earned a Master of Social Work degree from the University of Maryland in 1967. As a Frostburg student, he was class president and a member of Tau Kappa Epsilon. His service to Frostburg has continued throughout his life. In addition to being a founding member of FSU's Sloop Institute for Excellence in Leadership, Thomas fostered the growth of the J. Glenn Beall Public Affairs Institute and established the Dennis and Dawn Thomas Presidential Leadership Scholarship. He was awarded the Distinguished Alumni Achievement Award in 1985.

CIA Director of Information Management to Receive FSU's Distinguished Alumni Achievement Award

FSU will present the 2014 Distinguished Alumni Achievement Award to Joseph W. Lambert, director of Information Management for the Central Intelligence Agency and a member of the class of 1979, at its 144th commencement ceremony on Thursday, May 22, during the 9:30 a.m. ceremony for the Colleges of Business and Education.

Lambert entered on duty with the CIA in 1984, serving in the Office of the Deputy Director for Intelligence and the National Intelligence Council. He has worked as the information management officer for the National Photographic Interpretation Center and the Directorate of Intelligence.

He has also served as the director of Information Management for the National Imagery and Mapping Agency and the National Reconnaissance Office. In addition to being the privacy and civil liberties officer at the CIA, he is responsible for CIA records and security classification management and declassification and release programs.

Lambert earned his bachelor's degree in business administration from Frostburg State College, a Master of Public Administration degree from George Washington University and has studied leadership at Northwestern and Harvard universities. He is a recipient of the Intelligence Community's National Intelligence Certificate of Distinction and a Meritorious Presidential Rank Award.

As the keynote speaker at the 2014 Sloop Institute for Excellence in Leadership, he offered the following advice to FSU students: “You’ll soon have a Frostburg State education behind you, and anything is possible.”

The Distinguished Alumni Achievement Award is one of the most prestigious honors bestowed on FSU alumni. Consideration is based on outstanding professional career growth; community involvement; demonstrated interest in their alma mater; philanthropic commitment to FSU; special achievements, awards, honors and distinctions; and/or educational background, which includes honors and involvement in special activities.

For info, contact Laura McCullough, director of Alumni Programs and Special Events, at x4068 or lcmccullough@frostburg.edu.

Rick Brindle Named FSU College of Business Alumnus of the Year

The FSU College of Business has named Rick Brindle, a member of the class of 1982, its Alumnus of the Year. President Jonathan Gibraltar presented Brindle with the honor at FSU’s annual College of Business Honors Reception on Friday, May 9. The event also recognized the top business faculty and students of year.

“Rick Brindle exemplifies what a true FSU Business graduate should be: an outstanding leader in his profession with commitment to honesty and integrity and an alumnus who always remembers what this institution meant to him,” said Dr. Ahmad Tootoonchi, dean of the College of Business. “He is always there for us with support for our College and our students. He is a wonderful role model for our students to look up to.”

Brindle, who majored in business administration and management, leads Industry Development for Mondelēz International, North America, with an annual revenue of approximately $36 billion and operations in over 80 countries. Mondelēz International’s portfolio, comprised of the global snacking and food brands of the former Kraft Foods, Inc., includes several billion-dollar brands such as Cadbury and Milka chocolate, Jacobs coffee, LU, Nabisco and Oreo biscuits, Tang powdered beverages and Trident gum.

He has been in the packaged goods industry since 1977. During his career, he has held leadership positions within Kraft Foods, Nabisco, Procter & Gamble and Safeway Food Stores. His business development leadership assignments have spanned the grocery, club, e-tailing and mass merchandiser classes of trade, including business development responsibilities for such retailers and wholesalers as Walmart, Supervalu, Safeway, Costco, Giant Foods, PeaPod, FreshDirect.com and Amazon.com.

FSU Celebrates Student Achievement at 144th Commencement Ceremony

Cady Kirkwood

FSU will recognize and celebrate the achievements of its May 2014 graduating class at its 144th commencement ceremony on Thursday, May 22, in the Cordts PE Center’s Main Arena.

President Gibraltar will confer degrees on graduates during two exercises throughout the day. The College of Business and the College of Education will start at 9:30 a.m. and the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences will begin at 2 p.m. Featured student speakers for the ceremony include Cady Kirkwood, College of Business; Adria Graham, College of Education; and Tori Suess, College of Liberal Arts and Sciences.

Adria Graham

Kirkwood will graduate with a major in business/entrepreneurship. In addition to being inducted into the elite business honor society, Beta Gamma Sigma, and attending the Sloop Institute for Excellence in Leadership, she has participated in the University Honors program, the National Society for Leadership and Success and has maintained a consistent presence on the Dean’s List. Kirkwood is a founding member of the College of Business Student Advisory Council, and she has also been a highly active member of the Student Pride Scholarship Committee and the FSU Student Alumni Ambassadors. The Allegany County Chamber of Commerce and the Rotary Club named her one of Allegany County’s Outstanding Business Students in 2014. Outside the classroom, Kirkwood has worked 30 hours per week as the training director and team leader at Chick-fil-A since July 2009.

Tori Suess

Graham will graduate with a major in athletic training. She is a Bobcat Ambassador and a member of the FSU Student Athlete Advisory Committee, women’s soccer team and athletic training club. During her time at FSU, Graham has demonstrated the ability to transfer knowledge and skills from the classroom to the clinic. In the classroom, Graham works with FSU athletes who sustain injuries and need proper care and treatment. As an athlete, Graham has been selected for numerous awards, including being named as the FSU Female Athlete of the Year in 2011 and 2012, as an Eastern Athletic Collegiate Conference Division II All-Star three times and as Capital Athletic Conference Player of the Year for 2011 and 2012. Her all-time scoring marks include 15 assists and 29 game-winning goals for FSU. She plans to continue her education at a physician assistant program in Pittsburgh.

Suess will graduate with a double major in English and psychology. While at FSU, Suess has participated as an undergraduate learning assistant for the General Psychology course, mentored Freshman Composition students and played field hockey for the Bobcats. Suess is an English tutor at FSU’s Tutoring Center, member of the President’s Leadership Circle and Student Athletic Advisory Committee representative and officer. Her volunteer work has included serving as a team captain for the 2013 Relay for Life and assisting with Special Olympics and at a local nursing home. In March 2014, Suess traveled to Uganda, spending two weeks teaching water purification techniques in remote villages. In the fall, Suess will pursue a degree in counseling psychology at Loyola University in Maryland.

Provost Dr. William Childs; Dr. Clarence Golden, dean of the College of Education; Dr. Ahmad Tootoonchi, dean of the College of Business; and Dr. Joseph Hoffman, dean of the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences, will present candidates for degrees during commencement.

The ceremony will be streamed live online. Visit www.frostburg.edu on the day of commencement for the link.

To join in the celebration on social media, share your best Commencement photos on Instagram, Twitter and Tumblr by tagging them #instaFrostburg, and tweet out your congratulations and photos using the hashtag #FrostburgGRAD.

Tickets are required to attend commencement. For info, visit www.frostburg.edu/events/commencement.

Faculty Achievement Award Winners Honored at University Convocation

Dr. Stephen Hartlaub

The recipients of the 2014 Faculty Achievement Awards, with top graduating students from every degree program, will be honored at the University Honors Convocation on Wednesday, May 21, at 7:30 p.m. in PAC Pealer Recital Hall.

This year’s Faculty Achievement Award recipients are Dr. Stephen Hartlaub, Department of Political Science, for Teaching; Dr. Scott Johnson, Department of Political Science, for Academic Achievement; and Dr. Julie Hartman-Linck, Department of Sociology, for University and Community Service. The awards are made possible through generous gifts to the FSU Foundation, Inc.

In addition to the faculty awards, one graduating student per degree program will be honored for academic excellence and leadership.

Dr. Scott Johnson

As a professor of political science, Hartlaub has demonstrated a pattern of teaching excellence over 20 years at FSU. He has taught 14 different courses during his career at this institution, including freshman orientation, three courses outside of Political Science and well over a hundred independent readings courses. In addition, he has taught honors seminars and participated in learning communities. He is described by colleagues as a bright and analytical educator who maintains a keen ability to connect with undergraduate students. Students appreciate his ambition to improve constantly as a professor and develop as a student mentor. Hartlaub is a gifted teacher who strives to make every lecture the best.

Dr. Julie Hartman-Linck

Johnson, a professor of political science, has produced an impressive array of scholarly work in recent years. His recent book, “The Faces of Lee Harvey Oswald,” provides objective critiques of the major conspiracy theories surrounding Oswald’s role in the assassination of John F. Kennedy. In addition, Johnson released a two-volume encyclopedia titled “Trials of the Century: An Encyclopedia of Popular Culture and the Law in 2010.” The encyclopedia places popular court cases within historical frameworks. He has authored numerous peer-reviewed journal articles and conference presentations over the course of his academic career. Johnson is a well-respected teacher-scholar contributing to the esteem of this University.

As an assistant professor of sociology and women’s studies, Hartman-Linck has exhibited an exceptional record of service to FSU and the surrounding community. She serves as chair of the President’s Advisory Council Against Gender-Based Violence, a faculty senator and faculty advisor for Students for Women’s Issues and Breaking Through Glass, as well as a member of several other University committees. In addition, she serves the community as secretary of the Board of the Family Crisis Resource Center. She is passionate about making FSU a welcoming campus environment to help attract and retain a diverse range of students, particularly in making the campus and community a safer and more welcoming place for women and gay, lesbian, bisexual and transgender students and community members. Hartman-Linck displays exemplary service to her students, the University and the community.

FSU Students Rock at World Geography Bowl

Congratulations to Bobcats Will Steckman and Sara Hughes for their second place finish with the Middle Atlantic Division (MAD) team of the Association of American Geographers (AAG) at the World Geography Bowl on April 11 in Tampa, Fla.

www.aag.org/cs/annualmeeting/annual_meeting_archives/2014_tampa/2014_world_geography_bowl.

Tracy Edwards, a lecturer in the Department of Geography, served as the 2014 MAD Geography Bowl team sponsor. Competition to determine the members of the 2015 MAD Geography Bowl team will be held at FSU on Nov. 1. Interested students should contact Edwards at tedwards@frostburg.edu for more details.

Student participation at the Tampa conference/Geography Bowl was made possible through the CLAS Strategic Plan Support Funds, with additional support from the Association of American Geographers and the Middle Atlantic Division of the Association of American Geographers.

Three New Library Displays for May

The first display, on the third floor, celebrates National Photo Month and highlights some of the photography books that the library has in its collection. The library staff also asks you to share your photographs. Send them a Tweet @LibFSU with the hashtag #OrtLibPhotoMonth and they'll post some of the pictures in the library near the display. You can also stop by and leave your photo to share with others.

The second display, also on the third floor, highlights Paranormal Day, which is held every May 3. Paranormal Day is a day for all those who believe in paranormal activity to share experiences all around the world. This display highlights some of the paranormal books that are available in the library. Feel free to share your paranormal story. Stop by the library and write a brief note about a paranormal experience you've had.

The third display, on the fifth floor, highlights the Dust Bowl, which was a time of drought for many U.S. states that had previously enjoyed an economic boom with the cultivation of wheat and grazing of cattle. When the drought began in 1930, many farmers were pushed off their lands when huge dust storms covered their farms in dust that swept off the plains. This display highlights the history and timeline of the Dust Bowl, as well as provides information on items that the library owns on the history of the Dust Bowl.
