Jazz Orchestra and Vocal Jazz Ensemble Performing Evening of Jazz

FSU's Department of Music will present its Evening of Jazz on Tuesday, Dec. 4, at 7:30 p.m. The program will feature the FSU Jazz Orchestra as well as Vocal Jazz Ensemble.

The program will open with the FSU Jazz Orchestra, led by director Dr. Brent Weber, and will feature “In the Mood” as performed by the Glenn Miller Orchestra; “Intersecting Lines” by Les Hooper; “Hay Burner” by Count Basie; “The Way You Look Tonight” by Jerome Kern, arranged by Mike Tomaro; and “My Funny Valentine” as performed by the Sten Kenton Orchestra.

Under the direction of Scott Rieker and accompanied by pianist Dr. Joseph Yungen, the FSU Vocal Jazz Ensemble will perform “Spain” by Chick Corea; “Warm-Up” from “Mass” by Leonard Bernstein; “Raggy Waltz” by Dave Brubeck, arranged by Luigi Zaninelli; “I’m All Over It Now” by Jamie Cullum, arranged by Rieker; “Blackberry Winter” by Alec Wilder and Loonis McGlohon, arranged by Dave Cross; “Carol of the Bells,” arranged by Pentatonix; and “Angels Are Singing” by Michael McGlynn.

“In the Mood” is based on an old jazz riff that had been passed around for a few years in various forms. Miller, a gifted editor, was able to pare the tune down to its essentials. The famous introduction featuring the saxophones in unison, the catchy riff that anchors the tune and the suspense-building ending are all ingredients of the classic Miller sound.

“In the Mood”

“In the Mood” is a very fresh-sounding piece with lots of counterpoint and counter rhythms.

“Hay Burner”

“Hay Burner” starts out with a “hopping” two-beat feel, then goes to a four-beat feel. The spacing of the different sections allows each one to be heard separately and still come together to create a cool sound.

“The Way You Look Tonight”

“The Way You Look Tonight” was introduced in the film “Swing Time,” when Fred Astaire (Lucky) sings it to Ginger Rogers (Penny). The original Rodgers and Hart number, “My Funny Valentine,” was sung by a female lead, fondly listing the faults of the male lead. But deeper feelings are revealed when the rhythm kicks in.

“Spain”

“Spain,” an instrumental jazz fusion piece written by jazz pianist and composer Corea in 1971, is a jazz standard and likely his most recognized piece. The song appeared in its original rendition on the album “Light as a Feather.”

“Warm-Up”

“Warm-Up” is from “Mass,” staged as a traditional Catholic Mass, with the main singer occupying the role of a Catholic priest. Yet over the course of the work, doubt creeps into the ritual, both musically and textually, and the structure of the Mass completely falls apart and disintegrates as the celebrant comes to terms with his own crumbling faith and moral emptiness.

“Raggy Waltz”

“Raggy Waltz,” which debuted in 1961 on the album “Time Further Out,” isn’t exactly a waltz or a rag but a choppy piece with constantly shifting accents that don’t predictably fall where the listener expects.

Cullum has said that he wrote “I’m All Over It Now” as a short, snappy pop song in the style of ’70s Elton John. It’s a break-up song about feeling heartbroken, then having that moment where the switch flips and you realize you’re fine.
Blackberry Winter is an American term used in the South and Midwest to describe a short, unexpected cold snap that can come in after the first few warm days of spring when blackberries are in bloom (and can refer to warm love having a cold snap). The American self-taught composer Wilder wrote about love lost in “Blackberry Winter,” one of his popular songs.

“Carol of the Bells” is a popular Christmas carol, written by Ukrainian composer Mykola Leontovych in 1914. Pentatonix covered the song on their album “PTXmas,” one of the bestselling Christmas albums of 2013.

Irish composer McGlynn has written vocal and instrumental music and is the founder of the popular Irish choral ensemble Anúna. “Angels Are Singing” is from his 2010 album “Christmas With Anúna.”

Admission is $10 for adults; $5 for seniors, members of the military and FSU faculty and staff; $3 for students; and free for children 12 and younger. Tickets are available at the door. Cash and credit cards are accepted.

‘Evening of Operetta’ on Dec. 5 and 10 to Feature Excerpts From Light Opera

FSU’s Opera Theatre will present “An Evening of Operetta” on Wednesday, Dec. 5, and Monday, Dec. 10, at 7:30 p.m.

English composer Sullivan is best known for 14 operatic collaborations with the dramatist W.S. Gilbert, including “H.M.S. Pinafore,” “The Pirates of Penzance” and “The Mikado.” His works include 24 operas, 11 major orchestral works, 10 choral works and oratorios, two ballets, incidental music to several plays and numerous church pieces, songs, and piano and chamber pieces. His hymns and songs include “Onward, Christian Soldiers” and “The Lost Chord.”

“Die Csárdásfürstin” is an operetta in three acts by Hungarian composer Kálmán. It premiered in Vienna at the Johann Strauss–Theater in 1915. Numerous film versions and recordings have been made. The operetta is beloved across Europe, particularly in Hungary, Austria, Germany and the former Soviet Union, where it was adapted into a popular film. It is arguably Kálmán’s most successful work.

Le mariage aux lanternes, a work in Offenbach’s more pastoral and sentimental style, was first performed at the Théâtre des Bouffes Parisiens in Paris in 1857. In this story, a young farmer, Guillot, has feelings for his orphan cousin Denise, who was entrusted to him by their uncle Mathurin. Guillot hides his feelings by treating her roughly, driving the young girl to despair. Both write to their uncle – he for money and she for advice. Each receives a letter about “treasure” that can be found under the great tree when the evening church bells peal.

Chamber Singers and University Chorale Present ‘Glossolalia: Singing in Tongues’

The FSU Chamber Singers and University Choral, under the direction of Scott Rieker, will present their fall chamber concert, “Glossolalia: Singing in Tongues,” on Friday, Dec. 7, at 7:30 p.m. They will be accompanied by pianist Dr. Joseph Yungen.

Choral masterpieces are found in every culture, and for this event, the FSU Chamber Singers and University Chorale will perform exciting choral works from the United States, France, Israel, Germany, England and many other countries, including Lili Boulanger’s renowned “Hymne au Soleil” and a new work, “Music in the Night,” by American composer Elaine Hagenberg.

“She represents the best, the most intimate and the most profound in my life,” wrote the famous piano teacher Nadia Boulanger of her younger sister Lili. When Lili Boulanger won the renowned “Prix de Rome” in 1913, she was the very first woman to be honored with this prize. Her far-too–early death in 1915 led to her music always being in the shadow of Debussy and Ravel when talking about impressionist music. Due to her individual musical language, her music’s diversity of color, its metaphorical content and its poetry, Lili Boulanger can be counted as one of Impressionism’s great artists.

Hagenberg is one of America’s most respected writers. The superb craftsmanship of her works is seen in “Music in the Night.” Scored for five-part mixed chorus and piano on a text of Harriet Prescott Spofford, this new piece reflects the power of music. Hagenberg’s compositions have been awarded and have been featured at All State festivals, national and regional American Choral Directors Association Conferences, the National Youth Choir at Carnegie Hall, the Melbourne International Choral Festival in Australia and the International Children’s Choir Festival in Canterbury and London, as well as performances in South Africa and Asia. With more than 40 commissioned works, Hagenberg has composed new music for the American Choral Directors Association Women’s Choir consortium, colleges and universities, community choirs and churches. She is the composer-in-residence for the Des Moines Choral Society and the Master Singers of Eau Claire, Wis.

Tickets will be available for purchase at the door (cash or credit card) and are $10 for general admission; $5 for seniors, veterans, and FSU faculty and staff; and free for all students and children 12 and younger.

Percussion Ensemble and Wind Ensemble in Winter Concert

The FSU Department of Music will present the Percussion Ensemble and Wind Ensemble in their Winter Concert on Saturday, Dec. 8, at 7:30 p.m.

The Percussion Ensemble, conducted by Dr. Mackenzie LaMont, will perform “In the Court of the Crimson King” by the legendary rock group King Crimson and the modern classic, “Stained Glass,” by David R. Gillingham.

Conducted by Shannon Shaker, the Wind Ensemble will perform a range of pieces, including “Shepherd’s Hey” by Percy Grainger; “English Folk Song Suite” by Ralph Vaughan Williams: “Catch Me if You Can” by John Williams, featuring faculty artist Dr. Brent Weber on alto saxophone; and “Folk Dances” by Dimitri Shostakovitch.

To celebrate the extremely influential group, King Crimson, the Percussion Ensemble will perform “In the Court of the Crimson King.” The album is one of the first and most influential of the progressive rock genre, where the band largely departed from the blues influences upon which rock music was founded and combined elements of jazz, classical and symphonic music.
“Stained Glass,” written in 1990 by contemporary composer Gillingham, was inspired by the beauty and color of stained glass. The first movement, “Foyers,” refers to the variations of stained glass found in the entrances of dwellings. The second movement, “Cathedrals,” seeks to create the mysteriousness and grandeur of the cathedrals of the world. The final movement, “Sun Catchers,” begins joyously and was inspired by the colors reflected by a variety of sun catchers.

“Shepherd’s Hey” is one of the best-known and most often performed of the early folk song arrangements or compositions with which Grainger was preoccupied between the turn of the century and the beginning of World War I as he pursued dual careers as concert pianist and composer in London. This lively, witty and charming piece is standard repertoire for concert bands.

Written in 1923, “English Folk Song Suite” is one of English composer Williams’ most famous works for military band and treats traditional melodies with originality and subtle charm. The first march is called “Seventeen Come Sunday,” the intermezzo is subtitled “My Bonny Boy” and the final movement is based on four “Folk Songs From Somerset.”

Williams’ score to the hit movie “Catch Me If You Can” is haunting and captivating. The music features an alto sax solo and a wide variety of unique percussion and scoring devices. This arrangement includes the most striking musical themes from the soundtrack in a concert setting.

Composed in Shostakovich’s lighthearted style, this single-movement work, “Folk Dances,” is filled with the joy and exuberance of the Russian people. The many folk melodies are combined in a string so that musical energy abounds and the spirit of folk dances can easily be imagined.

Admission is $10 for adults; $5 for seniors, members of the military and FSU faculty and staff; and free for all students and children 12 and younger. Tickets will be available at the door. Cash and credit cards are accepted.

FSU’s Andy Duncan to Celebrate New Book With Reading in Frostburg

From a gallows in 16th-century England to a show in 1920s New York City, from the mythical Big Rock Candy Mountain to “Beluthahatchie” – the next railroad stop past Hell – award-winning author and FSU faculty member Andy Duncan takes readers on a dozen fantastical adventures to real and imagined settings in his new book, “An Agent of Utopia: New and Selected Stories.”

Duncan, an associate professor in FSU’s Department of English and Foreign Languages, will appear at Main Street Books in Frostburg on Thursday, Dec. 6, at 7:30 p.m. for a reading and signing in celebration of his first American book release in 18 years. The book is available now.

For his third collection, Duncan’s editor declined to gather his latest stories, opting to create something closer to a “greatest hits” collection. “An Agent of Utopia” features two new stories alongside 10 of the author’s favorite previously published tales from 1997 to 2012.

While no two stories are alike in plot, setting or character, Duncan noted that all of the stories are united by a loose thread: things that bother him.

Many of the book’s fictional stories sprang from actual historical events, personalities or oddities that somehow got stuck in the back of Duncan’s mind.

The fantastical stories that coalesce in Duncan’s mind have delighted readers and critics around the world. His last book was released as a limited-edition hardback in Great Britain, and his stories have been translated into several European and Asian languages. Duncan’s stories have won three World Fantasy Awards, a Nebula Award from the Science Fiction and Fantasy Writers of America and a Theodore Sturgeon Memorial Award.

FSU’s F2T2 Summer Campers Teach Others About Clean Water

Seventh-graders Ackerly Mulcaster and Jalen Brown of Mount Savage Elementary/Middle School recently taught a local second-grade class about the need for clean water after attending Future Frostburg Teachers Teaching (F2T2), a one-week FSU teaching apprenticeship camp this summer.

The inaugural camp, which was the result of a collaboration among FSU’s College of Education, the Evergreen Heritage Center in Mount Savage, AmeriCorps and the Allegany County Public Schools, was also attended by four other students during the summer of 2018.

The purpose of the hands-on summer camp was to engage students interested in both STEM subjects and in teaching; however, learning didn’t end when camp ended.

The culmination of the camp was to teach a lesson to area students during the school year. Mulcaster and Brown used teaching tools and technology introduced to them at camp to explain the importance of clean water. The class of second-graders then discussed ways they can personally help keep waters free of pollution.

For info about F2T2, contact the FSU College of Education at 301-687-4759.
