Opera Theatre Fall Production Is ‘An Evening of Mozart Opera’

FSU’s Opera Theatre will present “An Evening of Mozart Opera” on Monday, Nov. 11, and Tuesday, Nov. 12, at 7:30 p.m. in Pealer Recital Hall. This event is free and open to the public.

Voice professors and professional singers – soprano Francesca Aquado-Murray, mezzo-soprano Dr. Lori Şen and baritone Gregory Scott Stuart – will join their students and participants of FSU’s Opera Workshop in offering an entertaining evening of operatic fun, including opportunities for audience participation. They will be accompanied by pianist Dr. Joseph Yungen.

Participating members of the Opera Workshop include Bailey Hall, Gabriel Harper, Jacob Miller, Jerri Perry and Hannah Polk, with guest alumna Jennifer Hartlove. Voice students participating by invitation are Peter Carroll, Samantha Donaldson, Andrea Gormley, Ivan Godoy, Andrew Harnett, Emma Lepore, Gershawn Mason and Arran Mills.

“An Evening of Mozart Opera” will feature scenes from Wolfgang Amadeus Mozart’s “The Magic Flute,” “The Marriage of Figaro” and “Don Giovanni.”

“The Magic Flute” (“Die Zauberflöte”), K. 620, is an opera in two acts to a German libretto by Emanuel Schikaneder. The piece is in the form of a Singspiel, a popular form during the time that included singing and spoken dialogue. The opera premiered in 1791, just two months before the composer’s premature death.

In this opera, the Queen of the Night persuades Prince Tamino to rescue her daughter Pamina from captivity under the high priest Sarastro; instead, he learns the high ideals of Sarastro’s community and seeks to join it. Separately, then together, Tamino and Pamina undergo severe trials of initiation, which end in triumph, with the Queen and her cohorts vanquished.

“The Marriage of Figaro” (“Le nozze di Figaro”), K. 492, is an opera buffa (comic opera) in four acts that Mozart composed in 1786, with an Italian libretto by Lorenzo Da Ponte. It premiered in 1786. The opera’s libretto is based on a stage comedy by Pierre Beaumarchais, “La folle journée, ou le Mariage de Figaro” (“The Mad Day, or the Marriage of Figaro”), which was first performed in 1784. It tells how the servants Figaro and Susanna succeed in getting married, foiling the efforts of their philandering employer Count Almaviva to seduce Susanna and teaching him a lesson in fidelity.

“Don Giovanni” (“Il dissoluto punito, ossia il Don Giovanni,” literally “The Rake Punished, Namely Don Giovanni”), K. 527, is an opera in two acts with music by Mozart and Italian libretto by Lorenzo Da Ponte. It is based on the legends of Don Juan, a fictional libertine and seducer, by Spanish writer Tirso de Molina, and premiered in 1787. Although sometimes classified as comic, it blends comedy, melodrama and supernatural elements.

FSU’s Department of Music will present the Piano Ensemble, under the direction of Dr. Jay DeWire, in a recital on Wednesday, Nov. 13, at 7:30 p.m.

The program will include “No. 1 in B Major, Tempo giusto” and “No. 2 in E Major” from “Waltzes, Op. 39” by Johannes Brahms, performed by Cayla Gavlin and Morgan Danver; “I. Allegro ma non troppo” from “Symphony No. 6, Op. 68” by Ludwig van Beethoven, performed by Luke Liu, Andrew Hartnett, Robert Bittinger and DeWire; “I. Moderato” from “Tales of an Old Grandmother” by Sergei Prokofiev, performed by Bittinger; “I. Von fremden Ländern und Menschen” (“Of Foreign Lands and Peoples”) and “VI. Wichtige Begebenheit” (“An Important Event”) from “Kinderszenen” by Robert Schumann, performed by Hartnett; and “Scherzo No. 3, Op. 39” by Frédéric Chopin, performed by Liu.

“Waltzes, Op. 39” is a set of 16 short waltzes for piano that Brahms composed in 1865. They were dedicated to the music critic Eduard Hanslick.

“Symphony No. 6 in F Major, Op. 68,” also known as the “Pastoral Symphony” (“Pastorale”), was completed in 1808. It is one of Beethoven’s few works containing explicitly programmatic content. The symphony begins with “Allegro ma non troppo,” a placid and cheerful movement depicting the composer’s feelings as he arranges in the country.

“Tales of an Old Grandmother, Op. 31” is a set of four piano pieces. It was composed in 1918 during Prokofiev’s exile in the United States after the outbreak of the Russian Revolution. In this nostalgic piece, an old grandmother narrates tales to her young grandson who sits on her lap and listens attentively.

“Kinderszenen” (“Scenes From Childhood”) is a set of 13 pieces of music for piano written in 1838. Schumann told his wife Clara that they were inspired by her comment that he sometimes seemed “like a child.” He described the pieces as “more cheerful, gentler, more melodic” than his earlier works.

Chopin completed “Scherzo No. 3, Op. 39, in C-sharp Minor” in 1839, in the abandoned monastery of Valldemossa on the Balearic island of Majorca, Spain. This is the most terse, ironic and tightly constructed of the four scherzos.

FSU Student Marshall Borleis in Junior Guitar Recital

FSU student Marshall Borleis will present his junior guitar recital on Friday, Nov. 15, at 7:30 p.m. He will be accompanied by Nate Richards, Paul Zimmerman and Shawn Zimmerman of the FSU Guitar Ensemble.

Borleis will perform “Romance for Tree” by Takashi Yoshimatsu; “Waltz for Zizi” by Yoko Kanno; “I. Sonatine,” “II. Scherzo” and “III. Tempo di Marzia” from “Opus 71, No. 3” by Mauro Giuliani; “I. Sarabande” from “Violin Partita No. 1” by Johann Sebastian Bach; “Gymnopédie No. 1” by Erik Satie; and “I. Ponteio (Agalopado),” “II. Cirranda (Roda, Roda)” and “III. Frevo (Isquenta Ô Pé)” from “Danças populares brasileiras” by Celso Machado.

Yoshimatsu is a contemporary Japanese composer of classical music. He is well-known for composing the 2003 remake of “Astro Boy.” “Romance for Tree” is from “Tender Toys for Guitar” (1983-4), a series of 18 pieces for classical guitar.

“Waltz for Zizi” is a song from “Cowboy Bebop,” composed by Kanno and performed by the Seatbelts.

Giuliani was a leading guitar virtuoso of the early 19th century, as well as a cellist, singer and composer. His 150 compositions for guitar with opus number constitute the nucleus of the 19th-century guitar repertory.

The “Violin Partita No. 1” is a piece for solo violin Bach composed in 1720. It was written in his early days, when he hoped for a church position, though after being heard by Duke Johann Ernst, a court musician position was offered to him.

The “Gymnopédies,” published in Paris starting in 1888, are three piano compositions by French composer and pianist Satie. The piece’s unusual title comes from the French form of gymnopaedia, the ancient Greek word for an annual festival where young men danced naked – or unarmed. The melodies use deliberate, but mild, dissonances against the harmony, producing a piquant, melancholy effect.

“Danças populares brasileiras” is a set of short pieces for guitar quartet based on Brazilian dances by Machado, a Brazilian world music guitarist, percussionist and multi-instrumentalist.

FSU Chamber Singers, University Chorale and Troubadours Tenor-Bass Choir Present ‘So I’ll Sing With My Voice’

The FSU Chamber Singers, University Chorale and Troubadours Tenor-Bass Choir, under the direction of Dr. Scott Rieker, will present their fall choral concert, “So I’ll Sing With My Voice,” on Saturday, Nov. 16, at 7:30 p.m. They will be accompanied by pianist Dr. Joseph Yungen.

In this evening of music, the FSU Chamber Singers, University Chorale and Troubadours Tenor-Bass Choir will showcase the power and expressivity of the human voice in a multitude of contexts for singing, from celebration to worship to mourning to activism. The program will include pieces from major 20th- and 21st-century composers, along with earlier choral masterpieces, for this emotional journey in song.

Tickets will be available for purchase at the door (cash or credit card) and are $10 for general admission; $5 for seniors, veterans, and FSU faculty and staff; and free for students and children 12 and younger.
MSO Returns to FSU With ‘The American Symphony’

CES at FSU will once again present the award-winning Maryland Symphony Orchestra in its fall concert, “The American Symphony,” on Sunday, Nov. 17, at 3 p.m.

The spirited program includes a new fanfare composed by eminent African-American composer Kimo Williams to commemorate Elizabeth Schulze’s 20 years as MSO musical director; Antonín Leopold Dvořák’s powerful “Symphony No. 9, ‘From the New World,’” which evokes the rhythms and melodies of Native American and African-American songs and dances; and “First Symphony in E Minor” from Florence Price, the first African-American woman to have been recognized as a symphonic composer and the first to compose for a major American orchestra.

Two events complement the performance. At 2 p.m., Schulze will host “Prélude,” an interactive lecture about the works to be performed. Immediately before the performance, a flag dedication ceremony will be presented in Pealer Recital Hall by the Vietnam Veterans of America Chapter No. 172.

Performance tickets are $35 for adults and $12 for youth under 18. Military, package and group discount rates are also available. For info or to order tickets, visit CES’ web page at ces.frostburg.edu or contact the CES box office at 1-866-849-9237 or 301-687-3137. The box office, located in the FSU Lane University Center, is open Monday through Friday from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Jazz Combo to Perform in Fall Concert

FSU’s Department of Music will present its Jazz Combo Fall Concert on Monday, Nov. 18, at 7:30 p.m.

The program will feature director Tom Harrison on bass guitar, Hanna Livingston on trumpet and violin, Sean Reeser on saxophones, Marshall Borleis on guitar and Ryan Barber on drums.

“Airegin” is a jazz standard that American jazz saxophonist Rollins composed in 1954.

The harmonic “Steps” is from Corea’s 1968 album “Now He Sings, Now He Sobs.” Downbeat magazine awarded the LP zero stars; the reviewer refused to rate it because he didn’t know what to make of it.

“How High the Moon” is a jazz standard that was first featured in the 1940 Broadway revue “Two for the Show.”

“Mr. P.C.” is a 12-bar jazz piece in minor blues form that Coltrane composed in 1959. The song is named in tribute to the bass player Paul Chambers. It first appeared on the album “Giant Steps” where it was played with a fast swing feel.

A jazz standard written in 1953, “Satin Doll” has been recorded by Ella Fitzgerald, 101 Strings, Terry Callier and Nancy Wilson. Its unusual chord progression is well-known.

“Scrapple From the Apple” is a bebop composition from 1947. The song borrows its chord progression from “Honeysuckle Rose.” This was a common practice for Parker, since he based many of his successful tunes over already well-known chord changes.

The melancholy soliloquy, “Once I Loved” or “Love in Peace” (“Uma vez eu amei”), is a bossa nova jazz standard composed in 1960. After Sinatra’s 1967 recording, the song became one of Jobim’s best-known and most-covered compositions.

The heavily blues-based “Totem Pole” is from “The Sidewinder,” a 1964 album by jazz trumpeter Morgan.

“My Foolish Heart” is a popular song and jazz standard that Martha Mears performed in the 1949 film of the same name. It was nominated for the Academy Award for Best Original Song in that year.

Evening of Jazz Features FSU Jazz Orchestra in ‘Come Together’

FSU’s Department of Music will present its Evening of Jazz with the FSU Jazz Orchestra, conducted by Dr. Brent Weber, on Friday, Nov. 22, at 7:30 p.m. The program, titled “Come Together,” will feature several Beatles’ songs.

The Jazz Orchestra will perform “Come Together” by John Lennon and Paul McCartney, arranged by Mike Tomaro; “Cute” by Neal Hefti; “Eleanor Rigby” by Lennon and McCartney, arranged by Eric Richards; “Blue in Green” by Miles Davis, arranged by Les Hooper; “Samba del Gringo” by Gordon Goodwin; “Blackbird” by Lennon and McCartney, arranged by Tomaro; “Human Nature” by Michael Jackson, arranged by Tomaro; and “Chu Cho” by Paquito D’Rivera, transcribed by Myles Collins.

“Come Together,” the opening track on The Beatles’ 1969 album “Abbey Road,” started as John Lennon’s attempt to write a song for Timothy Leary’s campaign for governor of California against Ronald Reagan. Released as a single, the song reached the top of the charts in the U.S.

“Cute” is one of the great tracks from the Count Basie band of the 1950s, and one of a series written and arranged for the band by Hefti.

“Eleanor Rigby” released on The Beatles’ 1966 album “Revolver” and as a single with “Yellow Submarine,” continued the transformation of the group’s music from mainly rock and roll and pop to more experimental, studio-based work.
“Blue in Green” is one of two ballads on Miles Davis’ 1959 album, “Kind of Blue.” Its melody is very modal, incorporating the Dorian, Mixolydian and Lydian modes.

Hot Latin sounds emanate from “Samba del Gringo” from Goodwin’s Grammy-nominated CD, “Big Phat Band – Swingin’ for the Fences.” Flute and trumpet are featured at the beginning of the playful melody, but the entire ensemble gets a chance to “cut loose” on this powerful piece.

“Blackbird” is from The Beatles’ 1968 double album, “The Beatles” (“The White Album”). McCartney has said that the lyrics were inspired by hearing the call of a blackbird in Rishikesh, India, as well as the unfortunate state of race relations in the U.S. in the 1960s.

“Human Nature” is a 1982 song performed by Jackson, and the fifth single from his landmark sixth solo album, “Thriller.” McCartney has said that the lyrics were inspired by hearing the call of a blackbird in Rishikesh, India, as well as the unfortunate state of race relations in the U.S. in the 1960s.

“Chu Cho” is a wonderful Latin number D’Rivera wrote for Mario Bauza and his Afro-Cuban Orchestra that “simply oozes style.”

Student performers include Caitlyn Rund, Alex McNemar, Sean Reeser, Ayanna McDonald and Josh Foreman on the saxophones; Brice Simpson, Hanna Livingston, Nikki Kehl, Grace Cain and Allison Russo on trumpets; and DeAndre Cook, Arran Mills, David Hurt, Grace LaCourt and Casey Swartz on trombones. The rhythm section consists of Shawn Zimmerman on guitar, Andrew Hartnett on piano, Spencer Schading on bass, Ryan Barber and Kamonte Johnson on drumsets, Blaine Becker on drumset/vibes and Nora Kopit on vibraphone.

Admission is $10 for adults; $5 for seniors, members of the military, and FSU faculty and staff; $3 for students; and free for children 12 and younger. Tickets are available at the door. Cash and credit cards are accepted.

FSU’s First Solar-Powered Bench Can Charge Your Phone

Brandon Matthews makes a call while charging his phone as he sits on the solar-powered Soofa bench recently installed on the Ort Library deck.

FSU’s first solar-powered Soofa bench has been installed not just for sitting, but also for charging devices. The new addition is on the balcony of the Lewis J. Ort Library.

At first glance the “smart bench” looks like it is connected to some sort of gaming device. On closer inspection, those are solar-powered charging ports. Students can now enjoy the outdoors while working on some homework, talking with a friend or just soaking in the view from the balcony without the fear of running out of power.

Soofa is a solar-powered bench that provides free outdoor charging for mobile devices and location-based information like air quality and noise levels by uploading environmental sensor data to soofa.co. The smart urban furniture was developed by Changing Environments, a MIT Media Lab spin-off.

Dr. Natalia Buta, chair of the Department of Kinesiology and Recreation, was awarded an FSU Sustainability Grant to support the purchase and installation of the solar-powered bench. Students from the Recreation and Parks Management Park and Facility Design class and the FSU Maintenance team determined the best location.

Urban parks across the U.S. are starting to integrate such benches in their design of spaces, because these benches save energy while offering a renewable energy source.
