In response to the COVID-19 health crisis, FSU will be teaching remotely for the balance of the spring 2020 semester. Since our students are away from campus, refunds of residential campus housing, board and mandatory fees are appropriate.

At this time, FSU’s University and Student Billing Office is working to determine the amount of the refund due to each student based on which residential campus housing and meal plan was purchased. Also, FSU is refunding a pro-rated portion of mandatory fees. This process will take some time to determine if funds should be returned to the student directly or to a third party. We are not refunding course fees and technology fees since courses are continuing online.

When the refund amount is determined, the amount will be credited to each student’s account, and you will be notified in the next 7 to 10 days of the date when this credit will occur. (Refunds for Edgewood Commons are on a different schedule. We will share Edgewood Commons’ refund schedule as soon as it is available.) A range of options will be available for your refund. Those refund options will be explained at a future date as clarification is received from the State of Maryland.

We are working with the State Treasurer’s Office to complete these transactions. Please watch your emails for continuing information.
